

Palm Beach Life

A vintage photograph of a tropical garden. In the foreground, a swimming pool with lily pads is visible. To the left, there's a patio with a large umbrella and several chairs. In the background, there are palm trees, a stone path, and a statue of a person on the right. The overall scene is lush and tropical.

The Colony, Palm Beach, Florida

THE Colony

3 PENTHOUSES, 100 beautifully decorated rooms, completely air-conditioned. Reminiscent of the old southern mansions and yet one of the most modern buildings in Palm Beach, the COLONY is an important focal point of interest for the social life of the resort. In line with traditional southern hospitality, the COLONY has the atmosphere and appointments of an exclusive club rather than a hotel. The "hallmark" of the hotel is quality, gracious and individualized service.

THE COLONY Terrace Club features gourmet dishes, music and entertainment.

THE COLONY is strategically located to all activities and the smart Worth Avenue shops.

SOCIAL NOTES FROM JAMAICA

PRINCE FERDINAND of Liechtenstein and the Princess, the former Mrs. Herman Oelrichs, are occupying "Quarterdeck," a villa owned by Mrs. Sheila Bryce-Byrne, on the North shore of Jamaica, B.W.I., between Oracabessa and Ocho Rios, through March.

Lord Lyle of London, who has extensive sugar plantations in Jamaica, B.W.I., has bought a house on the coast road near Reading, Montego Bay, and expects to live there during his retirement. He adds that he does not intend to retire "while the nationalization battle is on."

Miss Yvonne Sherman, of White Plains, U. S. figure skating champion, and Mr. Arthur Charles McGowan, Jr., to whom she was married recently, flew to Montego Bay, Jamaica, B.W.I., on their honeymoon.

Princess Scherbatow and Mrs. Donald de Lisser, of 270 Park Avenue, New York, will occupy "Wyndways," Ivor Novello's home at Reading, near Montego Bay, B.W.I., during February and March.

Miss Helen Harrington Boyd, of 212 East 48th Street, New York, has returned from a two weeks' tour of the island of Jamaica, B.W.I., where she visited Casa Blanca, Shaw Park, Tower Isle, the Titchfield, and the Manor House.

Captain Clive Arbuthnot, R.N., retired, and Mrs. Arbuthnot, of Surrey, England, who are enjoying a month's holiday at Casa Blanca hotel, Montego Bay, Jamaica, B.W.I., have bought property near St. Ann's Bay, on the island's North Shore, and will build a winter home there in the near future. Captain Arbuthnot formerly was the British naval commandant at Port Said.

Sir William and Lady Wiseman, of New York and London, have opened "Content," their home at Reading, near Montego Bay, Jamaica, B.W.I., where they will spend the winter. Sir William will keep in touch with his Wall Street office via the ocean telephone and occasional trips by plane, thanks to the new 7½ hour schedules by air.

Count and Countess Vladimer Markowski, with their young children, Elizabeth and Alexander, of Pebble Beach, California, who have been guests at Tower Isle Hotel, Jamaica, during the past three months, are continuing their visit for an indefinite period.

A little Inn of quiet dignity
and charm

"The most wonderful air in the world," said Mark Twain after a season in Dublin. Altitude 1500 feet. Situated at the foot of Grand Monadnock Mt., Dublin is the third highest village east of the Rocky Mountains. Considered one of the most unique summer colonies in the east. Aside from its location and beautiful, picturesque surroundings, it offers superb golf, tennis, swimming and riding.

The Inn is charming and run in excellent taste. Summer sojourn for many Palm Beachers.

Cat Key Club

AS THE SEASON ADVANCES in this Bahamian resort, an increasing number of smart craft drop anchor in Pirates Cove Harbour. This Harbour is protected by a new breakwater, and the channel has been recently deepened so that yachts having a draft of seven feet can come in at low tide and those drawing nine feet can come in at high tide.

Plans are being completed for the Fifth Annual Fort Lauderdale-Cat Cay Yacht Race, scheduled to start from the Mainland on Friday, January 26th. About 20 top flight yachts will participate in this event.

Graceful III, motor sailor, with owners, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene J. Hynes, New Rochelle, N. Y., aboard, after a stay of several days at Cay Cay set sail across the Gulf Stream to return to their Florida Gold Coast berth at the Biltmore Hotel in Palm Beach. With them at Cat Cay were their sons, Eugene, J., Jr., a Georgetown University law student, and Barry Hynes, a Georgetown junior. The Senior Hynes, who plan another stay in Cat Cay soon, will be seen at the Everglades Club frequently during their visit in Palm Beach.

Yacht Maintenon with Mr. and Mrs. Frederic H. Strawbridge, Jr. of Wynnwood, Penna. aboard is tied up at the Cat Cay dock. Also aboard are the Misses Alexandra, Elizabeth and Fredrica Strawbridge. Yacht Maianita is here for several days. Aboard are owners, Mr. and Mrs. W. Jim Roberts of Indianapolis, also winter residents in Miami Beach, where they are members of the Surf Club. With them are their debutante daughter, Miss Mariana Roberts, student in Graham-Eckes school, Palm Beach, and son, Jimmie Robert. Mr. and Mrs. Lee Ault, New Canaan, Conn., Miss Fifi and Lee, Jr., who have been staying at the Cat Key Club, departed aboard their Sloop Manana for Nassau, where they have a cottage. The Delmar L. Kraehlers of Chicago, and daughter, Miss Jane Kraehler, who are cruising Bahamian waters aboard their Yacht Lark, recently joined the Yacht colony at Cat Cay.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Pew, Jr., Bryn Mawr, Penna., accompanied by their youngsters, Shelagh and Dick, are arriving today at Cat Cay, where they will be in residence in their cottage for the season. Their yacht, Mercury V, will anchor in Pirates Cove Harbour in this resort.

IT'S HERE AGAIN! Another Palm Beach season! And from all appearances it will be a gala one. Snow-birds from the north, seeking refuge in tropical settings, began their annual trek south early this year. Most of the elaborate ocean front villas were opened before Christmas, and gala parties there served to usher in the New Year.

Palm Beach hostesses are marking their engagement calendars with special occasions planned for house guests, of whom there are many. Gala cocktail parties and intimate dinners are the mediums for entertainment, and pool-side gatherings are forms of daily relaxation.

New Year's Eve, Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wrightsman gave a large dance at their ocean front villa. Multi-colored lights illuminated the gardens and terrace where guests danced to the early hours of the morning. Before the dance, Mr. Charles A. Munn entertained a group for dinner at "Amado," where he had as holiday guests Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dubonnet and his daughter Anne, who came down from New York.

Countess Laura Dorelis, who was an early arrival at her home on Adam Road has entertained at small dinners. Her holiday guest was Mr. Gerald Gordon of New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blabon 2d gave a large cocktail buffet at their home on Barton Avenue to entertain friends and also a group of the young crowd who were here for the holiday festivities. Young crowds who were here for the holiday festivities as always in Palm Beach, gathered for dinner, are continuing to add verve to the early season. Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody gave a dinner recently at her home on Via Del Lago. Mr. Herbert Pulitzer entertained at a number of dinners recently at his home on Wells Road, "Sans Souci," the Ocean Ridge villa of Mr. and Mrs. Foster Milliken was the setting for a dinner when the Millikens entertained a group of colonists. The Hamilton Pells gave a dinner which complimented Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sonquist on the occasion of their first wedding anniversary. Mr. and Mrs. Sonquist, who live at New York, were married here last year at the Pell home.

"Sunshine," the Hunt Tilford Dickinson villa on Barton Avenue, lent itself as the setting for a dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Dickinson entertained friends.

Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry Jr. entertained at a cocktail party at their home on Emerald Lane. The gala affair served to honor two occasions: the birthday anniversary of Mr. Perry and a housewarming for their new home on Emerald Lane.

In welcome to their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lachlan Reed of Andover, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson Sweatt gave a cocktail party for the young married set at "Windansea," their seaside villa. The Granville O. Barclays were hosts at a dinner at their home on Garden Avenue. Later this winter, Mr. and Mrs. Barclay will go to Honolulu and return here in the spring.

Mrs. George Alexander McKinlock, who summered in Saratoga and visited at White Sulphur Springs and Boston, arrived in October at "Casa Alejandro," her home in Vita Serena, where she had as an early season guest Princess Laura Rospigliosi. The princess is now at the Royal Palm Inn where she has an apartment.

Mrs. Alexander Dallas Bache Pratt came down in December from New York where she was for the summer. Her granddaughter, Chesley Harding, who attends the Rosarian Academy, is with her at "Villa Sonia" for the winter.

Mr. and Mrs. George S. Ross were here in November at their home on Clarke Avenue. They summered at Wequeton-sing, Mich., and passed the spring and autumn months at Cleveland, Ohio. With them for the holidays were their sons, George S. Ross Jr. who goes to Yale University and Walter L. Ross 2d who attends St. Paul's School at Concord, N. H.

Mr. and Mrs. LeRay Berdeau, who summered at Southampton and in Maine, are again at "Villa Today," their home on Via Bellaria. Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry, who were abroad during the summer, are at their home on Barton Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Van Pelt Quackenbush came in mid-November to occupy "Long Shadows," their home on Tangier Avenue where they have as guests their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Van Pelt Quackenbush Jr. of Clarks Summit, who were accompanied by their small children.

Mrs. Frank Vernon Skiff is at "Casa Marcheta" where she has as her guest for the season Mrs. Blanche Clark of New York. Mrs. Skiff came down in November having passed the summer at "Woodlawns," her place at Short Hills, N. J.

Mrs. Margaret Emerson came from New York to be the guest of Mr. and Mrs. William M. Greve at their home on Via Bellaria. The Greves were absent from the Palm Beach scene last year when they were in Africa. Here for the first time in two years is Mrs. Margaret Giblin Miller who has

of Winnetka, Ill., photographed upon their return from a two months trip to England and Africa. The Wares have a winter home on the Seminole Golf Club grounds. Mr. Ware, president of the International Minerals and Chemical Corporation of Chicago, is also a member of the board of directors of the First National Bank of Chicago, the Illinois Central Railroad and Air Reduction Company.

taken a house on Brazilian Avenue for the season. Mr. and Mrs. Rodney Procter came down the first week in January to occupy their house on Banyan Road, having spent the summer at "Orleton Farm," their place at Stockbridge, Mass. Mr. and Mrs. Alexander H. Rutherford arrived in late December to their ocean front home, having been at Cape Vincent, N. Y., for the summer. Mr. and Mrs. Alfons B. Landa of Washington were holiday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Paulding Fosdick at their home on Jungle Road, where Mrs. Fosdick's daughter, Miss Emily Davie was also a Yuletide guest.

Maj.-Gen. and Mrs. Ralph K. Robertson are at "Casa Della Porta," their home on Via Del Mar, for the season. Mr. Ogden Phipps spent a brief time with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Carnegie Phipps at "Heamaw." Mr. and Mrs. John S. Phipps were at "Casa Bendita" earlier in the season but went to Tallahassee, where they have a plantation, for the holidays.

Opening her house this month was Mrs. Wesson Seyburn who was at Grosse Pointe during the summer. Her sister, Mrs. Dodge Sloan who spends much of her time at Aiken, S. C., will be her guest this winter at "Casa Giravento." Mr. and Mrs. John H. Packard of Philadelphia are occupying their home on Sunset Avenue. Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Drexel Duke are living, this season, in Mrs. John G. Tennent 3d's house on Grace Trail. Mrs. Duke's father, Mr. Lucius Pond Ordway is at his lakefront home on Banyan Road.

Society of the Four Arts

"GAY, SPARKLING, and well chosen and hung," was the description of the Four Art's Annual by judge of the show, Alfred H. Barr Jr., Director of the Museum of Modern Art.

The annual members' show which ushered in the Society of the Four Art's season in mid-December represented sixty-four artists with an exhibit that included eighty-five oils, watercolors and sculpture. Mr. Barr, who came to Palm Beach at the invitation of Mrs. Paul Moore, chairman of the Four Art's art committee, awarded nine prizes and three honorable mentions with the William H. Donner first prize for oils going to Luke Gwilliam for an expressionistic canvas entitled "Baucis and Philemon."

Gertrude Schweitzer (Mrs. William P.) was winner of the second award in oil, contributed by the Society. Mr. Barr in adjudging the Schweitzer canvas said it was "beautifully handled in forthright simplicity."

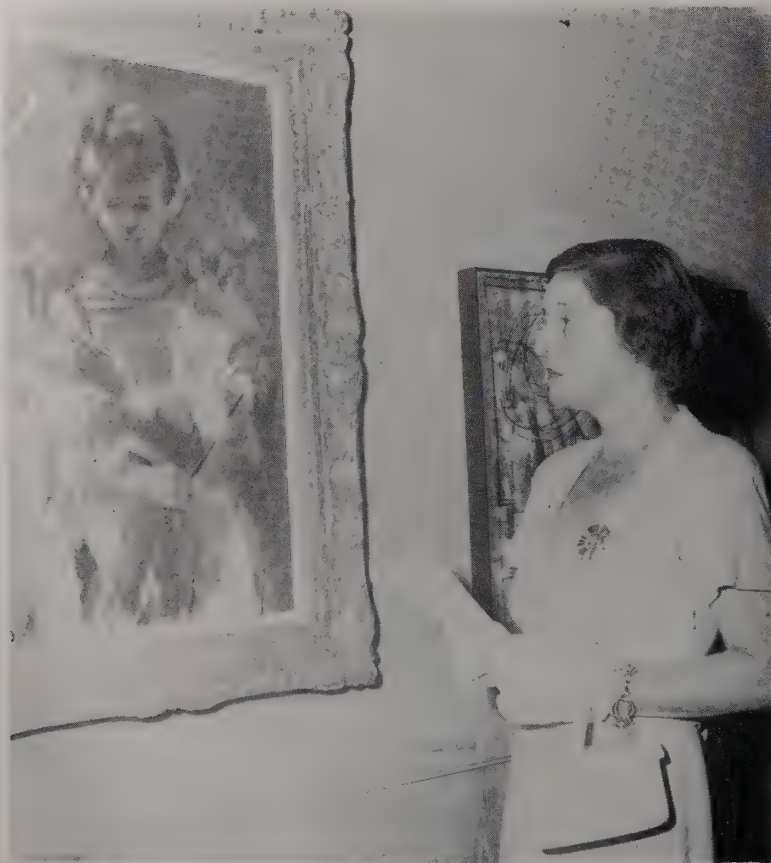

Mrs. Schweitzer who is a frequent exhibitor in Palm Beach and also a winter resident of the resort, is to have a one-man show at Grand Central Moderns in March.

Winner of the number one oil award last year she graciously returned the monetary value of the honor which was used in this year's John Elliott Memorial Award for the best piece of sculpture.

A third prize in the oil group went to George S. Greene for a highly polished, non-objective canvas which Mr. Barr described as embodying depth, emotion and mystery.

Mr. Greene, a teacher of art at the Lawrenceville School in New Jersey, is now on Sabbatical leave in Mexico.

In the watercolor group, Ann Ryan of New York won the Channing Hare first prize for her non-objective collage; Stanley Bate, the second honor, contributed by Mrs. Harold Fowler. His paper portrayed "City At Night" and was intricate and non-objective; and to Miss Annette Krauss, a Palm Beach winter resident who has been making commendable headway in her medium, went the third award, a Four Art's-contributed prize.

For sculpture, number one honor was announced for Anne Gatewood Van Kleeck for her ingeniously contrived "Octopus," and to Joseph B. Bishir for "The Masque."

Designated as winner of a new prize this year (the Mrs. William L. McKim Honorable Mention to a Palm Beach County artist) was Harold Voessler for "My Friend's Home"—a traditional painting of sincerity and intimacy. Mr. Voessler is a Palm Beach artist and both he and his wife Frances Voessler who exhibited a small, arresting nude in the Annual, are often times represented in local shows.

Willis F. Woods, director of the Norton Gallery and School of Art received honorable mention for a watercolor, Jose de Creeft for a monumental piece of sculpture loaned by Mrs. Owen R. Skelton of Palm Beach, also Minerva Goldsmith and Ulfert S. Wilkie for watercolors, and John Tripp, a local resident for a small oil.

Other oil exhibitors were Dean Bowman, Mina Citron, Donald Coale, Bernice Cross, Jean deBotton, Elizabeth DeUrzaiz, Robert Draper, Allison Dodds Foster, Jeanette Genius, Helen D'Auburt Hall, Mildred Hayward, Madeline Hewes, Dorothy Leech, Janet MacFarlane, James McLaughlin, High F. McKean, Goldie Paley, Elizabeth Parker, Fuller Potter, V. Lucia Quintero, Mary B. Rogers, Leon Polk Smith, Theda Tilton, Frances Voessler and Edna K. Warner.

Additional watercolorists who showed were Veronica Corrington, Marilyn Downes-Bennett, Grace Martin Frame, Robert Franklin Gates, Marion Howe, Eliot O'Hara, Isabel Phillips, John St. John, of Sarasota; Marion Terry and Elizabeth Warren.

And in the sculpture group other exhibitors were Ann Norton (Mrs. Ralph H.), Ouida Romanoff, Lorrie Goulet and Marilyn Downes-Bennett.

A new president of the Four Arts, elected in December, is Col. Harold Fowler. He succeeds Dr. Matthew T. Mellon who was first named to that post in 1947. Dr. Mellon tendered his resignation in early December since he would be unable to be in Palm Beach this season.

Col. Fowler, who resides with Mrs. Fowler in El Brillo

A veteran of both Wars I and II, Col. Fowler distinguished himself in service in the European Theatre of Operations. He is holder of the D.S.M. and D.S.O., the Military Cross and British C.M.G. (Commander, Order of St. Michael and St. George).

Members of the board of directors, who elected Col. Fowler, also passed a resolution accepting the resignation of Dr. Mellon "with deep regret."

In addition to accepting the Presidency of the Four Arts, Col. Fowler is also chairman of the lecture committee and it is due to his efforts and those of his committee that an outstanding series of speakers will be heard this year.

Vincent Sheean, who launched the lecture program, spoke Dec. 19 on "India After Gandhi." His vast knowledge of the great Indian leader was introduced reverently into his talk.

Other speakers who will be presented in the series include Marx Leva, assistant secretary of defense, on Jan. 9; Rear Admiral Ellis M. Zacharias (Ret.) on Jan. 23; Andre Maurois, Jan. 30; Ogden Nash, Feb. 7; Lowell Thomas Jr., Feb. 20; The Sitwells—Dr. Edith and Sir Osbert—on Feb. 27; Sumner Welles, Mar. 6; David Lilienthal, Mar. 13; Walter Pach, Mar. 20, and Henry J. Taylor on Mar. 27.

Thirty-two paintings, twenty of them from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, are now currently gracing the walls of the Four Arts gallery. Entitled "Portraits, Figures and Landscapes of the Past," the collection covers a range of art and artists from the mid-fifteenth century right up to 1900—to Cezanne and Redon.

Arranged for through effort on the part of Mrs. Paul Moore, chairman of the art and sculpture committee, it is also of local interest that the only Cezanne in the show was lent by Leonard Hanna, Mrs. Moore's brother.

Four important works are pictured here—a Cranach, earliest of the artists included, Ingres, Courbet, and our own Winslow Homer.

Dwelling largely on old masters the show features the very early realists and carries on to almost the last of them. It is a show that is mellow, stately in part and altogether delightful and pleasing to the eye.

There are fine examples of the Dutch School, of the School of Fontainebleau springing out of Leonardo da Vinci's visit there under Francis I, and good representatives of the English School include Bonnington and Hoppner.

Lenders who have made the exhibition possible are in addition to the Metropolitan Museum and Mr. Hanna, M. Knoedler & Co., Jacques Seligman & Co., E. and A. Silberman Galleries, Inc., and Wildenstein & Co., Inc.

Theme of Livable Resort Home Combines Old Charm—New Dash

A PLEASANT HOME at the edge of Lake Worth—Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody's has style—style based on orderly thinking and a love of the old that is genuine and full of lore.

A Maurice Fatio gem formerly owned by the Persifor Frazers, Mrs. Peabody purchased it last spring after she returned to Chicago. Much of the planning had to be done long-distance, and even now not quite the way she intends when the final picture is complete, there still is great charm in abundance about the premises.

There has been no remodeling, and no redesigning but the appointments and furnishings brought by Mrs. Peabody from Chicago achieve a picture that denotes a background for quiet, well-bred living. Reproduced here are photos of the dining room, living room, patio, loggia and terrace.

Light-toned rugs cover the floors and walls and ceilings blend in soft tones that are kind to the radiant sunshine of this locale.

Two of the rarest pieces decorate the dining room and Mrs. Peabody's eyes sparkle as she tells you about them.

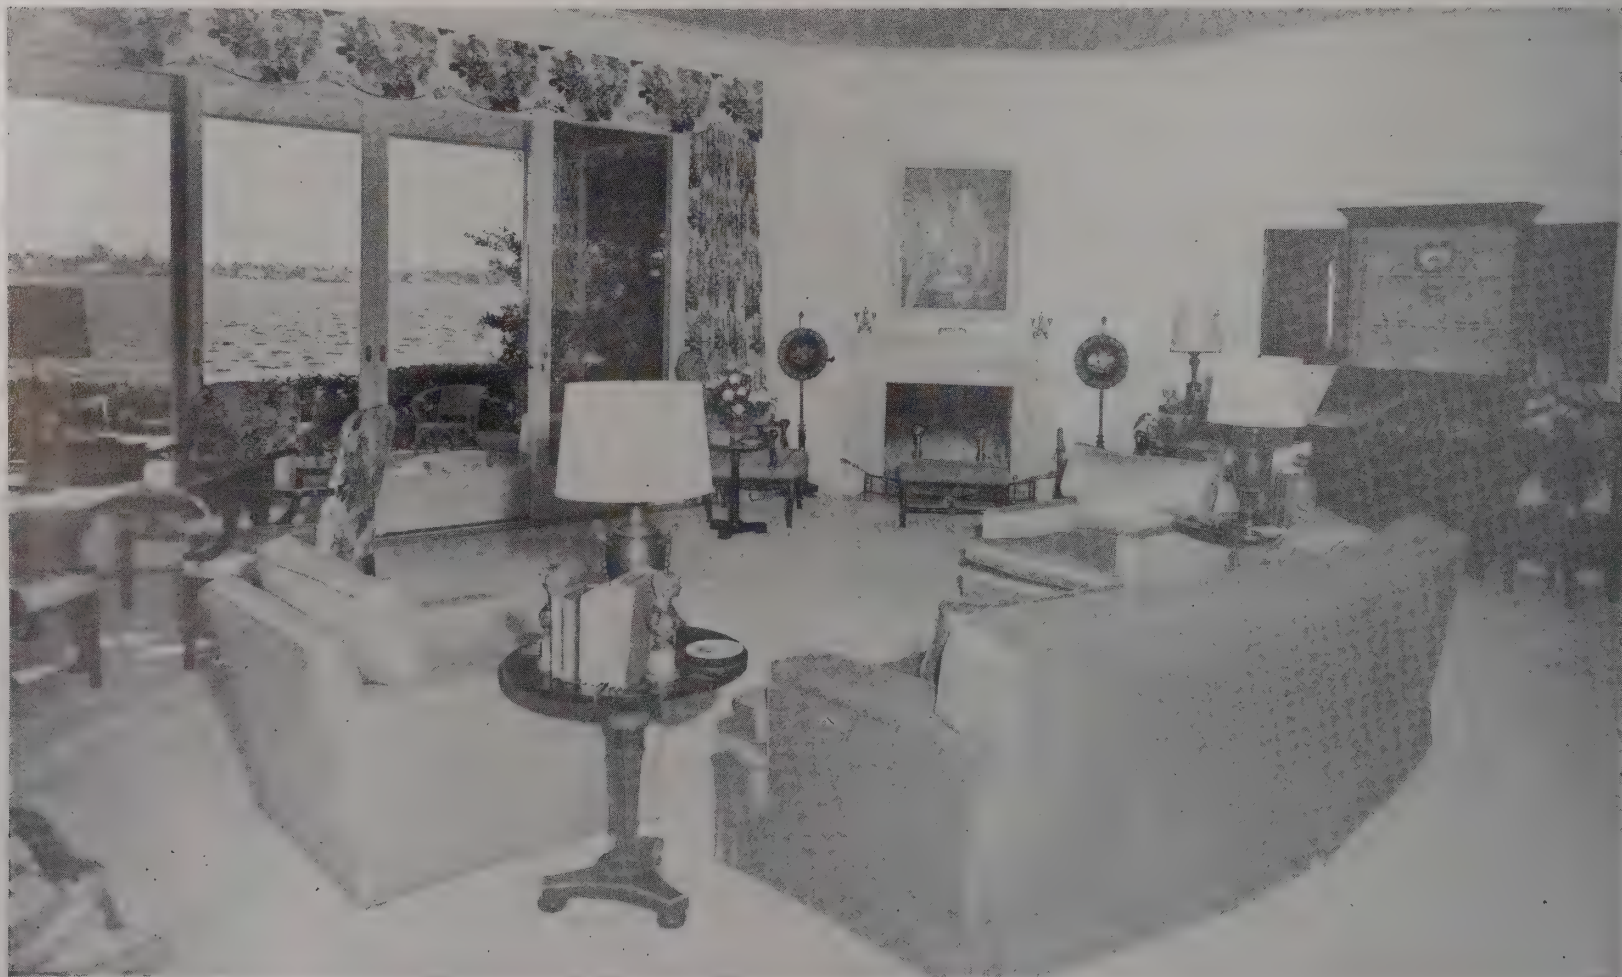

Biedermeier chest—perhaps it might have been called a cupboard in the old fashioned days is lined with an old print and some fine old Spode rests on the shelves.

Soft grey walls and matching window hangings edged with coral are a delightful background for the Regency fruitwood dining table and chairs.

In one corner of the room is the second precious piece—a sea captain's chest. Probably used by a salty old boy of His Majesty's Navy, the compartments hold hand-blown glass bottles, ever so deftly and delicately decorated with gold leaf. There are but four glasses (two for wine and two for a bit of a stronger aperitif) indicating that old captains lift-for-a-low-moment was shared with not more than one guest at a time.

Adjoining the dining room the spacious living room with French windows opening onto a terrace overlooking Lake Worth links the past with the present through the superb combination of modern upholstered and period furniture.

Low-slung deep-seated sofas of today's best craftsmanship and upholstered in soft light grey blend harmoniously with two Scottish Queen Anne chairs at either side of the fireplace above which hangs a family portrait of Stuyvesant Peabody, Jr.

Over an elegant chest of Regency hangs a rare barometer—about 1790 that would create a stir in the heart of an antiquarian. In this room Mrs. Peabody also features strawberry glaze, old English porcelain and Staffordshire decorating a mahogany what-not on the south wall.

Toby jugs . . . very different, are a favorite of Mrs. Peabody's. One that is eye-catching depicts old Peter Stuyvesant in a utilitarian type of jug. His peg-leg forms a spout, his good one a handle.

Flower-print draperies set off the Peabody living room and fresh flowers in elegant vases reflect a love of plants and gardening.

The house is built about a patio where palms and bouganvillea stand forth in freshness and glowing health. The patio is formal with white-painted wrought iron appointments and myriads of sub-tropical plants.

Recessed to the north of the patio is the delightful

Coral curtains of canvas give a note of informal charm to the loggia. And at every turn, even here, there are conversation pieces from authentic ichthyological prints to a cigarette box of free-hand paint done by Mrs. Peabody.

loggia, its walls of pale blue are decorated with prints of fish. Clipped from a very old ichthyological encyclopedia, the collection contains every known fish in American waters . . . and to make it all the more interesting, the mistress of 179 Via del Lago has a key to the specimens.

Here the luncheon table is of coral to match the canvas curtains that separate patio and loggia, and on a serving table nearby a pretty picture is formed by pale rose-pink petal shells arranged in a many-tiered compote.

A portion of the loggia forms a small sitting room with upholstered bamboo chairs. An interesting old French coal skuttle of hammered brass holds a wide-leafed plant, two snappy silver lustre roosters of Italian brand decorate one of the lamp tables and inciting curiosity is a cigarette box covered with facsimiles of known-brands in needle point. Done in free hand, it's Mrs. Peabody's work. Besides collecting and knowing the gems of craftsmen who are immortalized for their creation of the genuine, she is a needle point enthusiast.

The Peabody home is a reflection of quiet beauty that embodies meticulous handiwork and artistry.

Mrs. Peabody is responsible for the decor. Bringing together the things she loves, both of her own choice, and gifts of friends and relatives, she has done a job that sets upon her home a stamp of originality, very personal, in the most pleasing taste, and surely conducive to relaxed and gracious living.

THE NEW COLONY TERRACE CLUB

which has become a focal point of interest for smart after-dark dining and dancing. For members only, it is one of the most exclusive of the supper-club rendezvous in Palm Beach. In line with the interior decorating of the hotel, the decor is modern, highlighted by colorful and distinctive murals of old Florida. Famous names of the theatre and smart night club world, will be featured in the entertainment program throughout the season.

The Colony Hotel

THE NEWLY-OPENED COLONY Terrace Club is rapidly becoming one of the popular rendezvous for fastidious winter colonists. For members only, it is analogous to the smart supper clubs in the metropolitan cities . . . plus an exclusive tropical atmosphere.

In modern decor, echoing the architecture and interior decorating of the hotel, attractive murals depicting old Florida scenes enhance the setting. Gourmet dishes, music that is both "listenable and danceable" and entertainment by top names in the theatrical and night club world, will be featured throughout the season.

The Colony, only three years old and under the management of Mr. Bernard Cooley, has the atmosphere of a club rather than a hotel. Reminiscent of the lovely old Southern mansions featured in literature, the theatre and music, and yet one of the most modern structures in the resort, gracious and individualized service is the theme throughout. The welfare of the guests is of paramount importance and the various services and entertainment take their cue from this angle.

The spacious and smartly decorated penthouse apartments atop the hotel have all the privacy and appointments of an oceanside villa; "patio" dining room and "terrace garden" for out-of-doors tropical living. The view of Palm Beach and environs from this vantage point is one of the most picturesque in the resort. The hundred rooms and the three penthouses of The Colony are air-conditioned and also equipped for heating. Both the architecture and the interior decorating of the entire hotel follow the modern trend, with emphasis on smart simplicity.

Many noted personages of the social, business and industrial worlds, have made The Colony their winter home during the past several years of its existence and according to this year's reservations, the number will be greatly increased. Among current residents are Her Highness, the Maharani of Baroda, and her young son, Prince Sayajirao of Baroda House, New Delhi, India, who plan to spend the entire season here. The beautiful Maharani is one of the most interesting women in Palm Beach; wearing her native Indian sari, she is an exotic contrast to the casual fashions prevalent in the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Claude Durham Smith of Biltmore Forest, N. C., are again at The Colony for their winter holidays.

MR. STANTON GRIFFIS

of New York, newly appointed Ambassador to Spain and former Ambassador to Poland, Egypt and Argentina. Mr. Griffis, a frequent visitor in Palm Beach, spent the holiday season at The Colony, before leaving for his new appointment in Spain.

Mrs. J. A. Bower of New York City; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Spencer of Miami; Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Stern and Mr. William Stern of Fargo, North Dakota; Mr. and Mrs. Max Pray of Chicago, Ill.

Other Colony guests who were here during December and who will return later in the season: Mrs. Lawrence Tibbett of New York, wife of the famous Metropolitan Opera star; Mr. and Mrs. W. Everett Cady of Manhattan; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Keating, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. John Dorrance, Jr., Gladwyn, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. J. Peter Grace, Jr., Great Neck, L. I.; Mr. P. A. B. Widener III of Lexington, Ky.

Unlike the majority of hotels and clubs in Palm Beach, The Colony is open all-year-round and during its several years of operation has enjoyed successful summer and winter seasons. Because of its close proximity to the beach, Worth Avenue shopping district and "miniature wall street" business offices, it is one of the most strategically located hostleries in the resort. It is also easily accessible to the various beach and golf clubs for patrons who like exercise with their Florida sunshine.

Included in the winter agenda, are a number of dramatic fashion shows, with the new Colony Terrace Club as the effective setting; to be presented during luncheon and also glamorous evening shows, accented with special entertainment.

The Colony cuisine, which has become a conversation piece in Palm Beach, features French and American dishes, with special concoctions in the "piece de resistance" category each day. The luncheon and dinner menus are as varied as they are delectable; served in the gracious and hospitable manner for which the South and this hotel are noted. Winter residents find it a delightful atmosphere for luncheon and dinner parties . . . the answer to "a home away from home."

Fashion Critics Award is Presented for Notable Contribution to Style

CHARLES JAMES, young Chicago-born dress designer and stormy petrel of fashion and Bonnie Cashin, a native Californian noted for gay and witty casual and sports creations, have received the 8th annual American Fashion Critics' Award. This distinction considered the top honor in the American fashion world, is given annually to fashion designers whose work during the year has had a significant effect on the style cycle.

The award trophy, a bronze "Winnie" analogous to the "Oscar" of cinema fame, was designed by Malvina Hoffman, noted American sculptor. A representative example of each al citations of special merit were made at the same time to: Ceil Chapman, for her young American party dresses; Helen Morgan, dressmaker raincoats; Carolyn Schnurer, originality of design in bathing suits; Wallace Mackey, play shoes; Morris Wolock, for creating the "flat" shoe "Shank's Mare"; Nina Wolf, creative design in jewelry; Brooke Cadwallader, for the originality and beauty of his scarfs and their importance in fashion.

Four equal awards were presented in 1947 to Nettie Rosenstein, Mark Mooring, Jack Horwitz and Adele Simpson. Hattie Carnegie was the recipient of the American winning designer's work is also presented to the Costume Institute of the Metropolitan Museum of Art, as part of the Contemporary Costume Collection.

Founded in 1942 by Coty Inc. the following designers have won the coveted award through the intervening years. In 1943, the first award—Norman Norell of Traina-Norell; second—Lilly Dache and John Frederics. Eight citations for specific fashions which provided strong influence for the year 1942 within wartime restrictions were made to: Adrian, for V-line suit silhouette; Hattie Carnegie, the short evening dress; Clare Potter, trend-setting ruffled blouse; Charles Cooper, the drawstring drape; Mainbocher, for the lumber-jacket suit; Claire McCardell, the "Popover" dress (ingenious work dress for housewives); Valentina, for the skirt with trouser pleats. There was also an additional citation for the Chesterfield coat and all designers who helped launch the practical wartime fashion.

Clare McCardell was given the first award in 1944; Sally Victor, second and Phelps Associates, third. In 1945, the "Winnie" was received by Gilbert Adrian, Tina Leser and Emily Wilkens; in 1946, three equal awards to Clare Potter, Omar Kiam and Vincent Monte-Sano. Seven addition-

Winners of citations or special awards, received silver plaques. These were presented in 1950 (the 8th annual affair) to Mabel and Charles Julianelli, young shoe designing team and Nancy Melcher, designer of nylon lingerie.

Charles James and Bonnie Cashin, who received top honors in the current Fashion Critics' Award ceremony at the Waldorf-Astoria, New York, are well-known creators of style. Mr. James, whose clients are among the most distinguished women in both America and Europe, is the son of a British army officer, educated in the States and England. His fashion career began in Chicago when he deserted a job with a utility concern to open a millinery shop. He sold this business in 1928, established a dress house in London and six years later, moved to Paris, where he acquired a smart continental clientele, selling models to English and American fashion markets. Thus his career was launched!

After his very successful European ventures, Mr. James returned to New York and began his campaign for the recognition and backing of independent design in America. It is his earnest conviction that "all real fashion has its origin in personality . . . that personality precedes and anticipates mass acceptance". His objective has been to maintain in America, the standards of workmanship learned in Paris. He is one of the few dressmakers who has succeeded in selling his designs to American stores as original models, on the same basis as they buy French models.

At the end of World War II, Mr. James took a collection of designs that he had made for distinguished American clients to Paris, where they were shown to a brilliant audience under the sponsorship of leading Paris couture houses. A number of his designs are incorporated in the permanent collection of the Brooklyn Museum.

The current crusade of this famous designer, is correction of the basic cut of women's garments. Confident that the posture preceded fashion change, he has sought to merge the change in design with that of the silhouette. For this purpose, he has created for public use, a new type award, "because he has stood for beauty in fashion through many years. His original development of a new 'shape' in clothes had a profound influence on fashion trends on both sides of the Atlantic and his adventurous color sense has been the admiration of the fashion world. Through his invention of a new type of dress mannikin, Mr. James is spearheading a modern and important shift in the sizing of wholesale garments."

creations a recognizable signature which has become synonymous with elegance, while at the same time, being part of fashion history itself.

Bonnie Cashin has been designing clothes ever since she can remember, beginning with the scraps, pins, needles and thread she played with as a child in her mother's dressmaking shop. Coming to New York from California, her first big job there was to design costumes for the Roxy Theatre. She later became associated with the dress industry, designing clothes for Adler and Adler, the firm with whom she is now associated . . . returning after several years as a designer for Twentieth Century Fox in Hollywood, Calif.

While working with the movie studio, Miss Cashin created everything from period costumes to modern wardrobes; two years ahead of the mode. Among pictures she designed clothes for were: "Laura," "Anna and the King of Siam," "Three Little Girls in Blue."

She started her professional career designing for local Los Angeles ballets and to this experience she attributes much of her skilled sense of movement and line. Designing from sketches, in long, bold pencil strokes, she then drapes directly with the fabric. Her unusual uses of materials, such as aprons of tweed or handwoven drapery silks, tailored coats of organza or coat-dresses of cotton dimity, were all important factors in her selection for the coveted American Fashion Critics' Award.

Bonnie Cashin believes that a designer worthy of the name should be able to design anything . . . a hat, dress, chair, coat, or an entire room. It is her conviction that varied designing outlets increase skill in this field, in any of its many phases.

Since painting is her avocation, it is not surprising that subtle and exotic use of color is reflected in her various creative designs.

Miss Cashin was chosen as an Award winner because "her gay and witty approach to sports and street clothes has brought new vitality to fashion during the year. Her provocative and striking use of fabrics and her adaptation of oriental fashions for contemporary Americans, have been of outstanding importance. And, her top-to-toe designing in the moderate price bracket has been a real contribution to American fashion".

A special citation in the 8th Annual American Fashion Critics' Award was made to Mabel and Charles Julianelli "because in their sponsoring of the naked look in shoes which actually contain the foot securely, they have made an impressive influence on shoe styles throughout the world. Also, because of the high standard of artistry and craftsmanship which reflect their creative talent."

This noted Mr. and Mrs. team have been in partnership (marital and professional) for ten years. During this time, they have presented many "firsts" in shoe styles and the fashion industry doesn't consider a season launched until the Julianelli trends are in."

Among the many successes to their credit are: the first one-piece shoe ever made in modern times; the walking flat which they christened "the perambulator;" the Chopine, a thong sandal worn over a short suede sock, inspired by the footgear of ancient times designed for stormy weather; the open-heel monk's slipper; laced-in-back shoe; two-strap anklette; scalloped shoe silhouette; high-back shoe; naked strip sandal.

Mabel Julianelli is a native New Yorker and received her formal training in commercial art at the Pratt Institute, Brooklyn. When an opportunity for a job designing shoes was offered her, she took it for the very practical reason that she needed a job. She discovered however, that she had an exceptionally good "shoe sense" and acquired a sound basic approach to the shoe business.

Charles Julianelli was born in Tuscany and has the Italian's innate love of leather. After studying at the Art Students' League in New York, he began a career as a portrait painter. Between commissions, he designed shoes for a pattern company and became so interested in the work, decided to make it a permanent thing. The Julianellis have been creating shoe designs for a number of years and are rapidly becoming as famous for their smart footwear as Gene Kelly or Moira Shearer for their superb foot work.

Of the special award to Nancy Melcher, it was said "the jury has named Miss Melcher because she brought new excitement and beauty to traditional and highly functional lingerie fashions and also for her handling of nylon tricot, specifically in the permanently pleated garments."

A native of Indianapolis, Indiana, Miss Melcher attended Smith College and then entered the MacDowell Costume Design School, more for diversion than aiming at a career in this field. In 1937, the Vanity Fair company decided to experiment with American design talent instead of adapting foreign creations to the requirements of knitted lingerie.

Miss Melcher, who had developed as the star of her design class, was given a chance to create for this new field. She not only coped with the design problems but managed to learn the technique of tricot production so that she now works literally from the fiber to the finished garment. Her experiments with colored nylon lingerie have fostered new trends in this realm.

The American Fashion Critics' Award Trophy, "Winnie," a bronze statuette by Malvina Hoffman, noted American sculptor, which is awarded annually to leading American designers for "outstanding contribution to American fashion".

Pink and gold metallic fabric, in a new washable cotton imported from Switzerland, fashions this smart dress for sunlit days or moonlit nights in Palm Beach. Designed by Carolyn Schnurer and available in the resort at Ruth Chagnon's, it is styled with scooped neckline, a lined bodice for smooth fit and generously gathered skirt.

Philip Hulitar's new "Persian Drape" in the finger-slim sheath that's slit at the left side to give the effect of drapery. Over it an embroidered organdy bodice-tunic that flares wide below the hips and is stiffened at the top with light stays. A bunch of Persian violets is caught in the waist-banding ribbon.

"MAGIC LILACS," bouffant inspiration from Philip Mulitar's new resort and spring collection. Fashioned of four shades of mauve triple-layered nylon over taffeta with intriguing uneven hems for mysterious shadow effects. Pure silk lilac print motifs, paved with sequins cascade across bodice down onto the skirt. One of the most romantic gowns noted this season and available at Mme. Megabgab's.

Diamonds are trumps in this dazzling array of evening accessories by Cartier. The meillon necklace, centered with emerald-cut diamonds, is surrounded by round and baguette stones. The swirl hair clip of diamonds is lacy and feminine. Adjustable ear clips flaunt baguette and round diamonds and the petal-pointed flower brooch has a removable, flexible stem. The trio of bracelets comprise emerald-cut round and baguette stones. A large emerald-cut diamond engagement ring completes the glittering ensemble.

Reminiscent of lavish court ball gowns, these lovelies designed by Ceil Chapman! Diaphanous in design and variations on the same theme, both are ideal companions for formal Palm Beach festivities and available at the J. J. Jonas shop. For the gown at left, layers of white nylon net superimposed with masses of ruffles over a white taffeta slip, topped by a strapless, draped bodice. White nylon net was also used for the other gown, with an overdrape of paper-thin white taffeta; bare-top bodice features assymetric draping to harmonize with the skirt.

A distinctive causal dress from the resort collection at Norman's. White Moygashel linen is the medium for the smart styling, made with pleat-front and back kick-pleat skirt. The cut-away mesh bolero is banded in linen. Designed by Dorothy Cox of McMullen.

Here is the new diamond "yoke necklace" designed by Harry Winston; the width and design are exactly the same all the way around. The matching earrings, also fashioned of diamonds, feature dangling pendants. A perfect affinity for the 1951 decolette evening gowns! The mauve-grey taffeta gown patterned in roses, by Lilly Dache, is a chic foil for the brilliant jewel accents.

Scouting The Shops

MEN'S WEAR RIVALS RAINBOW: Resort clothes for the men are very colorful and daring this season. Such as the imported Irish linen sports shirts and slacks at Finchley's in "shocking red," Mediterranean blue, chocolate brown. Beach coats of terry cloth have plastic-lined "whatnot" pockets; bright printed versions are terry-lined.

DIAMOND WRIST WATCHES: Fashion means as much as precision when selecting a watch for a fastidious woman; and Greenleaf & Crosby have all of the smart answers. A platinum bracelet set with baguette, round and square diamonds as a decorative foil for the watch; flexible gold band with watch dramatized with large ruby and smaller diamonds.

TOPPERS ARE TOPS: And a must in the resort wardrobe. Norman's collection is as diversified as it is smart. Noted among the many alluring versions: navy Forstmann wool, lined with gold with rhinestone seahorses as the pocket trim; "kimono" silhouette in red and white checked wool.

ANTIQUE & MODERN: China and glass are available at Plummer's, the largest and one of the oldest houses of the kind in the country and a member of the Palm Beach scene for many years. For the collector, there is a veritable endless selection of fine old pieces; modern items for modernists.

UNIQUE SETTING: A glamorized "drugstore" with fountains, pink satin ceiling and impromptu piano music; a background for your purchase of drugs, cosmetics, snacks and sodas, prescriptions. The noted Empress Josephine hand lotion is suggested for your resort hand care . . . at the Worth Avenue Apothecary.

"HIT THE BULL'S EYE": A new and smart idea in golf wear at Frances Brewster's . . . white bull's eye pique golf skirt with brown leather, tee-decorated skirt and sleeveless top, finished with tiny novelty collar. Topper of doeskin with slanting pockets and jeweled crest.

MEXICAN BRIDAL SHIRTS: Are a smart companion for Bermuda shorts, as sponsored by Ruth Chagnon, new to the resort this season; with shops in Nantucket and Delray Beach. Also noted among the high fashion ideas here: long yarn wool stoles bordered in velvet, to accent sunback dresses.

HAND-KNIT-RIBBON: Is a specialty of Beatrice Morgan. An outstanding cocktail and dinner dress is fashioned of gold lame' ribbon with low, round neckline, covered shoulders and simple skirt. The hand-knit woolen sweaters are also newsworthy; pointed up with animal appliques, Beauvais embroidery, jewels.

FROU FROU EVENING DRESSES: Fashioned of nylon net in extravagant stylings; beruffled; two-toned effects for subtlety; embroidered in gold and silver. Anthony's have an interesting selection; for the matron and the jeune fille. Also evening jackets in chic stylings.

"DOZI SHIRTS": An Izod of London style, developed in unusual fabrics, color themes and designs . . . ideal for golf, before and after the game. Also sponsored by F. R. Tripler & Co. of New York City, Norwegian style moccasins; "Daks" trousers imported from England; beach and cabana coats of terry.

UNUSUAL JEWELS: L. Barton Brookov, features jeweled pieces of unusual styling . . . the answer to something in the "definitely different" category. Diamond necklaces of baguette and pear-shaped stones in museum-inspired pieces, have become a conversation piece in the resort.

"FROM CARTIER": Has become a tradition and the Palm Beach salon this season is presenting chic and unusual settings which distinguish their well-known designs. Diamonds and other precious gems in dazzling ensembles to enhance the most pretentious evening clothes.

ON THE SCENT: The Everglades Pharmacy, long a legend in the resort, is a good place to shop for perfumes . . . all of the well-known and rare fragrances. Plus cosmetics in the top bracket and a wonderful "soap bar." Their prescription department is in charge of experienced pharmacists.

KNITTING HAS RETURNED TO VOGUE: Knitting is vying with Canasta for popularity and if you are one of the hundreds who occupy your leisure time making sweaters, suits, dresses, socks and the like, Evelyn Curtis in the Via Parigi is the place to go for yarn, needles and other incidentals.

SMART HAIR-DOS: A good permanent is the basis for a successful hair-do according to Don-Inez, who specialize in both. Their spacious shop at 317½ Worth Avenue has all of the facilities for making you attractive in the winter resort manner: hair-styling, facials, pedicures, manicures.

GLAMOROUS LANDSCAPING: Whether it is an estate, an ocean-front villa or a small garden, the Island Landscape Company can do a glamorous job of landscaping; featuring their individualized treatment of tropical plants, flowers, shrubs, etc. And . . . dramatic lighting to spotlight the effects.

CUSTOM-MADE: And appropriate for North and South, the smart clothes exploited by Sport & Travel of New York and Palm Beach. Both the dresses and suits feature expert craftsmanship and infinite attention to detail. Favored fabrics are silk shantung and tie silk, soft suedes and imported wools.

IMPORTED FABRICS: If you are a connoisseur of fine fabrics, it will prove a most interesting experience to take a browsing jaunt through Tatiana Sheedy's new salon, 4 Via Mizner. There are imported brocades, metallic materials and embroidered Swiss organdies that will cause you to swoon with their rare beauty.

CABANA ENSEMBLES: Designed by the top names in fashion . . . at Ladd's, ocean-front shop in The Breakers Cabana Club. Distinctive swim suits and matching beach coats; the latest ideas in costumes for the golfer and tennis player; Cashmere and Shetland sweaters for cool days; beach accessories.

MASTERPIECES OF THE JEWELER'S ART: Are designed in the Koslow workshop, which is an integral part of all their salons. This individualized designing gives an ultra, ultra touch to their jewel collection, which features glittering diamonds in smart interpretations.

HARDWARE A LA MODE: In line with the Palm Beach mood, the Charles E. Soll hardware store, Royal Palm Way, is a setting of dramatized glamour. The architecture and interior decorating are in the modern manner and the various items are presented in an intriguing fashion. Shopping for purely functional articles becomes fun in this atmosphere.

Elizabeth Arden's lavish pale yellow silk satin evening gown, draped in diagonal tiers with cascades of roses. The strapless bodice echoes the oblique lines. Designed for the "World of Silk" fashion show in New York for the benefit of the U. S. Committee of the United Nations' International Children's Emergency Fund. Photographed at the Metropolitan Museum of Art . . . World of Silk Exhibit.

Eyelet embroidered natural linen in a two-piece resort costume by Paul Parnes and available at Frances Brewster's. The sunback dress over a slip of natural-color crepe is topped with a cuffed bolero jacket. Note the linen trim on skirt and bolero. Narrow black velvet rope, tied and looped in front, provides a smart contrast.

The impressive approach to the world-famous Breakers, showing croton-lined driveway, the Palm Walk and a section of the Palm Beach Golf Course. In modified Spanish architecture, enriched by Italian Renaissance, this palatial structure is one of the show places of the resort. In the foreground of the building may be seen the triple-arched porte cochere entrance, flanked by arcaded loggias with tropical plants and colorful foliage.

The Breakers Hotel

OPENING FOR THE 26TH SEASON, The Breakers, a focal point of interest for the social life of the resort, is a veritable colony in itself for the convenience of its discriminating guests. As a matter of fact, winter residents here would not have to leave the premises during their entire stay, as the hotel offers everything in the realm of recreation, shopping, entertainment.

The Breakers Cabana Club and Casino take care of beach facilities, exercise and massage. Gabrielle's seaside restaurant, part of this group, is handy for sunworshippers who do not want to go to the bother of dressing for luncheon in the hotel. Ladd's resort shop (in the Casino) is a grand shopping rendezvous for beach and casual clothes. For golf and tennis, the hotel maintains courses, clubhouses and experienced staffs.

Mr. C. W. Wannop, starting his fifth year as manager of The Breakers, announced that the bookings this year exceeded those of other seasons. Also, that many of the guests are starting their winter holidays earlier than usual and a great number plan to stay through the season. As in former years, the hotel will play host to numerous celebrities and noted personages; and quite a continental contingent is noted in the reservation lists.

Among those now in residence at The Breakers: Mr. and Mrs. Francis J. O'Hara, Cleveland; Mr. and Mrs. Richard Crowley, New York; Mr. James Belden, Atlantic City, N. J.; Mr. and Mrs. L. V. Keeler, Montclair, N. J.; Mr. William

Blood, N. Y.; the Rt. Rev. and Mrs. Ernest W. Stires, Bolton Landing, Lake George, who have been annual visitors here for many years; Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Stackhouse, Greenwich, Conn.; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Newton, who formerly had a house in Palm Beach.

Mrs. William Seyfert and Miss Ida Griesemer, Reading, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Elmer W. Snyder, Cleveland, O.; Mr. and Mrs. Herbert S. Rauh, New York; Mr. and Mrs. Andrew S. White, Fayetteville, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Herman of New York City; Dr. Paul S. Donahue, Minneapolis, Minn.; Mr. and Mrs. Raymond N. Felter, New York, who are here for the season; Mr. Lindsay Loring, Westwood, Mass.; Mrs. George Allyn Fort, Philadelphia; Miss Maria Mutter, New York; Dr. and Mrs. William Krumbaar of the same place.

Mr. Victor A. Downes, New York; Mrs. Roland L. Kahle, St. Louis; Mrs. Urban Harris, Evanston, Ill.; Mr. Joseph Huston, New York, who will remain until February; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lipper of Deal, N. J.; Miss Marion C. Shevlin, Brooklyn, N. Y.; Mr. George Tippling, Cleveland, O.; Mr. W. M. Bright, Queenston, Ont.; Mr. and Mrs. Louis L. Stephens, Chicago; Mrs. David Scott Walker, Detroit, Mich.

Dr. Robert S. McGrath, Washington, D. C., arrived for his annual visit. Mr. and Mrs. Ray McCarthy from New York. Mr. McCarthy is head of the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests, who held their 43rd annual tournament at the Palm Beach Golf Club, last week.

New York Letter

Well known to the Palm Beach winter colony are Mr. and Mrs. Clark Gable, photographed at El Morocco. Before their marriage in December of 1949, Mrs. Gable was the former Lady Stanley of Alderley.

Dear Dora:

NEW YORK IS DIVINE and we all wish you were here. But how I envy you, relaxing in sun-kissed patios, and bathing in azure-tinted pools. But such is life, and soon I hope to join you in gala Palm Beach.

But anyway here in Manhattan we are all discussing the Windsors. I've seen Wally several times in El Morocco with Jimmy Donahue, Jesse's youngest. It is all such innocent fun. You know David likes to be tucked in promptly at midnight, and since he has known the Donahues for such a long time, Jimmy is the natural choice to escort Wally around the smart clubs. After all, rumors are rumors, but the Windsors are happy. When a man gives up his throne for the "Woman he loves," he's not allowing any nonsense, and besides, I know Wally and David are as devoted to each other today as they were years ago when they first met.

Of course the Windsors are now facing two beautiful offers, one to go on radio as a husband and wife team, the other on television. The Charles King productions in association with Jay Herbert have made the d and d an offer of $100,000. It is under consideration and neither has said yes or no. National Broadcasting Company has queried the duke to do the dramatization of his life story in 52 weekly half-hour instalments. The duke's terms for this venture are $250,000, which so far NBC has declined to meet. Isn't all too fabulous? Next we'll have Wally selling vacuum cleaners on television!

I hear Janie O'Malley-Keyes is back at her Palm Beach villa after several months at Biarritz. When I saw Janie here at the St. Regis, she told me all about the bust-up she's had with Gavin Hamilton, who was her beau for sometime, but she did deny stories that she will marry a former beau who has as much money to throw around as Janie.

This might interest you, I had it straight from Rome that Alicia Baker has definitely broken her engagement and will not become the Countess Jan Bonde. Alicia, you know, is the widow of Grenville Baker of the Tallahassee Bakers. Poor Sandra de Pulaski! It is really true that the reason behind their estrangement is the fact that Max insists on calling himself mister, and that Sandra won't shed the Countess. I really do think people are getting a little bored with so many titles. They aren't what they used to be, so why kick up such a fuss. Of course, to get back to Sandra, someone wrote from Paris that there was a little French girl involved in the set-up, as a matter of fact, even mentioned her name, Yvonne. Couldn't be more Parisian, could it?

Added tid-bits: Bill and Jane Cavanaugh have definitely split. This attractive couple was married in 1937, but Bill, MISS CHARLOTTE B. VAN BOMEL, daughter of Socially Registered Mr. LeRoy A. Van Bomel of East 61st Street, New York, is the recipient of an admiring look from Mr. David Seiningger of Park Avenue, as they attend a formal party at the Stork Club.

Socially Registered Daytonians pictured happily dining at the Stork Club, are Mr. Richard R. H. Grant of Vista Del Mar, Delray Beach, and his granddaughter, Mrs. H. Franklin Du Pre of Normandy Farms, Dayton. Mrs. Du Pre is the former Thirza G. Reynolds even though he did try Alcoholics Anonymous, can't keep it up. Jane is just tired of trying.

Friends from Hollywood are speculating whether or not Barbara Hutton Troubetzkoy will come to movietown where she once enjoyed a great social success as the wife of screen actor Cary Grant. Barbara and her son Lance Reventlow are now at Arizona where the dime store heiress is having a much needed rest.

And speaking of Hollywood, I was shocked to hear of the split up between Nicky Hilton Jr. and his beautiful Liz. I was told things were nearing the breaking point last summer at Cannes, where Nicky couldn't keep away from the gambling rooms. It's all so sad when one's so young.

From what I hear, "Florida the Moon and You," in other words, Palm Beach, was the setting for another reconciliation. The Gary Coopers, who were on the verge, patched up their differences while in your land of enchantment. The daughter of the very social Mrs. Paul V. Shields, and the handsome, lanky film star are back together again, and everybody in society and the movies couldn't be more pleased.

Lovely Charlene Wrightsman, whose marriage to star of stage and screen Helmut Dantine refused to fizz, has been linked romantically with young Peter Salm, son of Millicent Rogers and the late Count Salm. Incidentally, Millicent, the most glamorous of the Standard Oil heiresses, might be in the news again. Will keep you posted!

Others in Manhattan society who seem to be having their marital difficulties are Jack and Gertie Astor. So far I haven't heard definitely what is causing the break, or rift rather, but I have been told a few so called rumors.

Have you heard Doris Duke has invested a million green lettuce leaves, only I mean the real kind, into a cosmetic venture. That seems a far cry from raising hogs in New Jersey, which was the last business deal that was financed by tobacco money.

As I was having lunch at the Colony the other day, whom should I run into but the Clark Gables. Sylvia looked better than ever, and they couldn't be happier. Wonder if they will pay you a visit this season.

All for now, Dora.

Love,

Joan.

Palm Beach

1. Philip Willkie

THE PALM BEACH ROUND TABLE celebrating its eighteenth season this year is presenting its usual fine roster of speakers—chosen for their specialized knowledge in various fields that are of paramount interest to responsible citizens the world around.

Mrs. Alexander M. Hadden, president of the Round Table, and of the Institute of World Affairs at Twin Lakes, in Salisbury, Conn., overlooking the lower Berkshire Hills, is responsible for the founding of both organizations. While entirely different—the Palm Beach Round Table, a season membership affair—the Institute of World Affairs, a school with a two-fold purpose—to promote world peace by building a deeper understanding between college students of many nations, and to train them for leadership, they nevertheless dove-tail.

By means of the Round Table, public interest in international affairs is kept aroused, and through funds from membership dues, scholarships to the Seminars at Twin Lakes are provided stable and promising students who might otherwise be unable to attend.

Each season proceeds from at least two lectures are turned over to the Institute for scholarship purposes. These with others given by interested individuals, colleges and universities eager to have their most promising students take advantage of the seminars, bring together young minds that work along lines of peace-through-intelligent-thinking, in the hope that one day their respective countries may fully sense the folly of wars.

The Institute of World Affairs was founded twenty-five years ago in Geneva, Switzerland, just after the first World War when Mrs. Hadden and her late husband were enroute on a trip around the world.

They had stopped off at Geneva to hear a session of the League of Nations and since both were college professors, it was natural that they should find much to discuss with the youth gathered there.

"We talked," said Mrs. Hadden, in telling the story recently, "just as any group might today—about what we could do in a small way to help toward putting a finish to wars."

"The young people we met were so disheartened, tired, and weary of war that a solution to peace was paramount in their minds. When they asked us to stay and help establish the Student's International Union as the Institute of World Affairs was first known, we felt to refuse would not only be letting that first group of eighteen down, but young people everywhere."

Thus the first seminar to promote peace was held. Soon the enrollment swelled to over two hundred which meant larger quarters had to be found—and also that fine young minds everywhere were ready to take part in a search that it was hoped would end in peace on earth.

When War II broke out, it was unwise to continue abroad and the Institute moved here. It was a sad day when the change came, Mrs. Hadden explained, "for the young people had worked hard, not only in their classes—many students from many lands—but had promoted ideas of rational thinking in their respective countries."

A tribute to the institute's lasting values may be recognized in the more than seven hundred alumni of which the majority have risen to influential positions, continuing to work for the Institute's progress.

"Imagine what might be accomplished could hundreds of thousands of young people have the same opportunity," said the president in explaining how students are now in key positions in many countries "where it would not be prudent if some governments were to know of their work in the direction of peace."

The Palm Beach Round Table was an off-shoot of the Institute, an idea that came into being and subsequently a reality when Mr. and Mrs. Hadden visited Palm Beach in 1932 and told of what they were doing abroad.

If it could work for young people why not have something of a similar nature for Palm Beach.

And so the Round Table was started. Each season sees memberships swell, and pointing to the high regard of educators for the series, it is now a part of the required curriculum that Graham-Eckes School students attend the weekly lectures.

Turning again to the Institute, about thirty-four young people from 16 different countries attended last summer, and now that winter sessions are taking place, instituted for the first time last year, about the same number are enrolled.

Summer sessions bring together students most of whom are still affiliated with colleges and universities. With Dr. William Y. Elliott, Harvard University history and political science professor, the group meets in daily seminars—theme of last summer's session was "Freedom and Security in a Divided World."

Again and again students, listening, reading and reasoning, came up with the same recommendation—stressing always the necessity for more dynamic ideas to combat the threat of Communism. They advocated for themselves and their countries more effective methods in spreading the truth and in devising a means of setting free those people who no longer enjoy freedom.

The recently-introduced winter session reaches even farther in extending the freedom of America, and is laying a ground-work that cannot go amiss in the final summation of those things that count most in men's lives.

Displaced college students under the direction of Dr. C. Victor Brown concentrate on English and orientation in preparation for entry into American colleges and universities. A few are graduate students who use the quiet of the wintry Connecticut countryside to prepare theses in conjunction with advanced work they plan to take.

The Palm Beach arm of the Institute this winter may be seen at a quick glance of the names to be presented in one of its most auspicious series.

With the exception of Ruth Draper, the famous monologist, in each instance they are speakers of outstanding ability in their various fields.

Each season in addition to the more serious side of life, the Round Table presents at least one exponent of the theatre—last year it was Maudy Christian, the year before—Eva LeGallienne.

Pictured here are the speakers for the 1950-51 Round Table sessions beginning with Philip Willkie, son of the late Wendell Willkie. He spoke well in advance of the scheduled weekly addresses to take place this year in the Orange Gardens of the Everglades Club on Mondays at 4 p. m.—Jan. 15 through Mar 15.

Only exception to the schedule is the Draper presentation which is set for 8:15 p. m. Monday, Jan. 22, at the Society of the Four Arts.

Mr. Willkie, Republican member of the Indiana State Legislature, talked on "America and the Outside World," pointing out that:

"America should take a more aggressive position and cease allowing Russia to call the shots and place us on the defensive."

And like the young people of the Institute, Mr. Willkie believes "we should develop a more dynamic philosophy that would turn the people of the world toward us."

Dr. Walter H. Judd, who spoke Jan. 15 on "The Present World Crisis," warned in no uncertain terms of the rising dangers of Communism. Republican member of Congress from Minnesota, he is a nationally recognized authority on United States foreign policy in the Orient.

Miss Draper, set to appear next Monday night, Jan. 22, to present her inimitable character sketches, was recently honored by the Stage Guild of Ireland for outstanding services to the theatre and associated arts.

Sumner K. Pike, member of the Atomic Energy Commission, is to talk on "Atomic Energy," Jan. 29. He was business advisor to the United States Secretary of Commerce; a member of the Temporary National Economic Committee; served on the Commission of the Securities and Exchange, Philadelphia; and was affiliated with the Office of Price Administration at Washington.

The Hon. John M. Chang, first ambassador from the Republic of Korea to the United States, will speak on "Korea In Relation to the World," on Feb. 5. He is presently a delegate to the United Nations.

Dr. Nicholas Nyaradi, former non-Communist Minister of Finance in Hungary forced to flee to the United States in order to escape fate similar to that which befell Cardinal Mindszenty, is to speak Feb. 12 on "Behind the Iron Curtain." He saw, first hand, the Soviets arrange the financial program of the satellites for the profit of Russia and was negotiator for seven months in Moscow for a reduction of an indemnity on his country.

Lady Molly Huggins, wife of the Governor of Jamaica, talks Feb. 19 on "Who Shall Inherit the Earth." She was born in Singapore and has been surrounded by the problems of race, religion and color all her life.

Larry LeSueur, so widely known because of his radio affiliations, will speak Feb. 26 on "Where Is Russia Going." He has been diplomatic correspondent for the Columbia Broadcasting system since 1939 and was with the Allied forces in France and London taking part in broadcasts to the United States during air raids.

Often referred to as the correspondent who traveled to all strategic war fronts from D-Day to VE-Day, Mr. LeSueur is at present reporting for the United Nations.

Mar. 5 will bring Edward Tomlinson to speak on "Drums of Destiny In the Americas." A foremost authority on Latin-American affairs he has been awarded the Medal of Merit from Ecuador, and the highest award from Chile. He is dean of the correspondents on hemisphere relations having been recipient of the Cabot award for distinguished journalism.

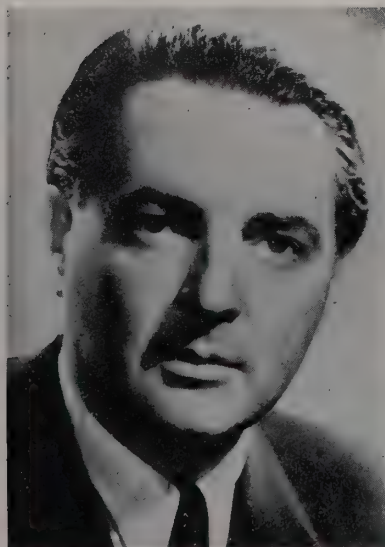

General Robert L. Eichelberger, Commander of the Eighth Army which finally conquered the Japanese and a carried-out occupation of Japan, will wind up the Round Table series, the date to be announced.

One of the loveliest additions to the Gallery, this fine example of the Chinese mastery of carving, a lyric high relief of a Donor in Attitude of Adoration, comes from the famous Yun Kang caves and was produced during the early days of Buddhism, in the fifth or sixth century.

These Chinese pottery figurines, a dancing girl, Han dynasty, and Mongolian dancing boy, Wei dynasty, were found in tombs, put there to represent the earthly possessions of a departed wealthy Chinese.

This pair of terra cotta polo ponies with women riders, of the T'ang dynasty are quite modern in execution, and are splendid examples of the art of the period.

Norton Gallery Displays China's Glorious Past

THE COOL green foliage and white marble, the dots of living orange in the trees, the stately halls, the soothing lighting, the breath-taking exhibits of beauty through the ages—all these greet the visitors to the Norton Gallery and School of Art.

The overall effect is such that from year to year it has been difficult for the newcomer to the Gallery to realize that each season the importance of the contents of the lovely building have increased, in money, artistic and educational value.

At the beginning of each season, the new acquisitions by Ralph H. Norton, founder, are presented to the Gallery, or better, to those residents and visitors who revel in and appreciate things of beauty.

This year's additions fit into the exhibits so smoothly, so correctly that perhaps to allow those who are to see the exhibits this season a resume of the new would be in order.

In the beautiful jade gallery, last year's increment of the Chinese scroll painting and thirty-four pieces of archaic jade have been joined by pieces that are certain to thrill the connoisseur and the layman.

One of the most impressive, a bronze kuang, or covered vessel, is only seven inches high. The top is rendered in the shape of animal heads and the entire design is an animated fascinating surface of zoomorphic shapes.

It and seven other bronzes, such as an interesting water buffalo, came from the Shang and Chou dynasties, the first reigns in known history in China. These bronzes rival the jades in the opinions of collectors and even the general public as artistically and technically masterful products of the intelligently strong youth of now ancient China.

Delightful, even though made of the humble common clay, are the pottery figurines in a variety of shapes. Produced in the Han dynasty, 200 B.C. to 200 A.D., they represent attendants, dancing girls and musicians. They are obviously representatives of the prized possessions of some inhabitant of an ancient Chinese tomb.

Six other ceramics of a somewhat different nature have been added. A small chih, pottery vessel; two extremely beautiful celadon vases from the 12th century Sung dynasty which represented the highest point in Chinese intellectualism, and a massive mountain box are included. This group concludes with two perfectly molded and brilliantly executed pottery polo ponies with women riders. Although from the T'ang

These three Chinese archaic bronzes are: Ceremonial vessel of the type, kuang, Shang dynasty; a spear end or pole top, Shang dynasty, and a water buffalo from the Chou dynasty.

It was with considerable pride that the Gallery announced the addition of Winslow Homer's "The Log Jam, Hudson River at Blue Ledge." Homer is the acknowledged master of American water color painting and the work now being shown gives evidence of his mastery of his technique.

dynasty, the motion, flow and design of the works make them seem as though the Museum of Modern Art might have them.

Striking line and decorated with beautiful shapes of flowers, leaves and animals executed in yellows, blues, and green porcelain, a group of six vessels and dishes, give a striking display of a much later period.

A vase of Lang Yao porcelain has joined the exhibits. The red crackle glaze over a brilliant white surface can no longer be produced.

The Chinese mastery of carving, a lyric high relief of a Donor in Attitude of Adoration comes to the collection from the famous Yun Kang caves. It was produced during the early days of Buddhism.

Nor was the painting collection neglected this year. An oil and three watercolors were added.

The oil, by the impressionist, Willard L. Metcalf, "The Red Bridge," is a quiet, but sensitive comment on his surroundings. The delightful colors and purposeful lack of excitement are quite pleasing.

The acknowledged master of American water color painting, Winslow Homer's "The Log Jam, Hudson River at Blue Ledge" gives visual evidence to the Gallery viewers of his supremacy.

The small group of American impressionist painters whose work is gradually receiving more attention has been increased with one painting by Willard L. Metcalf, entitled "The Red Bridge." As the work shows, Mr. Metcalf had a quiet but sensitive talent for commenting on his surroundings. This particular scene is noteworthy for its delightful colors.

WHITEHALL

THE TRADITIONAL CHRISTMAS house party launched the season at Whitehall in mid-December with the largest assemblage of youngsters, members of the young college set, and their parents that it has ever been the hotel's privilege to entertain.

From all over the country families came, many on return visits to enjoy once more the fullness of life that the great white palace affords—others for the first time, having learned of the extraordinary program arranged to include everyone.

An extra and magnificent touch to the natural beauty of Palm Beach, there is probably nowhere in the country a domain so suited to a never-to-be-forgotten holiday as Whitehall. The great mansion built by the builder-baron, Henry M. Flagler in 1902 at a cost of three and a half million dollars, still stands in all its original elegance—seven great salons built about a fabulous Palm Court is one's first impression of this noted hotel. Beyond to the West, towering into the blue sky, so that from the mainland it is remindful of a great white sugar loaf is the newer and you might say hotel addition to the mansion providing ample space in living quarters for the many who choose Whitehall as their Palm Beach headquarters.

Orange trees laden with fruit and tropical gardens with sheltered pathways down to the Lake in addition to Palm Beach's famous Lake Trail running south from the great wrought iron gates of Whitehall, presents an all-over picture of tropical beauty that is breath-taking.

Then there are the two Whitehall-owned clubs—the Sun and Surf, and the Palm Beach Country Club, both through perfect coordination of activities contribute generously to the all-season enjoyment of Whitehall guests; but during the Christmas holidays out-did themselves to provide specialty entertainment for the more than three-score youngsters who spent their holiday at Whitehall.

At Whitehall—the mother house, decorated throughout with holly and great green and red satin bows, all topped off by a towering Scotch spruce Christmas tree in Marble Hall, brilliantly adorned, entertainment was geared to surroundings. For the very young people there were coke parties, treasure and scavenger hunts, quiz programs, sing fests and a talent night devoted entirely to the smaller girls and boys.

The oldsters by no means forgotten, were entertained at cocktail parties with the management acting as hosts, and there was entertainment every night that ran the scale from piano concerts to scintillating fashion and floor shows that presented the best talent of the East.

The sporty Palm Beach Country Club, the choice of game golfers in this area, was likewise busy with an attractive schedule especially designed for holiday sojourners. Golf tournaments were an every-day affair during the three-week house party, and for the particular enjoyment of the all-out, all-day fairway fan, the al fresco bar at the ninth tee provided a happy stop-over enroute to the "back nine."

The attractive clubhouse set on a bluff overlooking the Atlantic has always been sought after by those who know food, and it was here during the holiday season that golfers and their friends found just the ticket for a mid-day snack.

The splendid ballroom of the Whitehall mansion was the setting for the official opening of the famous hotel in mid-December. At least this was the starting point of the evening's festivities. In old ivory with gold leaf and museum-piece crystal chandeliers, it now serves as a cocktail lounge, and for dancing, during the convivial hour preceding dinner.

surf and not the least, if last mentioned, the quaint clubhouse built with terrace looking out over the ocean, and palm patio for dining to the West, is widely known as one of the most delightful and best equipped beach clubs along the eastern shores of Florida.

Here swim meets in the immense salt-water pool were held to highlight the holiday program, and as well, ping pong, tennis and bowling tournaments.

Much credit for this all-round, well balanced forum of fun goes to A. M. Sonnabend, president of Whitehall and of Sonnabend Associates owners of seven other large and successfully operated resort establishments, and to Thomas V. Knox, resident manager of Whitehall for the first time this year, as well as to Mr. Roger P. Sonnabend, general manager.

To insure the success of their plan, and to be sure it was, according to all reports, the staff in charge of entertainment was upped this season to a more than ample point.

Mrs. Wayne Sabin, newly appointed hostess at Whitehall—her husband is director of sports activities at the Sun and Surf, was assisted with Christmas arrangements by Miss Shirley Dawson, junior hostess.

On hand to especially add zest to every evening's affair was Bob Farrell as master of ceremonies. Bob's past experience—as commentator for the National Broadcasting Company, and as member of the Chicago Opera Company didn't go amiss when he took over direction of entertainment at Whitehall. As much at home with bebop and jive as he is singing folk songs, heavy or light opera, Bob added greatly to the enjoyment of Whitehall's Christmas visitors.

With something always up his sleeve for the oldsters during evening dancing, presenting the floor show groups, and in general, getting everyone attuned to the spirit of the occasion, it was when all alone with the kiddies in their special dining room that Bob really let go with all his sparkling personality . . . the youngsters singing their hearts out loved this before-bed time frolic.

So as another season gets on its way, so also does Whitehall with the largest booking in its history slated to bring guests from across the continent to Palm Beach.

Palm Beach Biltmore

WITH DECEMBER 16TH having marked the formal debut of the glittering Palm Beach Biltmore for the season, indications are that this luxuriously appointed resort hospitality along Florida's original 'Gold Coast' will enjoy an unprecedented season this year.

The Biltmore attained national prominence last year, when Daniel E. Taylor, shipping magnate, purchased this mammoth resort and spent well over a million dollars transforming it into the show-place of Florida. Almost overnight the hotel which had previously enjoyed a moderate success became an instantaneous hit to the extent that it has now established itself as the first major year round resort in Palm Beach.

To insure its continued success, Mr. Taylor, who is also president of the West India Fruit and Steamship Company and a director of the Waldorf-Astoria, retained James J. Farrell as executive general manager. Mr. Farrell's genius for fine hotel management is evidenced in the constant flow of guests to this 550 room tropical resort along the shores of picturesque Lake Worth.

Outdoor life of course centers around the beautiful new Olympic salt water pool surrounded by lush tropical gardens.

DR. F. PAUL ANSBRO,

noted anesthesiologist, and Mrs. Ansbro of Brooklyn, New York, find the drenching sunshine at the Palm Beach Biltmore terrace to their liking.

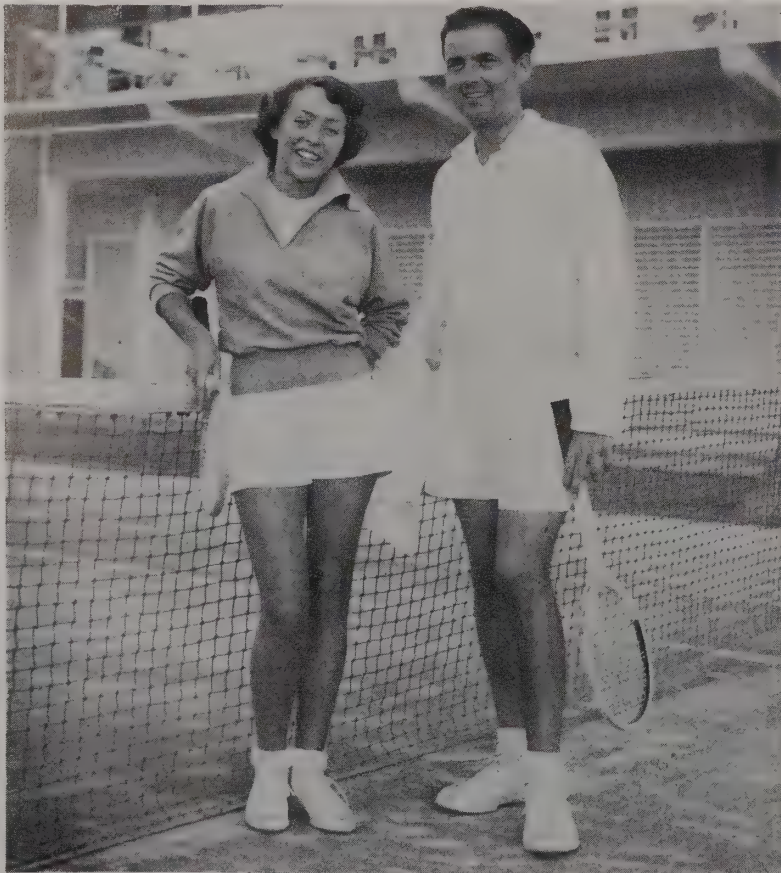

Adjacent to the pool is a Lido beach, colorful cabanas and a promenade overlooking the tennis and shuffleboard courts, putting green and yacht moorings where some of the nation's largest yachts are berthed during the winter season. Cocktail dancing on the Tropical Terrace and the exotic West India Room and after supper dancing, to the melodies of name bands highlight after sunset hours at the Biltmore.

The Biltmore has its own exclusive private beach with a spacious club and dining patio directly on the Atlantic, just two blocks from the hotel with transportation to and fro by aero-car every 15 minutes.

Yuletide holidays at the Biltmore witnessed one of the most elaborate and colorful programs ever planned at the Palm Beaches and well over 600 resorters from all sections of the country participated. The entire hotel was decorated throughout with graceful poinsettia plants, wreathes and Christmas trees of all sizes. Highlighting the decorative theme were the red and green lights flashing from atop the majestic twin penthouses of the Biltmore with melodies of favored old time Christmas carols ringing forth from the towers over Palm Beach and across Lake Worth.

New Year's of course was an auspicious occasion at the Biltmore with festivities being held in the beautiful Tropical Room which was enhanced with multi-colored balloons and decorations in keeping with the New Year. Cal Guilford and his orchestra directed his talented group of bandsmen for dancing and entertainment which included a complete floor show. Guests received individual gifts and every lady a colorful flower wristlet and later the gala throng adjourned to the West India room where William Dougherty and his orchestra played for the "wee-hour" celebrants.

The yachting contingent are beginning to parade into port for the season at the Biltmore yacht moorings and include a number of ardent sailfish anglers. Among those establishing new records for landing the wary denizen of the sea are Col. and Mrs. E. N. Bloomer of Deal, New Jersey, who are here for the season aboard the "Moneda II." The Bloomers are annual season visitors at the Biltmore. Other fishing enthusiasts berthed at the yacht moorings are Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Hynes of Davenport Neck, New Rochelle, New York. They spend much of their leisure time on their yacht the "Graceful III" cruising the sailfish grounds off Palm Beach. The Hynes with their two sons Barry and Eugene Jr. returned from a Christmas cruise to the Cat Key Club, Cat Cay, Bimini and Nassau in time to welcome the New Year in at the Biltmore.

Other yachts in port for the season at the Biltmore are the "I-Go-II" and the "Majubob." The "I-Go-II" is skippered by James V. Igoe of Shrewsbury, New Jersey and the "Majubob" by Robert Harris of New York. Mr. and Mrs. Albert J. Carpenter cruised into port with their shining white yacht, the "Migrant" which was at the Biltmore yacht moorings last year. Another frequent visitor during the season will be Martin Vogel Jr. of Warrenton, Virginia whose yacht the "Liberstraum" is a familiar sight to members of the Biltmore yachting colony.

Top Biltmore news event of the year and in fact in the Palm Beaches is of course the inauguration by Dan Taylor of a special de luxe train from West Palm Beach directly into the grounds of Hialeah race course. This train which consists of club cars and lounges will discharge passengers into the track area itself, thus eliminating the necessity of a burdensome auto ride to the track. This train to be known as the "Biltmore-Hialeah Special" will also be available to other resort visitors in the area. First inaugural run which will see many notable personages aboard is slated for the opening day of Hialeah—January 17th.

The Biltmore which always has some outstanding sports event on its agenda for the season will be the scene this year of the Sixth International Sailfish Tournament. This colorful tournament with three man-angling teams representing more than 30 fishing clubs from Mexico to Canada will be waged on the famous sailfish grounds off the Palm Beaches for the first time. Last year it was held in Acapulco, Mexico. Biltmore guests will have the enviable opportunity of rubbing elbows with some of the world's most noted anglers. Advance entries in the International Sailfish tournament will include more than 50 light tackle enthusiasts from 10 clubs in California, along with teams from Texas, Mexico, the Bahamas, Canal Zone, Cuba, Puerto Rico and British Columbia. Members of the fair sex will have their innings too as the fourth day of the tournament will be set aside as Ladies' Day.

The influx of season visitors has already commenced at the Biltmore. Mrs. J. J. Griffin of Chicago who was here earlier in the season has returned with Mr. Griffin and her two youngsters Joseph and Joan. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Morrissey of New York are again here for another sojourn at the Biltmore. Colorful visitors from the Far East in America for the first time who visited the Biltmore over the New Year holidays were Mr. and Mrs. Aziz Ahmed of Pakistan, India. Mr. Ahmed was sent as an alternate delegate to the Pakistan delegation of the United Nations in New York for the fifth session of the General Assembly which convened just before the New Year. Jon Hall, the well known Hollywood movie star is a frequent visitor at the Biltmore with Mr. and Mrs. Zack Mosely of Stuart, Fla. Mr. Mosely is a cartoonist of note. Also at the Biltmore for the season are Mr. and Mrs. Bert Ackman and Dr. and Mrs. William Engle of New York. Canadians practically have a colony of their own at the Biltmore and in a group from various Canadian cities are: Mr. J. N. Francoeur of Quebec City, Dr. and Mrs. L. E. Pollock, Mrs. G. E. McCarter, Mr. G. M. Hyslop and Mrs. N. I. Hyslop, all of Toronto.

A full well-rounded program of sports and entertainment activities for both children and adults including aquatic shows, movies, cocktail dancing, square dancing, concerts and card parties will feature life at the Biltmore, for the year 1951.

Under The Palms

SPACIOUS SUN-FILLED LOGGIAS, built around old world patios and courts, which form the perfect background for diners and luncheons under tropical skies, mark the Brazilian Court's many outdoor settings.

Visitors to Palm Beach have long been familiar with the ultimate in hospitality and courteous service which are exemplified by Brazilian Court's carefully selected staff, headed by Mr. Elliott Bishop, well known figure in the hotel world.

The wide, spacious south loggia of the hotel is one of the favorite rendezvous for afternoon cocktail and dinner gatherings. Its winding walks, perfectly landscaped terraces and colorful garden umbrellas lend themselves to a quiet sequestered retreat.

Mr. and Mrs. Vincent S. Mulford, who pass the summer at "Oak Knoll," their place at Montclair, N. Y., are occupying their penthouse apartment at Brazilian Court. Others there for the season include Mr. and Mrs. Uz McMurtrie of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Paul V. Shields of New York City who were joined by Mrs. Shield's daughter, Mrs. Gary Cooper and Mr. Cooper of the screen, daughter, Maria Cooper.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Parsons of Manhattan were guests at Brazilian Court as were also Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Ludwig of New York. Mr. A. W. Cameron of Philadelphia is at the hotel for the season, and others include Mr. and Mrs. Richard E. O'Connor of Chicago, who were holiday guests and entertained members of their family.

At the hotel for an indefinite stay are Mr. and Mrs. Mason L. Dean of Kansas City. Early season guests included Mr. and Mrs. Rudolph Homan of Madeira, Ohio, who have a winter home at Naples on the Gulf Coast.

There for their annual winter sojourn are Mr. and Mrs. Edmund P. Cassell of Dennis on Cape Cod. The Cassells, prominent in resort society, have been coming here for a number of seasons. Mr. and Mrs. James E. Hollingsworth of New York are at Brazilian Court for the season, where others there for lengthy stays include Mr. and Mrs. J. Cheney Wells of Southbridge, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Marion L. Dean of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Jones of Plandome, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. John H. Morice of Shinnecock Hills, L. I., Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Remington of Ridgewood, N. J., and Mr. and Mrs. John Adams Chapman of Lake Forest, Ill.

CONTINUING ITS POPULARITY with members of the cottage colony is the chic Miramar Restaurant situated on the North Dixie Highway at West Palm Beach. The popular bistro is open nightly for cocktails and dinner, and also caters to late after theater crowds.

Soft lighting and a smart decor, with emphasis placed on old world charm, are attributes which attract more and more habitués of the after dark set to the Miramar.

The new patio terrace is perfect for those who prefer an al fresco setting. Enhanced with vivid tropical plants and flaming bouganville vines, the patio is ideally romantic for intimate dinners a deux.

A tradition in the Palm Beaches, the Miramar continues to uphold its reputation for flawless cuisine. An experienced staff is directed by your host Nando, and John, Maitre d'hotel, and presiding in the kitchen is Chef Frank, whose delectable culinary concoctions are a gourmet's delight.

Eddie, bartender par excellence, makes sparkling drinks, and whether it be a Scotch on the rocks or a fancy cocktail ask Eddie, and he'll prepare it.

Gene Murray, Palm Beach's favorite, is at the piano nightly, and his repertoire of sophisticated ballads lends a touch of gaiety to any occasion, and includes both classical selections and hits from the newest Broadway shows.

Recently Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Weston, who are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Balcom at "Windsong," the Balcom villa on Pelican Lane, gave a dinner at the Miramar. Guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Balcom and her father, Mr. J. Lester Parsons and Mrs. Parsons.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Lewis Perry were guests of her father, Col. Frank H. Morse. Mrs. Sylvanus Stokes entertained for her nephew, Mr. Kenneth Kendall of Beverly Hills, California.

Mr. and Mrs. William G. Cluett dined with Mrs. Hortense Fabyan. Mrs. George Petinot had as guests her daughter, Miss Jeanne Petinot and Miss Georgette Petinot; and Mrs. Ethel Daly.

Burke, Mr. and Mrs. H. Erwin Schur, Mrs. Lorraine Harris Kersting, Mr. and Mrs. George Souther, Mr. and Mrs. Bruno Schwill.

PALM BEACH has many beautiful restaurants and supper clubs serving fine foods, among which is the Petite Marmite, but the policy of Gus and Gregory, the owners, is "keep the accent on the foods."

Taking the hint from fine New Orleans and continental restaurants, the physical atmosphere plays second violin to the delicious French and Italian Cuisine.

However intrigued the patron is with such dishes as Famous Breast of Chicken Maison and Scampi, even the taste tempting food and wines cannot completely obscure the charming decor of the place.

Early season visitors have already found the place and those who remember the fine meals eaten there will be pleased with the changes made during the summer months.

The open tropical garden manages to blend well with the typical French dining room. The only rooftop for the garden is the foliage of a large tree which shades the tables during the day.

The dining room has been enlarged this year and the entire south wall of the room is of folding doors affording a feeling of being right in the garden while dining.

In addition to the delightful entrees and accompaniments French Hor d'Oeuvres Maison are served with dinner.

Seen lunching or dining there recently were: Countess Laura Dorelis, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Crocker, Mr. and Mrs. George Ross, Mr. and Mrs. Jack W. Salisbury, Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Obolensky, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, Ens. and Mrs. David G. Cluett and Mrs. Paul L. Fentress, Mr. and Mrs. Lumen O. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. John Witman, Mr. Gurnee Munn, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Heminway, Mr. Robert Hitt, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney King Russell, Comm. Dwight C. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Mario deTullio, Mr. and Mrs. Granville O. Barclay, Mr. and Mrs. John L. Volk, Mr. and Mrs. Thorne Donnelly, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulaney Hunter and Mr. and Mrs. Trevor H. Howell.

THE EVER-POPULAR Patio Restaurant at County Road and Sunset—a very prominent part of the Palm Beach scene for more than 20 years—has come back into the picture for the 1950-51 season with such a rush that the surprise is not yet over.

Around about late Fall, Palm Beach plays its "question game" and the big question always is: "What kind of a season will we have this year."

To the satisfaction of many, that question already has been answered, for the Patio restaurant had a record attendance on its opening night and hit the peak on New Year's Eve, just a few days later.

The Patio attendance so far this season has indicated that resorters are looking forward to a full winter of fun and frolic—perhaps in the spirit of "a last fling" unless there is improvement in the international crisis.

Known as "the place to see, and the place to be seen," The Patio is generally considered the hub of fine food, excellent entertainment and good music in the resort. Sooner or later, they say at The Patio, the world-famed names of business, royalty, sports, entertainment, the screen and stage go on the Patio's reservation books, for here is a place where one may dine and dance during an evening of full entertainment and exclusion.

Some of the names already on the Patio reservation books so early in the current season are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Widner, Mr. Sigmund Freud, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Dubonet, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Ophlietti, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulaney Hunter, Mr. Charles Munn, Mr. Laurence Marz, Mr. Elliott Roosevelt, Mr. and Mrs. Craig Wood, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenstiel.

Mr. Gary Cooper, Mr. Woolworth Donahue, Mr. Dan Topping, and a host of others who have chosen Palm Beach, and in turn The Patio, for the pleasures that come with a winter season in the sub-tropics.

Boca Raton Club

KNOWN AS "the Dean of Florida Hotelmen," Oscar T. Johnson is at the helm at the Boca Raton Club this season, and his delicate touch, though unseen, is apparent in the suavity and finesse with which the organization is operated.

Appointed a general manager this fall by the Schine Hotel Company, Mr. Johnson came to the Club from the Mt. Washington Hotel at Bretton Woods, N. H., where he is located in the summer. As manager of the Hollywood Beach Hotel for twenty years and owner of the Homosassa Springs Hotel, Homosassa, Florida, Mr. Johnson is perhaps Florida's most widely known hotel executive.

While Boca Raton is located but a few minutes from many of Florida's most exciting tourist spots, it is quite possible, and maybe even desirable to spend your entire vacation on the premises of the Boca Raton Club. Every imaginable facility necessary for vacation happiness, as well as numerous luxuries, are at hand. Guests may shop, play, dine, relax, go in for sports, and see top-notch imported entertainment, all within the borders of this gay wonderland. It is a world of its own, isolated from the care and worry of the work-a-day world.

With the gaiety of New Year's fading into mid-January, the Bicycle Institute of America was held Jan. 8-15, with many of the group coming early and staying through the month. John Auerbach of New York City, executive secretary, has scheduled a lively program for work, fun and frolic for them.

The season guests are beginning to arrive and about 800 will fill the hotel to capacity. Four conventions are scheduled for April.

Tommy Armour, noted pro, is daily surrounded by visitors from country clubs throughout the country, and before the season is over, will have registered a few from every state in the Union. If he would do it, he could spend more hours signing autographs than playing golf.

Stanley Bernard of the Westchester Country Club is the assistant pro and the golf club has quite a little coterie of Westchester folks.

Sidney Wragge of Rye, N. Y., an old-timer at the Boca Raton Club, who now has a new beach home near the Club, plays daily with Mr. Armour.

Leonard Arkin of the Old Oaks Country Club, Purchase, N. Y., is a daily golfer.

Samuel Boosin of Woodmere, L. I., is one of the Club's most enthusiastic golfers. He practices more than any of the other guests. Mr. Boosin formerly had the nickname of "Machine Gun" due to the fact that when he hits a bad shot, before the ball drops, he has another ball down.

Elmer C. Warshaw of the Preakness Hills Country Club, Clifton, N. J., is on the course daily.

The junior events will include swimming and fishing contests, bicycle picnics at the Inlet, games in the new Card Room, Jungle Cruise, Field Day at the Cabana Club, Father vs. Son Games, Treasure Hunts, volleyball and beach games, ping-pong tourneys, shell hunts on the beach, tennis tourneys and putting contests.

Families here currently who are enjoying the facilities for the young people are: Mr. and Mrs. Howard Mack and children, Susan, David, Jeremy and Peter, of Hackensack, N. J. Peter Mack celebrated his birthday on Dec. 20 as did his father on the same date.

Mr. and Mrs. William L. Weber and their twin daughters, Rosemary and Elinor of Clifton, N. J., are here.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Tooker of The Westchester Country Club, at the Cabana Club of the Boca Raton Club and Hotel, where they are passing the season.

David Dawn of Scarsdale, were here for the parties for the junior group.

Six of the children of Mr. and Mrs. Simon C. Neuman of Wayne, Pa., joined them at the Boca Raton Club over the holidays: Steven H. Neuman of Wayne, Pa., Bud and Jay, students at Yale, Priscilla, a student at Baldwin School, Bryn Mawr, Pa., Roger and Bruce, students at Haverford School. Bruce Neuman had a birthday party there on Dec. 19.

Douglas Fairbanks Rhines of Hingham, Mass., a student at Cornell, spent the holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fairbanks Rhines, at the Club.

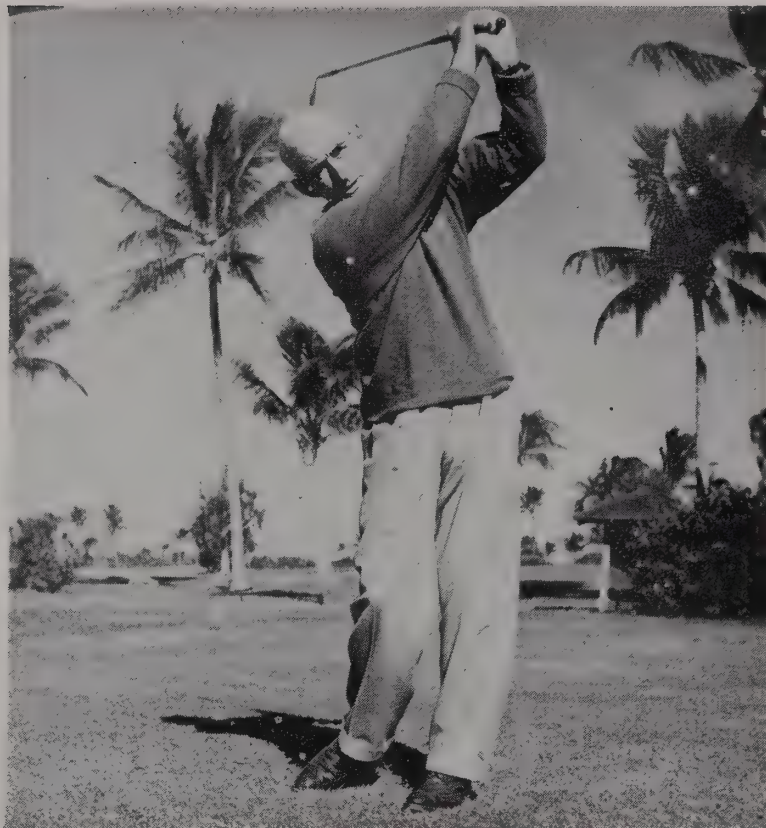

Participating in the parties for the young people, were Hope and Susan Meyers, vacationing at Boca with their mother, Mrs. Joseph Meyers of New York City. Miss Hope Meyers, a graduate of Briarcliff School, is studying at the New School in New York. Susan is attending Finch School.

Mr. and Mrs. John L. Honig of Brooklyn are passing a month at Boca. Their son, Harvey Honig, a student at Harvard, and their daughter, Norma, a student at Vassar, were with them over New Year's.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Boosin, their two daughters, Lois and Blaine, and son, Kenneth, of Woodmere, L. I., are at the club. The children took part in all the holiday parties. The Boosin family are annual visitors at Christmas and Easter.

Miss Sue Grotta of South Orange, and Miss Carol Oberman of Woodmere, L. I., juniors at Wellesley, spent the holidays at Boca.

Mr. and Mrs. Elmer C. Warshaw of Clifton, N. J., had their sons, Stephen and Richard, there for their annual visit. The boys took part in the bicycle picnics, swimming, fishing and ping-pong contest. The Warshaws will return for another visit later in the season, when the boys are in school.

All Resort Sports Off To Good Start

A FINE START has been made in sports activity in Palm Beach this season, with the usual round-robin tennis and tombstone golf tournaments holding the early spotlight.

Fishing, too, has been a popular sport for Palm Beach colonists, with an abundance of fish both in the ocean and lake. Records were broken for numbers of sailfish caught during December, and gave hope that there would be plenty of the beauties for the International Light Tackle Sailfish Tournament which was scheduled for Jan. 9-13, and the Silver Sailfish Derby starting Jan. 16 and lasting 25 days through Feb. 9.

Along with 10 major trophies posted in the annual Silver Sailfish Derby, there also is an important angling award presented to some angler daily throughout the competition.

Palm Beach Golf Club will have its usual four tournaments. The Lake Worth Championship for men was scheduled for Jan. 8-12, and the Winter Golf League of Advertising Interests was to start its annual meet on Jan. 13. The Women's Championship of Palm Beach Feb. 6-10, which attracted record galleries last year because of the Bauer sisters, is certain to name a new champion because the 1950 winner, Marlene Bauer, has since turned pro. The fourth tournament at the Golf Club will be the South Florida Championship for men March 5-9.

March 12-14 are the dates for the Seminole Amateur-Pro Tournament.

All the golf courses are in fine shape this season. The front nine of the Everglades Club was renovated during the summer and two holes were rebuilt. Bermuda grass has replaced the St. Augustine, and the Everglades course was in the finest condition of its history when it opened.

Some improvements were made in the clubhouse of Palm Beach Golf Club. The ladies' locker room was enlarged and the porch was extended. Nearly 1,500 young trees have been planted on the course.

Fire struck the Everglades golf terrace late in December and caused extensive damage to the men's and women's locker rooms. But that didn't stop the golfers.

The Everglades putters made an auspicious start when 28 men and women turned out for the opener. That was a 40 per cent increase in the number of entries over the first meet of the previous season. And for the third tournament there were 32 entries.

Winners of the first three putting tournaments this season at the Everglades Club were: Mr. Malcolm Humphreys twice, Mr. Markham Langham, Mrs. Charles Long, Mrs. W. C. Fisher and Mrs. James Howard. The hole-in-one winners were: Mr. Humphreys, Mr. Minturn Post Collins, Jr., Mr. Frank Quigley, Mrs. Markham Langham, Mrs. Hamilton Pell and Mrs. J. E. Hollingsworth.

The Everglades Club got an early start with their tombstone golf tournaments. The first one was won by Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Sweatt. Then Mrs. Charles Long and Mr. Talmadge Woodward were the winners. The third meet was won by Mrs. Hamilton Pell and Mr. R. Sonquist, and the fourth by Mrs. G. B. Tuttle and Mr. J. E. McAuliffe.

Twenty teams competed in the fourth tombstone meet, and the only ones to get past the 11th hole were the winners. Mrs. Tuttle and Mr. McAuliffe were within 105 yards of the 12th cup on their 49th stroke. Second place went to Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Corya, who were four inches short of the 11th cup in 58 strokes. Three other teams were close on the heels of the runnersup. Mr. and Mrs. James H. Howard were 15 inches away in 47 strokes. Mr. and Mrs. William Pope were 24 inches from the 11th hole in 50 swings. Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Kenny were 27 inches away in 50. Four feet from the 11th hole in 53 strokes were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hollingsworth, Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Donovan were 10 feet away in 54, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Baum were seven yards short in 50, Mrs. J. Comstedt and Mr. J. K. Williamson were 14 yards off in 53, Miss Mary Kenny and Mr. H. Farrell, Jr., were allowed 50 strokes and they got within 144 yards of the 11th hole, Mrs. Homer Smith and William O'Riley were 150 yards before the 11th in 48, and Mr. and Mrs. S. Peabody, Jr., were 220 yards from No. 11 in 52 strokes. In the 10th cup on their 51st stroke were Mrs. Hamilton Pell and Mr. R. Partridge, and three more teams were within four inches of the hole. Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Hobler were one inch off in 50 strokes, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Harper were two inches away in 49, and Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Adair used 51 strokes to miss the 11th hole by four inches. Mrs. J. E. McAuliffe and Mr. J. E. McAuliffe, Jr., were 30 inches from No. 10 in 46 swings. Mrs. C. R. Dodge and Mr. R. Dodge missed it by one yard in 52 strokes, Mrs. M. Walker and Mr. C. R. Dodge were 20 yards away in 52, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Quigley got to the ninth hole in 53 strokes.

First golf tournament of the season for the Old Guard Society at the Palm Beach Golf Club was the Handicap Match Play Tournament, won by Mr. Walter Haring, who had to go 36 holes in order to beat Mr. Ted Berghaus. Mr. Norman Schmid won consolation honors.

Whitehall Hotel had a New Year's Day Handicap Tournament at Palm Beach Country Club. The winner of the men's division was Mr. M. Kreisberg with 82-13-69. Mr. W. Krissell, playing a scratch, shot a 70 for second place. Mrs. S. Fleischman won in the women's flight with a card of 101-24-77 when Mrs. A. M. Sonnabend, who had 91-16-75 withdrew because her husband is president of Whitehall, the tournament sponsor.

Anne Binney was on the winning team in two of the first three round-robin tennis tournaments at the Bath and Tennis Club. She and A. P. Bryant won the first one, and then after Beth Brokaw and Spencer Love won the second meet, Miss Binney teamed with Bobby Love to win the third tournament.

Miss Binney and Bobby Love had to withstand two play-offs to come out on top. They defeated Mrs. Charles Fredericks and Dr. A. McGee, 6-0, in the playoff of section leaders. A three-way tie for first place existed after the round-robin play in Section 2, Miss Binney and Love, Richard Smith and Gene Foster and Mrs. H. Von Raits and Bailey Smith each copping 17 of 24 games played. Another deadlock was threatened in a four-game round-robin between the three teams as Von Raits-Smith divided evenly with Binney-Love and Smith-Foster, and Binney-Love held a 2-1 lead over Smith-Foster. But Miss Binney and Love won the final game from Smith and Foster to represent Section 2 in the championship play-off with Mrs. Fredericks and Dr. McGee, who had won 21 and lost seven in Section 1. Trailing the three leaders in Section 2 were: Mrs. Edith Gibbs Hasler and Oliver Binney, 11-13; Alex Hufty and Jimmy Love, 9-15; Beth Brokaw and Harry Philipps, 8-16; and Judy Sayad and Bill Rayner, 5-19. Second place in Section 1 went to Patricia Sayad and Bowen Blair who won 18 and lost 10. Jean Blair and George Binney won 17 and lost 11, Hunt Dickinson, Jr. and Louis Dominguez had 13-15. Mrs. J. R. McLean and Tony Phipps had 12-16 to tie with Mrs. James dePeyster and Roy Punnett, Marienne Crocker and John Archbold had 10-18, and Andy Binney and Charles Harper had 9-19.

The Everglades Club had its first round-robin tennis tournament on Christmas Eve, and it was won by Mrs. Edith Gibbs Hasler and Thomas Dodd Healy.

Two pros, but not both in golf. At left is Wayne Sabin, tennis pro at the Sun and Surf Club, and above is Claude Harmon, Seminole Club golf pro who early this season teamed up with Pete Cooper of Ponte Verda to win the International Four-Ball at Miami.

Vero Beach

VERO BEACH HAS STARTED its winter season in earnest! The opening of the Windswept with its gala Saturday night buffet suppers and wonderful food; The Cottage with its Sunday evening get togethers, and of course, The Driftwood—doing its usual thriving business in the way of fun and laughter. The Seahorse guests are all very happy and well taken care of at this Vero Beach's newest hotel; and sooner or later almost everyone ends up by having luncheon, dinner, or a late snack at the Ocean Grill.

The Secretary of the Navy, Francis P. Matthews with Mrs. Matthews and their daughter Margarite, of Washington, D. C. have been staying at the Windswept for a short time, and while there were guests of honor at a small cocktail party given by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuerk.

A very pleasant morning 'Coffee' was given by Mrs. Alexander W. Ryburn on December twenty-eighth in honor of her daughter Margaret, whose marriage to Mr. Alexander Topping took place on December the thirtieth.

On New Year's Day Mr. and Mrs. William Edward Graham, formerly of Chicago, gave a cocktail party in honor of Mrs. Graham's mother, Mrs. Gaylord Anderson of Chicago. Among the guests present were Mr. and Mrs. Paul Goodridge, Mrs. John Coker, Mr. Press Gardner, Mr. and Mrs. David Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Semon Jr., Col. and Mrs. Joseph W. Walton, Dr. and Mrs. William L. Fitts, Mr. and Mrs. F. William Boye III, Mr. and Mrs. Waldo E. Sexton, Mr. and Mrs. John Tripson, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Von Ammon, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Irwin, Mr. and Mrs. Wilton Roger, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Tuerk and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert D. Fransioli.

Blowing Rock, a spectacular masterpiece of nature along the ocean's shore between Palm Beach and Hobe Sound. The wide rock platform is like the bow of a ship and it is here fishermen try their luck the whole day through as the old ocean rolls, rolls and splashes bringing to shore creatures of the sea that are hooked with ease by the pole wangers.

Miami Letter

MIAMI'S WINTER SEASON swings into high gear tomorrow (Jan. 17) with the opening of Hialeah race track. Milady's winter fashion styles will receive much attention from admiring escorts as she steps out in her resort winter best for the inaugural.

On hand for opening day will be a large smartly-dressed contingent from Palm Beach which includes Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane, Stephen (Laddie) Sanford, J. Barry Ryan, Charles and Gurnee Munn, and Joseph P. Kennedy, former United States ambassador to England.

George D. Widener, owner of "Battlefield," current favorite among Kentucky Derby entries, P. A. B. Widener, III, grandson of Joseph E. Widener, and Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld the former Fifi Widener will all be present when the horses parade to the post.

C. V. Whitney, John H. Whitney and his sister Mrs. Charles Shipman Payson, Mr. and Mrs. John C. Clark, president of Hialeah, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Jeffords, Russell A. Firestone, Samuel D. Riddle, Arnold Hanger, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Constantine, Jr., Mrs. Ethel DuPont Weir, Charles T. Fisher, Ogden Phipps, Tom Bragg, and Amory Haskell have reserved box seats for the 40-day Hialeah racing season.

Following in the wake of the Hialeah opening is the 19th annual Helen Lee Doherty amateur golf tournament which gets under way Jan. 23 at the Miami Country Club.

Entries of such notable amateur stars as Polly Riley, 1950 champion, Dorothy Kirby, 1949 champ, Mary Lena Faulk, Georgia state conqueror, Marjorie Lindsay, Mrs. Charles R. Harting, 1943 Doherty winner and three times Florida state champion, Mrs. George Wilcox, Miami; Dot Kielty, Long Beach, Calif., Western and California champion, have been assured.

Last year's field led by Alice and Marlene Bauer drew a record entry of 150 participants with more than 4,000 admission-free spectators watching the finals.

The tournament will be preceded by a fashion show January 18, at the Club. A golf clinic will be presented on the closing day, January 28th. Former Doherty competitors, now professionals, will conduct the clinic. They include Pattie Berg, Louise Suggs, the Bauer Sisters, Babe Zaharias and Marilyn Smith.

Former Doherty winners, Opal S. Hill, Maureen Orcutt, Elizabeth Hicks, Babe Zaharias and Louise Suggs, later captured the national amateur crown. Miss Suggs and Mrs. Zaharias also won the British amateur title.

On hand to extend their invitation to the girls for the 16th annual mixed four-ball tournament at the Everglades Club, Palm Beach, Feb. 12-16, will be Le Ray Berdeau, chairman of the committee, Elmer Rich, J. Woolworth Donahue, Earl T. Smith, Ralph Tillman, Reginald Boardman, Talmage Woodward, Robert Sweeny, John Cushman, Clem V. Geis and Jack Cendoya.

Ray McCarthy will extend invitations to the group for the 26th women's golf championship at the Palm Beach Golf Club, Feb. 6-10.

The tournament will close with a cocktail party, buffet supper and dancing, Jan. 28 at the Miami Country Club.

Canine fanciers and handlers will participate in the South's largest dog show at Miami's Dinner Key auditorium January 21. The greater Miami All-Breed Dog show will have eight national officials checking the 1,000 entries which represent almost every state in the nation. A chihuahua specialty show will be held January 20 in advance of the all-breed contest.

Among regular attendants to Tropical Park race track, which closed today (Jan. 16) were Gustave Ring, Washington, D. C., Jefferson Wynne, New York, and Mrs. Robert C. Graham of Washington, Ind., and Miami Beach. Mrs. Graham is the wife of the automobile tycoon, Robert Graham, who produced the Graham-Paige cars.

Harry J. O'Shea and Phillip T. Zalinger of Chicago, Ill., both wintering here, maintained season box seats at Tropical along with E. A. Sexton of New Haven, Conn.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Wolf, Detroit, Mich., are vacationing here while Mrs. Wolf's horses are racing. Their son, Morton, is conditioning the string.

Another horse owner who has registered her group for the winter is Mrs. E. H. Augustus of Cleveland, Ohio. "Seven League" leads her string.

J. J. Colando, New Jersey banker and owner of "Uncle Miltie," a Kentucky Derby favorite, has brought his "run for the roses" aspirant here for the winter to train.

Mr. and Mrs. Sam Gordon of Boston, Mass.; E. Terry Smith, W. Hartford, Conn., and Ellen T. Simmons of Akron, Ohio are all vacationing here and regularly occupied their box seats at Tropical.

Jai Alai, which is open through April 7, continues to pack in a crowd at Americas' only fronton where the Basque game is played.

That exciting moment when the pace begins to quicken before the big race takes place at lovely Hialeah Racetrack in a setting unmatched at any track in the country. The horses are paraded beneath palms shading the track from the warm sun while patrons make their selections against a background of tropical reds, yellows, purples and greens. Not only the widely pictured racetrack, but the entire grounds of Hialeah are landscaped to give America's most unusual track background for some of America's most exciting races.

The Palm Beach Hotel

MONDAY THE EIGHTEENTH of December marked the opening of the Palm Beach Hotel season. Within several days the hotel was filled to capacity. Many of the guests were old friends who return year after year while many were newcomers who had just discovered the enjoyment of a Palm Beach vacation in the delightful setting of this resort hotel.

The Holiday House Party Program was initiated simultaneously with the advent of the season. The program offered was so great and so varied that guests of all ages were entertained thoroughly—there was never an idle moment. Included in the program were: golf, tennis, swimming and ping pong tournaments. Beach parties, special motion pictures, bicycle jaunts and jungle trips were some of the other events which rounded out the daytime calendar of activities. Cocktail parties, the season's first Aquacade and Gala Shows were among the featured nighttime entertainment. Starred in the Gala Shows were the inimitable impressionist Dean Murphy, song stylist extraordinaire Gracie Barrie, the rollicking Vagabonds and the well known comedian Phil Foster. The Palm Beach Hotel's own Dick Gasparre and his salon orchestra accompanied the shows and played for dancing.

The Holiday program was climaxed by the Gala New Year's Celebration. Gaiety was primed with a pre-dinner Champagne Cocktail Party in the enchanting Loggia. Dinner followed, and after a short respite, the festivities continued with a dance session in the delightful West Patio. At the 12th stroke of midnight festivities really got under way in the luxurious Coral Palm Dining Rood which was gayly decorated for the occasion. Midnight Supper, informal entertainment and dancing until the wee hours ushered in the new year.

Thrills, excitement, humor and beauty were all packaged in the first Aquacade presented Tuesday, December 26 at the Palm Beach Hotel Cabana Club. The show opened with a diving exhibition by Betty Ball, swimming instructor at the club and four-time Florida state diving champion. Miss Bell was followed on the springboard by Charlie Deihl who not only dives well but also carries his weight, all 235 pounds of it, equally well. Next to exhibit his diving prowess was Earl Clark who has held as many as nine national diving championships. The first round of dives was concluded by the spectacularly acrobatic diving of Bobby Maxwell. The show continued with the ever popular Aquamanics, the lovely water ballet, Tommy Watson's escape act, the laugh-provoking comedy of Frank Snary and Charlie Deihl, and a delightful water adagio exhibition by Joy Fitzsimmons and Kurt Nunzeig. Pete Desjardine of Deauville water show fame, directed the show and Dick Gasparre and his famous society orchestra supplied the musical background.

Thursday the 28th of December guests of the Palm Beach Hotel were treated to the dramatic presentation of the amazing story of Beatrice P. Turner. Nathan Fleischer, prominent Rhode Island attorney, lecturer and owner of the Messrs. A. H. Frost, J. D. Fuchsberg, J. Hirschhorn and M. Sachs, prominent New York trial lawyers, caught nine-foot sailfish. This constituted record catch of the season.

Seated comfortably in an afromobile are Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Herman of New York City. They and their sons, Sidney and Howard, are guests at the Palm Beach Hotel.

Turner Collection narrated the fascinating story—completely documented by the late Miss Turner's Paintings and diaries. Mr. Fleischer's sparkling lecture revealed a great artist's strange narcissistic life—a life of self denial and self punishment. The presentation of this unique and unusual story was very well received by the audience.

The last week of December saw guests of the Palm Beach Hotel come up with the best qualitative as well as quantitative catches of the young season. One foursome of guests consisting of: Mr. Charles Schwartzman, Mr. Manny Leventhal, Mr. Herman Needle and Mr. Eugene Jacobs caught 14 sailfish.

On Tuesday the 2nd of January the Palm Beach Hotel presented Donald Scott-Morrison and his Conversation Concert. Mr. Morrison impersonated great composers like Handel, Chopin and Liszt, told the story of their lives and played some of their compositions on the harpsichord and the piano. The audience applauded enthusiastically Mr. Morrison's playing, acting and lecturing.

Continuing from the right, counterclockwise, we find Mr. J. Sprung, Mr. N. Bader, Mrs. J. Gottlieb, Mr. and Mrs. M. Leibman, Stevie Seiden, Barbara Gottlieb, Irene Kerman, Mr. L. Seiden, Mrs. N. Washington Letter

Dear Dora:

THE MOST NOTABLE WEDDING we've had in Washington this season was that of Margery Pepperell Clifford and Lt. William Henry Lanagan, Jr., U.S.M.C. It took place on December 20th and was attended by a star-studded group of Cabinet officers, diplomats, and legislators, led by the President and Vice-President.

The tall pretty blonde is the daughter of Clark McAdams Clifford, former special counsel to the President, and Mrs. Clifford of Washington. Margery was married in a Lanvin gown of champagne satin and Alencon lace that her mother had worn as a bride. Miss Joyce Clifford was her sister's maid of honor. In the line up of seven bridesmaids were: Anne Hadley, the daughter of Mrs. Alben Barkley, and Nancy Anderson, daughter of Senator and Mrs. Clinton Anderson of New Mexico.

Earlier in the month at a quiet candlelight ceremony in St. Matthew's cathedral, Miss Ebba Kleinwaechter, daughter of the Austrian Minister to the U.S., and Mme Kleinwaechter, was married to Dr. Herber Schober, secretary at the Austrian legation. Following a small reception at the Legation residence the newlyweds left on a honeymoon to Florida. They will make their home in Washington.

Saw small and bespectacled poet Ogden Nash roaming about unassumingly at statuesque Julie Ansberry's swank cocktail party given at the Sulgrave Club just before Christmas. The party was in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver J. Sterling of New York and Palm Beach. Mrs. Thos. R. Felder was another guest who will be heading Palm Beachward this winter. And Ann Mitchell who had breezed down from New York for the party, told me as usual she plans to be in Palm Beach in January. Another celebrity there was composer Vernon Duke who wrote "April in Paris," and who with Ogden Nash is readying a show for the spring to be entitled "Wedding Day." The attractive Julie who was divorced from Peter Ansberry this fall will be coming to Palm Beach sometime in February.

Did you hear that blonde Nina Lunn Sr. and Leigh Stevens were quietly married in Miami on December 26th? They will divide their time between "Old Brass," the estate of Mr. Stevens at Yemasee, S. C., and Florida where Mr. Stevens' yacht the "Sea Mist" has plied the water for years. Mrs. Stevens' beautiful daughter Nina Lunn, Jr. lives in Washington, but plans to be in Florida by the middle of January.

Speaking of the Lunnns, Nina Sr.'s brother, Richard Lunn, who is the son of Mrs. Wallace White and Senator White from Maine, is rumored to be getting a divorce from Mrs. Blyden Brown of Washington whom he married this summer.

Assistant Secretary of State Edward Miller and his slim, pretty wife Carol, both of whom are well known in Florida and Cuba, gave one of the best dinner parties of the Christmas season at their Foxhall Road Estate. The dinner was in honor of the Chilean Ambassador and Mme Felix Nieto del Rio, one of the most popular diplomatic couples in Washington.

Saw popular Betty Farrington, wife of the Delegate from Hawaii, lunching with her son, John, at the Mayflower Lounge just before Christmas. It was "hello and goodbye" for her as she left the next day to join Mr. Farrington for Christmas at the Caribe-Hilton Hotel in San Juan, Puerto Rico. Betty returned recently from Honolulu where she was hospitalized in recovering from a bad fall. It looks like the Farrington's dream of statehood for Hawaii has been shelved again due to politics.

Did you see Mr. and Mrs. Howard Railey (the former Sue Rosenberg) during their ten day stay in Palm Beach? They dashed through Washington enroute from Paris giving their friends entirely too little time to entertain them. Howard who was the former U. S. Civil Air Attache in Paris is representing a large aircraft engineering firm in that city where he is so well known.

Young looking Brig. General John B. Ackerman and Mrs. Ackerman, the former Faith Donaldson, are receiving congratulations on the birth of a little daughter just before Christmas. The General who has been the U. S. Air Attache in London for four years, has returned to intelligence work at the Pentagon and bought one of the show places in Virginia called "Ranleigh."

And, now, dear, I will trek out in the sleet and snow to get this off to you hoping it will bring forth an answer soon,

Yours,

GARNETT

SENOR FELIX NIETO DEL RIO,
Ambassador from Chile, and Mme Nieto del Rio.

PALM BEACH, FLORIDA

"GALA WATERS"—HOUSE WITH A PURPOSE

Designed to delight the eye,
Exalt the spirit — and
Satisfy the intelligence.

Steeped in Bermuda cottage atmosphere and tradition—here is a real home, eloquent in simple, flowing lines. Its dazzling roof tops harmonize with the climate.

Situated on a ribbon of high-ridged land running from the waters of the Atlantic Ocean to beautiful Lake Worth—These are the "GALA WATERS".

The grounds, measuring approximately 100' x 385' are luxuriously seascaaped with exotic ocean-loving shrubbery, trees and planting.

Perfect for the boatman—sharing with its neighbor one of the finest small-craft docks. A carefully planned channel connects dock to Inland Waterway, known as "The Highway from Boston to Key West".

Loggia and gracious terraces enjoy the strategic location between sky, water and land. Truly a spot of blue horizons in tropic splendor.

Luxurious Hacienda and Profitable Lime Grove

With all the charm of a South American landowner's hacienda, this 40-acre country estate and lucrative Persian lime grove offers both delightful and profitable living.

The 10-room residence, built around a cloistered patio centered by a swimming pool, is of superb construction. Rare hand wrought iron grilles and lighting fixtures, mellow paneled interiors and richly colored faience and Cuban tile floors heighten the Spanish motif. There are 3 master bedrooms, 4 baths; ser-vant's room and bath; an all-electric kitchen; and a 3-car garage.

The groves, which include about 7800 quality lime trees, have shown excellent returns, with even greater potentials.

Also included are a 5-room superintendent's cottage, 2 service cottages and farm buildings. Price $160,000. For details, call or write for illus. brochure 43210.

Norton Gallery Displays China's Glorious Past

A second watercolor by Maurice Pendergast has been added to the Norton collection, demonstrating his close alliance with European tapestry.

Charm, sophistication and a decorative tribute to the countryside of Normandie are contributed by Raoul Dufy whose picture completes this year's acquisitions. Unique color plus the ability to make every line and spot count combined with intense interest in gaining perspective through height instead of depth. This semi-abstract is one of the brightest scenes hanging on the walls of the Gallery.

The preview of the new additions "Opened" the season at Norton, although technically, the schedule is year round in scope. During the next few months, six exhibitions, three concerts, five films and a lecture are to be presented.

Currently showing is an exhibition of twenty-seven still life pictures.

The exhibit is slanted to eliminate the usual search for literary, political and moral motives in art. Willis F. Woods, Norton Gallery director, suggested to viewers of the works that the pure art form of the still life displayed be considered for the estimable qualities unique to painting.

Among the artists in the show are Jan Brueghel the elder, Karl Knaths, Paul Cezanne, Henri Matisse and Maurice Sterne.

Other January events at the Gallery include a show of Adolf Dehn works for the month, a concert by Giovanni Bagarotti, violinist, Jan. 26, and two movies for Art League Members, "Anna Christie," Jan. 22 and "Henri Matisse and Aristide Maillol," Jan. 29.

Freedom Is A Valuable Asset

FREEDOM IS MORE than a condition—it is a priceless asset. Freedom from worry and freedom of time are valuable to you in so many ways they stand apart. A troubled mind has time for little else than worry.

If you own stocks or bonds, why burden your mind and your time with details that engulf investments? Through a Custody Account with the First National Bank in Palm Beach you enjoy the services of an efficient "financial clerk" to attend to these troublesome chores. Income will be collected when due. Your instructions for sale or purchase of securities will be carried out promptly. The bank will advise you of bond calls and maturities and the expiration of "rights" or conversion privileges. You will receive complete and accurate reports . . . an invaluable record in connection with your tax returns.

You will be surprised how little it costs to enjoy these advantages. It should also be remembered that the Federal Income Tax Laws permit a deduction for custody fees paid from taxable income, so that the net cost to you may be substantially reduced. Obtain all the facts now without obligation. A conference with our Trust Officers relative to your personal requirements will be strictly confidential.

Dublin Inn Club and Cottages

Dublin, New Hampshire

*A little Inn of quiet dignity
and charm*

"The most wonderful air in the world," said Mark Twain after a season in Dublin. Altitude 1500 feet. Situated at the foot of Grand Monadnock Mt., Dublin is the third highest village east of the Rocky Mountains. Considered one of the most unique summer colonies in the east. Aside from its location and beautiful, picturesque surroundings, it offers superb golf, tennis, swimming and riding.

The Inn is charming and run in excellent taste. Summer sojourn for many Palm Beachers.

Wherever your favorite winter haven—whether it be along the gold-green coast of Florida or behind the blue seaboard of the Pacific in Los Angeles—there you will find a hotel rich in the beauty of its surroundings . . . a hotel whose life is of the spirit and tempo of the land . . . a hotel whose every detail surpasses your fondest dreams . . . a hotel that proudly shares with that of its own, the name—Schine. Each of the five magnificent establishments pictured here is a wonderland all its own—designed in the atmosphere of its particular setting and dedicated to the individual wishes of the guests who occupy it. But each is like the others in the warmth of its hospitality, the matchless character of its service, and the irreproachable caliber of its clientele. Yes, when you go where the sun shines . . . stay at a Schine Hotel!

Recipes

from Jamaica

DURING A LATE FALL VISIT to Jamaica, British West Indies, I was fascinated with the way my hostess and other friends added zest to ice creams, puddings, custards, and even tea and coffee, by adding a dash of one of the rich and full-bodied Jamaica rums, often serving the dish or drink with the rum blazing brightly. Even when the rum was not ignited, I was told that it always should be warmed before being used as a flavoring, and that when added in no more than a teaspoonful a lighted match or a cigarette lighter should be held under the spoon to warm it.

When the rum is used to replace lemon, vanilla or other standard flavorings, use at least twice as much, and in deserts you won't go wrong if you use four or five times as much. Especially when much of the rum will be consumed when it is lighted when you place the dish on the table, there isn't the slightest chance that even your Aunt Minnie from Kankakee can possibly become exhilarated by it to an unseemly extent!

Let's look at a few recipes:

JAMAICAN AFTERNOON TEA

Simplicity itself: in each cup use a slice of lemon, a teaspoon of sugar, and a teaspoon of Jamaica rum. then add a little more rum and ignite it, which will add to your reputation as a hostess with original ideas.

CAFE ROYALE AU RHUM

Just place a lump of sugar on a teaspoon, drench it with Jamaica rum and, after warming the spoon with a lighted match or cigarette lighter, ignite the rum. When it has burned out, drop it into the demi-tasse for a flavorful drink of coffee.

VERY RICH RUM COFFEE

Gourmet Magazine recently published this out-of-the-ordinary recipe: blend in the bottom of a china mug 2 teaspoons honey and 2 tablespoons cream. Pour in 1 cup boiling hot coffee and stir. Combine in a warm saucepan  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon each powdered allspice and powdered cinnamon, 4 strips of orange peel, and as much Jamaica rum as you think necessary and set fire to it. Stir while it burns and pour, still flaming, into the coffee. Stir again. (The best allspice comes from Jamaica, too!)

JAMAICA-BY-MOONLIGHT ICE CREAM

This dessert is as enjoyable in the smarter restaurants in New York as it is on a moonlight-bathed patio in tropical Jamaica: mix one tablespoon pineapple and apricot preserves with  $\frac{3}{4}$  ounce Jamaica rum for each serving and warm mixture gently before taking it to the table. Pour the sauce, while still warm, into a chafing dish, take it to the table and set it alight. Your ice cream (vanilla or cocoanut for choice) should have been already set out in serving dishes. While the sauce is burning, stir it until the flames are about to die, and then ladle it onto the ice cream.

New York Letter

Dear Dora:

HERE I AM FACING SEVERE BLASTS of cold weather, and to my way of thinking a little warm gossip is exactly what the doctor ordered.

One of the most hilarious stories I've heard recently concerns two figures prominent in international society. When you've read what I have to say, you can easily see why I'm not disclosing any names. Well, my dear, the two in question were recently remarried for the second time, and had just begun a sort of honeymoon, nothing fabulous you know, but they wanted to get away from it all for awhile as any newly married couple does. The bridegroom, driving a supercharged convertible, was paying no heed to speed laws, while his bride sat idly beside him, dreaming away the time until they reached their destination. As they sped away the asphalt on a lonely highway, the unpleasant sound of screaming sirens broke the silence of the night. A snarling cop pulled up beside the car and ordered it to a quick halt. Flustered and befuddled, the now unhappy bridegroom mumbled something about, "so sorry officer, we didn't realize we were going so fast, you see, we're on our honeymoon, if you wait a moment I'll show you our papers." The cop waited with rather a skeptical attitude, and as my friend fumbled in his pockets for the necessary proof, his romantically sentimental bride reached into her purse and then turned to the officer and said sweetly, "won't you please have a piece of our wedding cake, it's really awfully good." Needless to say friend officer broke into a huge smile and in his Irish brogue called, "Ah be off with you, the same thing happened to me on me wedding trip."

At a smart cocktail party at Armando's I ran into chic Irene Wrightman McEvoy and Kirk Douglas, the film star. They confided they were leaving for Hollywood but made no comment about marriage, which many friends believe will take place on the coast.

At the Colony Club the other afternoon whom should I see but glamorous Mimi Alexander, who has just returned to this country from Germany where she and her husband, Gen. Edward H. Alexander have been for two years. Eddy will join her here shortly. Mimi you know, is the half-sister of Alfred and George Vanderbilt. Their mother, Margaret Emerson, is one of society's most fashionable matrons, and rumor has it that she and Stanton Griffis, a friend of long standing, might make news one day.

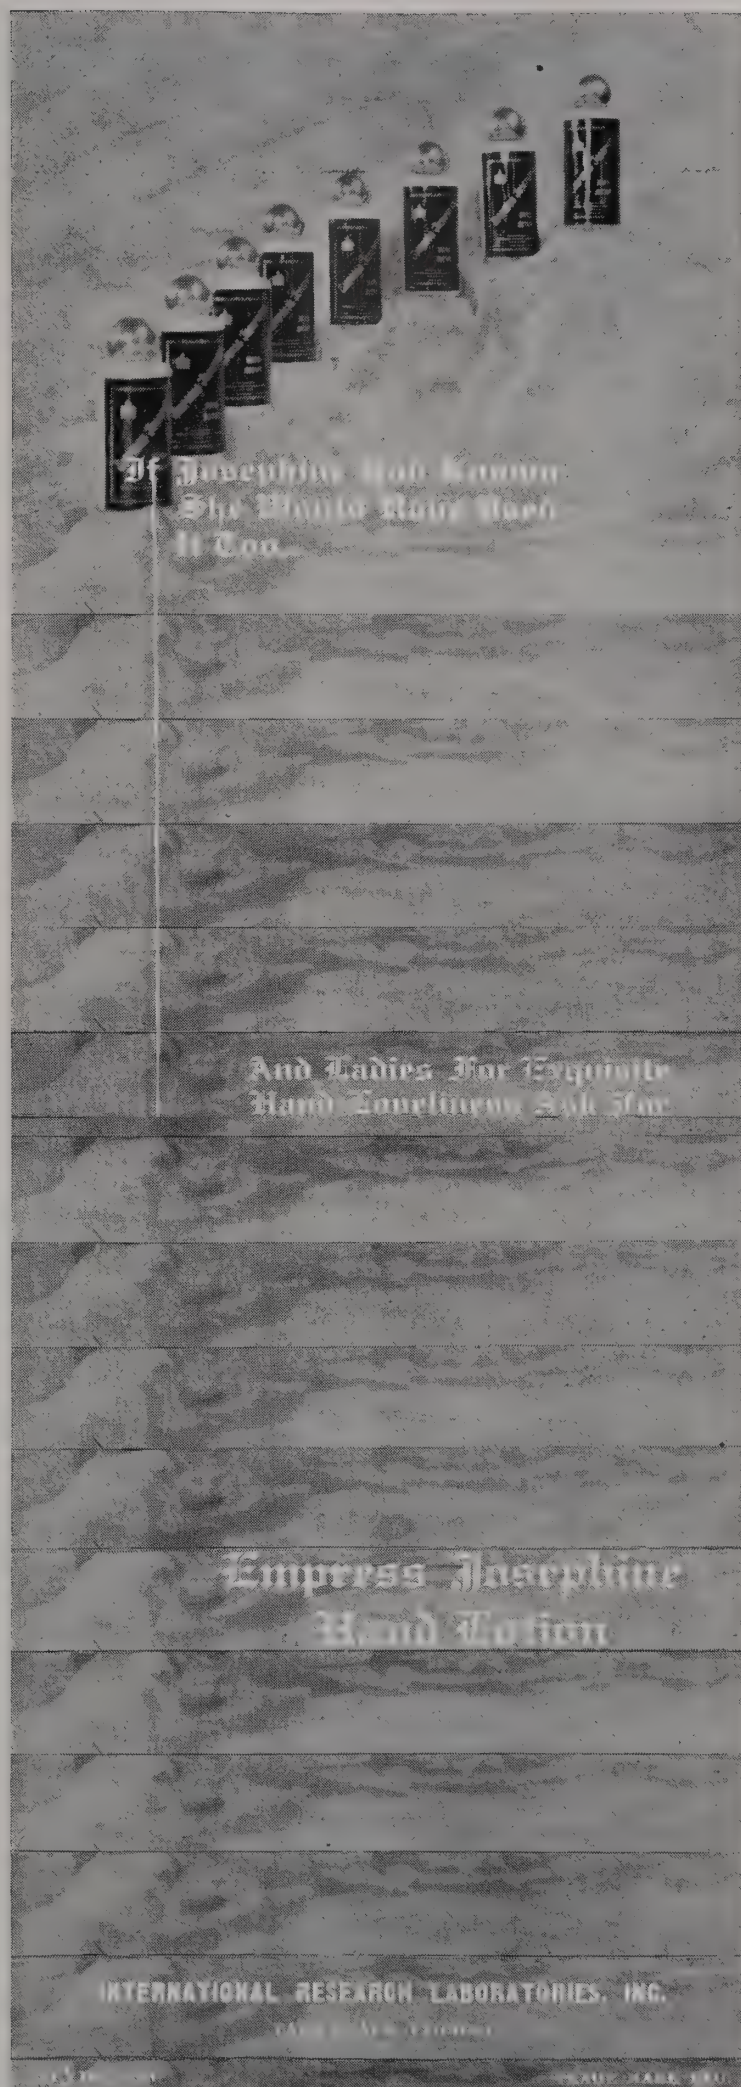

The diamond necklace tobacco heir Dick Reynolds presented his lovely Mary Ann with for a Christmas present dispels any rumor that the couple's marriage is heading for the divorce courts. As a matter of fact in early February Dick and Mary Ann are leaving aboard their yacht, "Zapala," for a cruise to the West Indies and South America.

Added amusing side-lights, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Larkin are living in a basement apartment here in Manhattan. This of course wouldn't strike the sense of humor of many people, but the fact is Donald is one of the heirs to the Park and Tilford fortune.

Well darling, my news is running short. Write me the gossip from your exotic land of sunshine, where the rustle of a palm frond might mean anything from a romantic rendezvous to the scamperings of one of your funny little green lizards.

Love,

Joan

Congressman Judd Recommends

DID YOU EVER WONDER if political parties have scouts just as the movies do . . . and if you heard Dr. Walter H. Judd, Congressman from the Fifth District, Minneapolis, Minn., when he addressed the Palm Beach Round Table on Jan. 15, did you feel as many Palm Beachers did . . . that here was a man of Presidential proportions?

A dynamic speaker with a broad, liberal background based on the best in American tradition, Dr. Judd, physician, missionary and statesman, called for an "awakening of the American people to the fact that we are at war; that we have suffered a second Pearl Harbor; and that we need a housecleaning to insure government whose prime objective will be internal and external security for the American people."

"Washington, Jefferson, Hamilton and the others who made it their prime objective to procure security through friendly shores to the West, would turn over in their graves could they know how their policies were being distorted under the name of Democracy," said Dr. Judd.

"I am ashamed," he declared, "and I wonder how crazy can we get . . . what is the matter with us, that we continue with an appeasement policy toward Russia that comes close to an attitude of ashamedness toward our own free way of life. Almost apologetic for being Americans, is what we appear to be at times."

"And let me remind you in passing, that the Communists who infiltrate for the purpose of spreading propaganda were not chosen because of a high dud-head rating. They are smart, keen politicians, and here in America those lured into the field are always drawn from the privileged class. Russia is no fool. But we are."

America he said was facing her darkest hour and laid the blame on our inability to see "the importance of keeping China's friendship as our forefathers did, and made sure no outside power ever got control there."

He advised that, "we withdraw from Korea at this point, accept Chiang Kai-shek's offer of his 60,000 troops on Formosa, and strike at Russia's most vulnerable spot . . . keep our beachheads in Korea of course to harass her and prevent her from getting into Indo-China . . . create turmoil closer to her home territory. In short, use every one of her tactics of deceit, and a veiling of the truth—the very lines Lenin used to describe how Communism itself would be spread."

"We too quickly forget our history, an example of it was presented to me recently when in conversation with Mr. Acheson, he told me he had never read the tenants of Communism as set down by Lenin in which he states, 'we will use every ruse, every deceit and veiling of the truth in spreading our propaganda'."

"I implore you in the name of God and all things you hold dear," concluded Dr. Judd, "to better understand your country's political history, to delve into, and learn about it. Jesus didn't say, 'the truth will set you free,' but 'Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall set you free.'"

Cat Key Club

CAT CAY, BAHAMAS, B.W.I., . . . Golf over the Windsor Downs course, tennis, skeet and fishing are favorite sports of Cat Cayers during current winter days in this exclusive resort.

The Fifth Annual Fort Lauderdale Cat Cay Race, starting off shore from the Lauderdale Yacht Club on the Florida Gold Coast Friday (26th), highlighted the weeks activities. After finish of race on Saturday at Gun Key near entrance to Pirates Cove Harbour, contestants came ashore for award of trophies and to enjoy the hospitality of the Cat Key Club.

Many colorful personalities, arriving aboard various smart craft, recently joined the colony in Cat Cay. The honeymooning Mr. and Mrs. Walter B. Brooks, who make their home at 1400 34th St., N.W., Washington, D. C., are here aboard their Yacht Berania. Mrs. Brooks, former Miss Mary Rogers, is the daughter of Will Rogers. Their cruise guest is Mrs. David Mdivani of Los Angeles and New York. The Mdivanis recently presented their young son, Michael with two small donkeys, obtained in Los Vegas. Before returning to the Mainland in about three weeks, the Berania will cruise to Nassau.

The Chanticleer, one of the handsomest yachts afloat, tied up a few days ago at one of the Cat Cay piers, with owners, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Carpenter, Montchanin, Del., aboard. They are new members of the Cat Key Club. Mr. Carpenter will be a contestant in the coming Cat Cay Tuna Tournament.

Mr. and Mrs. George B. Storer, Birmingham, Mich., winter colonists in Indian Creek Island, Miami Beach, who are cruising the Bahamas in their motor sailor Verlaine, recently joined the fleet in Pirates Cove Harbour. Mr. M. C. Gale and Miss Jane Gale, 15 East 91st St., New York, came to Cat Cay aboard yacht Stormy Petrel with Mr. Tommy Gifford of Miami, Fla.

Yacht Saint Pete, captained by Miss Betty Carstairs, with Mr. and Mrs. John Howcroft, all hailing from Miami Beach, put into Pirates Cove Harbour for a stay, when en route from the Florida mainland to Whale Key.

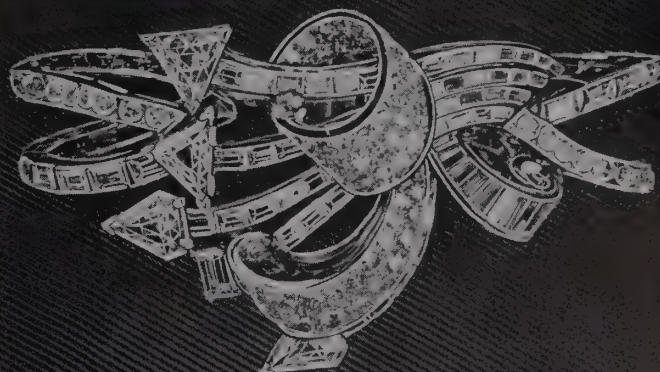

Mr. and Mrs. E. Julian Davis, Oklahoma City, who are cruising Bahamian waters aboard Yacht Sooner, name apparently taken from a traditional western colloquialism, recently joined the colony at Cat Cay. They were guests here last winter. The Robert Glendennings of Annapolis, Md., arrived in Pirates Cove Harbour aboard their 60 foot cruiser Mystic.

Mr. Elmer H. Bobst, New York, and winter colonist in Miami Beach, who is cruising tropical waters aboard Alisa IV, put into Cat Cay a few days ago. With him were Mr. G. Harold Mathew, Scarsdale, N. Y., Mr. Albert Moore and Mr. Steward Wagner, Forest Hills, N. Y., Mr. Eugene Denton, Beekman Hotel, Manhattan, and Mr. Howard Story of Philadelphia.

The handsome motor sailor, Mercury V, which has been moored at the MacArthur Causeway in Miami, Fla., for some time recently arrived at its winter berth in Cat Cay with owners, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur E. Pew, Jr., of Bryn Mawr, aboard. The Pews are members of the cottage colony in this resort.

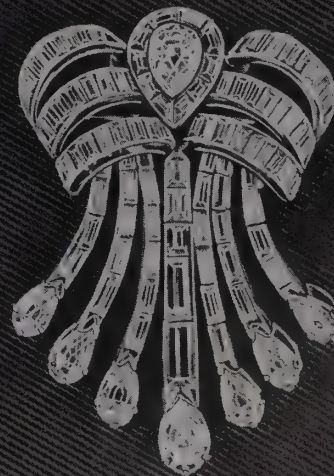

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Coolidge Crawford, Cleveland, in residence in their Cat Cay home Hi Tide for the season, gave a dinner party the other night in compliment to their house guests, Miss Margaret Buffam and Mr. and Mrs. John David Wright, also of Cleveland.

Society Life

MILES OF WORDAGE HAVE BEEN used to describe the elegance of a Palm Beach season, but only those who have lived under its magic spell know the real meaning of a tropical winter. Sun kissed days and sultry, starry nights, the fragrant wafts of night blooming jasmine, the flaming hues of the bouganvillea vine, all combine to make Palm Beach the most fabulous of winter resorts.

As the season progresses to its dazzling height, more and more colonists arrive, adding verve to the many social engagements which fill the calendars of smart resort hostesses.

Days are occupied with golfing foursomes, pool-side gatherings and late afternoon cocktail parties. In the evening, when the dark cloak of night envelops the island, the cottages and villas are brightly illuminated and become settings for gala dinner groups and small intimate dances.

"Amado," the seaside villa of Mr. Charles A. Munn, the resort's leading social leader, has been the scene of many small dinners at which Mr. Munn entertains his host of friends here. Mr. and Mrs. Claude K. Boettcher entertained colonists for dinner at "Southwood," their home on Via del Lago. There was music by Joe Bonni. The Boettcher garden, one of the most fabulous in the resort, is quite often the setting for smart gatherings.

Maj.-Gen. and Mrs. Ralph K. Robertson have entertained with dinners at "Casa Della Porta," their home in Via del Mar. The Earl E. T. Smiths have had dinners at their home on North Ocean Boulevard, where recent guests included his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Hutton of New York.

The Emerald Lane home of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry Jr. formed the setting for a cocktail party recently when the Perrys entertained a large company of friends.

Guests included his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry; Princess Laura Rospigliosi, Mr. and Mrs. William M. Greve, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis H. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Drexel Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Foster Milliken, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Heminway, Mr. and Mrs. Blaine Webb, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus W. Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Van Husan, Col. and Mrs. Arthur H. Carter, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wilson Sweatt, Mr. and Mrs. Alexis Obolensky, Mr. and Mrs. A. Lachlan Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Grace, Mr. and Mrs. George W. Blabon 2d, Mr. and Mrs. James A. dePeyster and his sister, Mrs. Eric von Raits, Mr. and Mrs. Henry K. Harding, Mrs. John C. King and Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Page Hufty.

Others were: Mr. and Mrs. William G. Cluett, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Milholland, Mr. and Mrs. Horton Rorick Prudden, Mr. and Mrs. Byron Lee Ramsing, Mr. and Mrs. Wiley R. Reynolds, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. P. Peter Prudden, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Paul L. Maddock, Mr. and Mrs. John R. Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. Russell P. Kelley, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Sheedy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Richardson, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John W. Peck, Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Terry, Mr. and Mrs. H. Halpine Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Bowen Blair, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Rasmussen, Cmdr. and Mrs. John M. L. Rutherford, Mr. and Mrs. Barron Collier, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John D. F. Kenny, Miss Pat Kennedy, Miss Eunice Kennedy, Mr. Henry I. Barbey, Mr. Boone Porter, Mr. Frank Kemp Quigley, Dr. Tage Teisen, Maj. Frederic C. Collin and Mr. Edward Ball.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest G. Howes were hosts to a group for luncheon. Their guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Carl P. Dennett, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Perry, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Francis Coe, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Draper, Mr. and Mrs. Paul A. Draper of Canton, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Jack Mitchell of California, Mrs. Edward F. Swenson and Mr. Herbert W. Kendall.

Mr. and Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody Jr. have come from Chicago to join his mother, Mrs. Stuyvesant Peabody at her home on Via del Lago. Also included in the houseparty is Mrs. Peabody's nephew, Mr. Thomas H. Healy, and Miss Mary Ellen Ryan, both of whom came down from Chicago. Coming in early February will be Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Williams of England for a seasonal visit in the resort.

Mr. and Mrs. Benson Ford arrived from Grosse Pointe Farms to occupy "Casa del Sur," Mrs. Viotor Townsend's house on South Ocean Boulevard. Mrs. Townsend is occupying a house on Sea Spray Avenue for the season.

Mrs. Edgar W. Leonard is a member of the houseparty at "Casa Alva," the island home of Col. and Mme. Jacques Balsan. Recently Mr. and Mrs. Rufus W. Scott entertained with a luncheon to honor the Balsans and their guests.

Expected shortly are: Mr. and Mrs. Harry O. H. Frelinghuysen of Washington, who will be guests of her father, Mr. George Lovett Kingsland at his Lakefront home. Mrs. Lyttleton Fox of New York is a guest of Mrs. Alexander D. B. Pratt at "Villa Sonia," where others will be Mrs. Jorge R. Andre of New York, and Mrs. Donald C. MacRae of Tuxedo Park. Mrs. Pratt's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Richardson Dilworth of Philadelphia, are occupying a cottage on Sunset Avenue.

Of much interest here and in Detroit was the marriage January 27 of Miss Constance Townsend Willis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pierre LaJard Willis and Mr. James Milton Earl, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harley J. Earl of Grosse Pointe Farms, Mich. The ceremony, performed by the Rev. Tage Teisen, took place in the chapel of the Church of Bethesda-by-the-Sea. Miss Margaret Gordon McCall of New York was the bride's only attendant.

Mr. Jerome Courtney Earl came from the University of Virginia to be best man for his brother.

Miami

A PREDOMINATELY BOATING SCHEDULE for the first two weeks of February will give way and share the spotlight with the $25,000 McLennan Race at Hialeah Race track, February 10.

Two outstanding boating events are scheduled to begin in Miami only three days apart. The nautical classic is bringing boating sportsmen here from all sections of the country to participate in the Lipton Cup Race on the 10th and the Miami-Nassau Race on the 13th.

Boating enthusiast Clarence A. Wimpfheimer, Stonington, Conn. milling tycoon, has entered his boat "Manatuck" in both the Lipton Race and the Miami-Nassau contest.

George A. Bass of Oxford, Mich., now wintering in Palm Beach has registered his "Ben Bow" in both events.

Baxter R. Still, Jr., Boston, Mass., wintering in Miami and Nassau, announced he will enter his Sandra III in the Miami-Nassau contest.

Textile manufacturer Gilbert Verney, Manchester, N. H., will guide his "Katuna" in quest of first place honors over the 184-mile course to Nassau.

"Flying Cloud" owned and guided by Fred M. Temple, Toledo, Ohio, transportation executive, is bringing his boat from its Ft. Lauderdale berth to enter the two stellar events.

Horace Binney's "Ariel IV" has been entered in both events. Mr. Binney's winter home is Melbourne, Florida.

Mamaroneck, N. Y. is contributing Harvey Conover and his "Revonoc," 1947 Miami-Nassau race winner, to the Miami scene this winter. Conover will enter the Miami-Nassau race and the Lipton Cup race.

Miami Beach advertising man Kennon Jewett has registered the Malabar XIII for both sailing events.

The Miami-Nassau race is comparable to the Bermuda event. Boats are eligible from 15 to 35 feet over all measurement.

The Lipton Cup race is staged off Miami with the boats following a triangular course for 30 miles.

Nautical sportsmen will see the latest in yachting design when the Miami Boat Show is presented Feb. 9-17 at Miami's Dinner Key Auditorium. All major boat companies in the country will be represented. Boats ranging from the very small skim variety to 38' cruisers will be on display in categories including motorboats, sailboats, inboard and outboard boats. A rather novel feature of the show will be an all steel boat.

Pushing to take the spotlight from the boating events will be the $25,000 McLennan race which has received 77 nominations for the stellar event. Among winter visitors to Miami and Palm Beach who have nominated their horses for the race are: Mrs. Aksel Wichfeld who will send "Daiquari" as her representative to cop honors; Ogden Phipps' "Busanda" is slated to compete along with Mrs. E. H. Augustus' "Seven League."

"Cochise" owned by the Brandywine Stables is rated a favorite with Mrs. E. L. Hopkins' "Three Rings." Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' "Post Card" and J. M. Seider's stake winner, "Royal Castle," are both seeking the $25,000 prize money.

George D. Widener has nominated "Reveille" to carry his colors into the race. Charles T. Fisher, Detroit banker and owner of the Dixiana stables, picked "Shy Guy" sired by Challedon, to represent his group.

C. V. Whitney's "Mount Marcy" and "Mr. Trouble" have been nominated in the bangtail race along with Arnold W. Hanger's "Balan" and "White Milk."

In addition to these events, three basketball games are scheduled on the second, fifth and ninth. The U. of Miami will play host to Florida, LaSalle and Southern on these dates.

Cat fanciers are slated to feature their prized pets Feb. 3-4 at Bayfront Park auditorium.

The evening of Jan. 15 marked the date when sunny Miami unveiled its ice skating rink. The Coliseum is the site for this latest winter activity. Winter visitors who left their blades at home can rent skates at the Coliseum.

On hand to participate in these winter events are: Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Mace of Rock Island, Ill., Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. LaGrange and daughter, Brenda, of New York City, and Judge Sam C. Nuckols, Versailles, Ky. Judge Nuckols is celebrating his 20th winter season here this year.

Luncheon parties at the Hialeah clubhouse brought together socialite visitors from Greater Miami north to Palm Beach on opening day, Jan. 17. Among the group were: Amory L. Haskell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. J. Simpson Dean and Mr. and Mrs. John A. Morris.

On hand for the first performance of "Elixir of Love" were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Olson of Chicago, who each year time their arrival here with the opening of the Miami Opera season. Always one of Miami's best dressed in any gathering, Mrs. Olson wore pearl gray, embroidered in bugle beads. Her wrap was white ermine, topped with orchids.

From Coral Gables came Mrs. Henry Clay Anderson, Mrs. Maylen Newby Pierce, the Sylvain Greenes, Mrs. Audrey Maguire and her pretty daughter, Gloria, whose attire for the opera was all white.

Some came from Hollywood, Fla., for this occasion. In this group were: Mrs. Frank E. Carpenter, Mrs. Robert Houston and Mrs. Roe Fulkerson.

The South patio with huge French doors leading to the main foyer looks out over a spacious lawn and a view of Lake Worth.

THE MAGICAL ISLAND—an inherited phrase, and an old-timer. Those who use it n'er fail to impress you with their sincerity. Mr. Charles F. Freeman, Jr., new owner of the Nelson Odman home in Jungle Road says that's why he bought the house and plans to make Palm Beach his permanent home.

The island is magical the young man says, and when asked why he selected the big spacious villa with the intriguing balconies and corridors, courtyards, patios and even a tower with winding stairway reminiscent of the "look-out," days, said that was the reason.

"Palm Beach represents to me all the fine old American traditions . . . gracious living . . . time for reflection, for reminiscing . . . perhaps if you will, an escape from the mighty roar of taut industry."

Sprinting over the house like a boy with a new toy, Mr. Freeman seemed most impressed with the facilities for outdoor living his new home affords. He's an oil operator, served during War II aboard a destroyer in the South Pacific and now unless plans change expects to carry on business as usual from his Jungle Road abode.

There is something about Torre Bianca that suits itself to a bachelor's paradise. The spacious cypress-paneled living room has an air of informal elegance, and the book shelves lined with something of everything . . . Black Beauty to The Rise and Fall of the Roman Empire, afford a look back, if you choose, to the delights of youth, and a chance to refresh memories with those wonderful meaty things you once skipped over in prescribed reading.

Torre Bianca (Mr. Freeman has dropped the original La) was a Howard Major house and reflects that resourceful architect's love of the livable grandiose.

Great wrought iron doors give entrance to the spacious hall floored in huge marble squares that lead to French windows which in turn present a charming patio overlooking Lake Worth. A merging of the Spanish and Italian in architectural splendor creates many archways, an abundance of windows and steps leading from one room to the other.

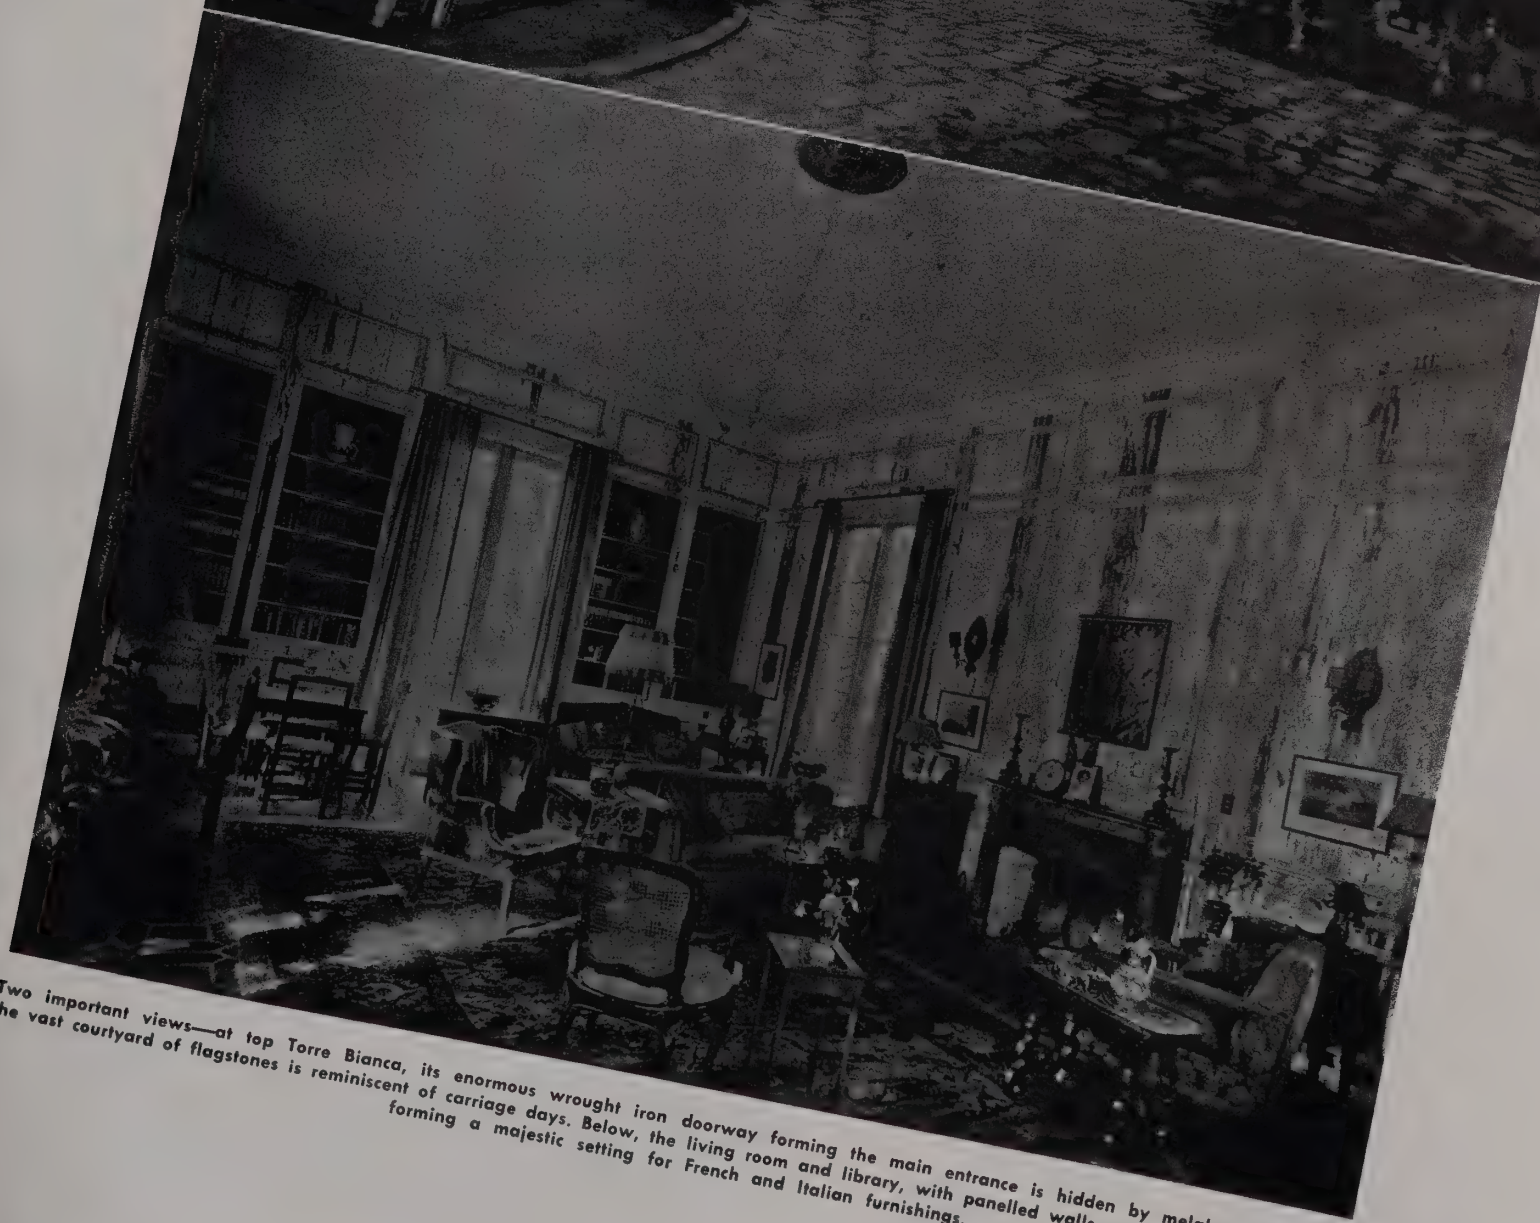

But despite his new home here and a world of enthusiasm for it, Palm Beach is not new to Mr. Freeman—probably accountable for his outspoken fondness for the resort. He used to visit his aunts here he said, the Misses Anne and Marian Freeman of St. Louis.

Recalling wonderful vacations spent here and also how his grandfather, Louis G. Freeman, a great friend of the late Henry Morrison Flagler owned large holdings in the Glades, "until the storm of 1928 dimmed his joy of Florida farming," Mr. Freeman indicated he planned to have Torre Bianca open house, and to share its beauty with friends and relatives.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Freeman of St. Louis, Mr. Freeman was graduated from Yale University in 1942. He is a member of the Noonday, University and Bellerive clubs of St. Louis.

"I want to live the way I want to," said he when photos shown here were snapped for a series of architectural studies in Palm Beach Life . . . "hope I can spend most of my time here, combining business and pleasure . . . certainly Palm Beach and my new home offer sufficient to make such an arrangement plausible."

Two important views—at top Torre Bianca, its enormous wrought iron doorway forming the main entrance is hidden by melaleuca trees and the vast courtyard of flagstones is reminiscent of carriage days. Below, the living room and library, with panelled walls and recessed book shelves forming a majestic setting for French and Italian furnishings.

Mrs. Saul Rosenstein of New York who is visiting Whitehall accompanied by Mr. Rosenstein. She is the renowned dress designer.

HENRY M. FLAGLER, WHITEHALL, Palm Beach—insofar as fame is concerned all are equal in value although it may be argued that had it not been for Flagler there might not have been a Palm Beach, and by the same token, a Whitehall. Certainly Palm Beach would not have gained such quick access to a rating of the most famous playground in America, and most certainly Whitehall set the standard in early days for the fabulous villas that followed in its wake.

The story of Flagler has oft times been told, and when you stop to recall that he was born 121 years ago, in 1830, it may well be assumed that at least four-going-on-five generations have heard varying details of the empire builder of Florida.

But for the benefit of Whitehall guests, many of whom have asked from time to time about the man who built the palace that is so reverently maintained by the present management, facts have been gathered from files of the Palm Beach Daily News, early copies of Palm Beach Life and other publications.

Fundamentally the Flagler story is the most lovable of all—its theme the age-old interest arouser of local boy makes good. Born January second, 1830 in Hopewell, New York, it was at the age of 14 he set off like Dick Whittington, to seek his fortune.

At least as record has it, he was eager to find employment, and it may be surmised, judging from descriptions of his home life in a town where there was little but farming to engage in, that he was also eager to escape, discover, and make a new world for himself.

His father was a poor Presbyterian minister but his mother by a previous marriage had been connected with a large and prosperous family by the name of Harkness and it was with parental permission that the young Flagler set off in 1844 dressed in homespun clothes to join his half-brother, David M. Harkness in Republic, Ohio. Young Harkness managed a general store for his uncle and had indicated he had use for Flagler's services.

Starting off on foot, the young fortune-seeker walked nine miles to Medina, N. Y. where he embarked as a member of the crew on a small freighter plying the Erie Canal, and thence arrived in Buffalo where he was not so fortunate, and after paying his fare on a Lake Erie boat that was to take him to Sandusky young Flagler was practically broke. He arrived in Republic as a matter of record with nothing more to jingle in his pockets than a nickel, four pennies and a French coin. He kept the French coin for the rest of his life as a good luck piece according to a New York Tribune story of 1906, and later when he became rich and famous said he did it in imitation of the biblical character who had but one talent.

Flagler worked three years for his half-brother starting at a salary of five dollars a month, and boosted the business of the L. G. Harkness store so that even the community took notice of his untiring efforts and keen business acumen.

When only in his late teens he became manager of the Harkness store, his half-brother moving on to a partnership in a new business in Bellevue. This move was to have an important affect on Flagler for in a few years he too joined the Bellevue firm with a $4.00 increase in salary and here laid the foundation for the great fortune he was later to enjoy.

Propinquity, wisdom, and there is no reason to believe love was lacking, brought to fruition a romance between Flagler and Miss Mary Harkness in 1853. She was the daughter of Lemon Harkness who was an uncle of Flagler's by marriage. The Harkness family was pleased with the union because they had come to think of the young man from Hopewell as a member of the clan.

Now with a pretty wife, a hearth and home, Flagler's incentive to get ahead was stimulated to a new high. His progress in business was rapid and when the firm of Harkness and Chapman expanded into the distillery and liquor field, it was through Flagler's efforts that the volume of their business was doubled. The Ohio gentlemen sensing his value began to pay him a commission, and by 1852 he had saved three thousand dollars.

The pattern for the future Flagler fortune was beginning to take shape. He was invited to become a third partner in the liquor firm, and accepted, even though it is recorded he did not do so without his puritan conscience pricking him a bit.

And even though the distillery business was quite as respectable in the 1850's as it is today, Flagler after a few years was overcome by his scruples, and sold out to Dan, his half-brother—but not without a very handsome profit.

The years in Bellevue were happy ones for the Flaglers despite the outbreak of the Civil War. Two daughters and a son were born to them, and during the war years Flagler profited from the sale of grain for that was the enterprise he chose after leaving the liquor firm.

Somewhat of a pacifist as he would probably be called today, he felt no urge to answer Lincoln's call for volunteers although Dan Harkness responded immediately. To Flagler war meant waste and destruction and was most imprudent from an economic standpoint.

At age 32 Flagler had accumulated a fortune of $50,000—no mean parcel in 1862. But although happy in Bellevue and certainly leading a delightful home and social life—the Flaglers were considered among the “best” people in the little Ohio town, he appears to have become eager for new fields to conquer. Salt had been discovered in Saginaw, Mich., and since it could be produced tax exempt Flagler joining his father-in-law, moved there and entered his new business phase with lively zest.

This venture marked the future builder baron's first and last failure for in three years the salt market collapsed and besides losing his fifty thousand, Henry Flagler found himself in debt as well, to that extent.

Whitehall was still 36 years away, but the desire for a position of prestige which the magnificent white palace reflects today was still burning brightly in the heart of the son of a poor Presbyterian minister.

The Civil War had ended, the state of the union was at low ebb, and so were Flagler's finances. However it didn't get him down, and instead of returning to Bellevue which would have been an easy way to recoup, he chose Cleveland, one of the leading cities in Ohio with excellent transportation facilities both over land and water. With a few hundred dollars borrowed from his father-in-law he set up a grain business since it seemed logical to take on that with which he was most familiar.

He was eager to pay off his debts and in conjunction with the grain business tried to market a new kind of horse-shoe of his own invention. But the scheme fell through and for the first time the former master of Whitehall became discouraged but not to a point of downright desperation.

At this point through acquaintance with a grain commission merchant, Maurice B. Clark, Flagler once again knocked on the door of opportunity. Clark had just been left alone to run a grain business, his partner John D. Rockefeller having chosen to follow the development of oil interests since he believed that product had a better future. Flagler asked to take his place, did so without having to invest a penny, so well was his ability thought of by Clark.

Flagler of course met and came to know Rockefeller, and later became a member of the firm of Rockefeller, Andrews and Flagler which was a forerunner of the Standard Oil Company. The story of oil is one of the most colorful in the pages of America's industrial development, and although Flagler had looked upon it much as a get-rich-quick scheme, and he had had enough of that, he eventually in 1866 became affiliated with it. Elegant and cosmopolitan, its vast domain encircling the former Flagler palace with an addition constructed in 1925 when it was decided to convert that mansion into a hotel, Whitehall today maintains a beach club known as the Sun and Surf and a country club.

Expected soon for her annual stay is Taylor Caldwell (Mrs. Marcus Reback of Eggertsville) who will be accompanied by Mr. Reback. Her new book “The Balance Wheel” acclaimed by literary critics has just been published and quite in keeping with the famous author's own convictions and philosophy, traces down the folly, poor judgment, and in short many errors that led to Wars I and II, which might have been avoided “if all people really didn't want war.”

A Century of Bridal Fashions and Customs

IN 1850, GODEY'S LADY'S BOOK stated the requirements for a bride of fashion like this: "For the dress, at least $500. That is reasonable indeed, my dears. And, for the veil $125. This can later be used with ballgowns" . . . meaning that the lace veil could serve as a scarf, or sometimes as a draped overskirt.

While the white wedding dress and veil were in fashion at this time, surprisingly enough, they were not in vogue in Colonial days, "when brides wore bright flowered brocades and cherry and primrose damask." The veil was adjusted with a wreath or "chaplet" of flowers, a custom which had come down from Anglo-Saxon days. The bridesmaids of Queen Victoria, by the way, a decade before, had worn chaplets of white roses!

The most romantic bride of this era was Jenny Lind who came to America in 1850 and married her young accompanist in Boston, two years later. Then, in Paris in 1853, a Spanish beauty, Eugenie de Montijo, was driven to Notre Dame Cathedral and made Empress of France by the much older Napoleon III. The Emperor, who was very much in love, gave her as his wedding gift, an historic 51-carat diamond (which is still known as the "Eugenie diamond") and diamond pendant earrings, "with drops as large as almonds," which had belonged to Marie Antoinette.

Eugenie had two wedding gowns, one for the religious and another for the civil ceremony. The gown for the church services was white satin, the skirt tiered with five rows of rich lace and the bodice clasped and belted with real diamonds. This gown was so bouffant that American brides afterward wore seven petticoats, each with a deep flounce . . . and later, underskirts of horsehair.

Royal brides were noted for large and lavish weddings. It is said that an English princess once had 16 bridesmaids, to correspond to her age. But the great wedding pageants didn't occur in America until the 1870's, when churches were large and homes had ballrooms to accommodate a thousand guests at the reception.

A smart Fifth Avenue wedding of 1873 is described in this flowery manner by a male reporter: "The momentous day broke cheerfully and the church looked its best. Evergreens festooned the pillars and chaste decorations adorned the chancel, over which a brilliant light was shed by a star composed of gas jets. The noon-day sun slanted across pews occupied by gorgeously-attired ladies and gentlemen, in full dress. Halfway down the aisle, a ribbon was stretched, separating the seats set apart from the family. The time drew nigh, the full tones of the great organ pealed forth and the wedding cortege moved up the aisle with the solemnity of a royal coronation."

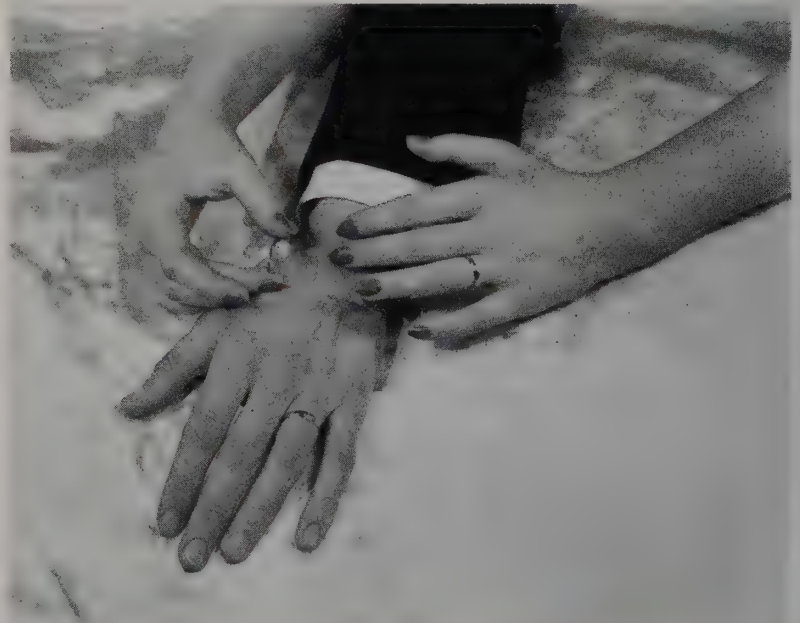

The wedding procession of that time would certainly seem strange to persons of 1951. This is the way it was "lined up" . . . first came two ushers in tails and white tie (at 12 noon, remember), with red roses in their buttonholes. Then four best men (or groomsmen) and four bridesmaids in couples, followed by the bride and her be-whiskered father. Bringing up the rear, were the bride's mother and her future son-in-law, walking arm-in-arm. According to research on the subject, it was an old European custom for the bride's mother to march in the wedding procession, always escorted by the bridegroom. An omen of family peace, perhaps!

In the 1880's and into the 1890's, many brides carried nuptial fans instead of flowers. This was because it was the era of such tight lacing, they were apt to swoon at the altar. Likewise, the bridesmaids carried a fan and a bottle of smelling salts. In spite of all this however, no wedding was ever complete without flowers of some kind and the posies considered "smart" at this time, were orange blossoms. The bride wore them, real or wax, in her veil and laces and sometimes, in the great pouf on her bustle. The finest wedding gowns during this period of history were made by Worth in Paris and sent to this country packed in willow hampers.

Big and lavish weddings reached a climax for the century, when Consuela Vanderbilt became the Duchess of Marlborough in 1895 at St. Thomas' Church in New York City. This was considered one of the great international matches of all time. The entire interior of the church was trimmed with rare orchids brought by the boatload from the greenhouses of Blenheim Castle in England, the Duke's estate. Walter Damrosch directed a symphony orchestra and a choral society sang selections from the operas. The bridal gown had a full court train and the head-dress was arranged with a ducal coronet of orange blossoms.

The idea had already become traditional that the wedding gift from bridegroom to bride should contain diamonds;

Wedding rings for men were generally accepted a century ago and came back into fashion during World War II. The bride's band is a narrow duplicate of the bridegroom's ring and her engagement diamond is a round brilliant mounted in the tailored fashion of fifty years ago.

undoubtedly an extension of the engagement diamond symbolism. Marlborough's gift contained a lot. He gave his bride a diamond belt! Her parents presented pearls that had once belonged to Catherine of Russia. Diamond crescents and full moons four inches across (usually worn in the hair), a dog collar of diamonds and pearls and a watch in blue enamel suspended from a bowknot of diamonds were among the other gifts.

When Helen Gould, only daughter of Jay Gould, was married to Finley Shepherd, the wedding gifts were valued at $500,000 and padlocked display cases had to be set up by a jewelry firm. The bridegroom's gift, sent on the wedding morning, was a diamond pendant which Miss Gould wore with her bridal gown. The George Goulds sent a diamond bowknot valued at $50,000.

Acclaimed the most magnificent wedding of modern times, were the nuptials of the daughter of the Duke of Alba to the Duke of Montoro, which occurred in October 1947 at Seville, Spain. The fabulous wedding was "written up" by newspapers and magazines all over the world and a national American magazine, devoted two different issues to the proceedings and history of the family.

The youthful Duke and Duchess of Montoro spent part of their three-months honeymoon in Palm Beach at The Breakers and were interviewed by this reporter for the Palm Beach Daily News. While the Duchess wore one of the most gorgeous wedding gowns in the history of contemporary times, she confined her resort wardrobe to tailored suits for daytime and frilly and feminine dinner and evening gowns. Cayetana and Luis made a host of friends here, for their complete naturalness and democratic attitude.

Coming down to current times, the bride of 1951 will be able to choose her wedding finery from dozens of accepted styles . . . the majority, while modern to the nth degree, show definite period influences. Silhouettes inspired by 18th and 19th Century stylings; modern silhouettes that have been translated from Greek, Roman and Victorian wedding clothes. For the formal church wedding, white is still the accepted color . . . satin or lace in romantic styles; featuring long trains and exquisite materials. Veils are usually about fingertip length; accented by flowers, Juliette caps or simply manipulations of the veil fabric.

At intervals, stylists promote pastel tints for bridal gowns and such an exploitation is now going on for Spring brides. At a recent fashion show in New York, the brides wore white sheer wedding gowns, over multi-colored petti-

In 1873, the wedding was large, dressy and dollar-conscious! This scene took place in a fashionable Fifth avenue church at high noon, but the men were all in white tie and the women, in full evening costume. The bride here wears a low-necked, sleeveless and bustle-back gown and an elaborate diamond necklace, the gift of the bridegroom. There is no chance of this essential individual (bridegroom) escaping either, as her mother, who walks behind, has him by the arm and will deliver him directly to the clergyman!

The parson blesses the bride and bridegroom of 1847! Note that the bride wears her betrothal ring on the middle finger and the wedding band on what we now call the ring finger. In this era, the troth ring was often a heavy cluster of diamonds and the wedding band was wide and heavy too, so the two rings were worn on separate fingers.

In the 1860's, the wedding dress reached its widest proportions, but the bouquet remained small and tight. The bridal jewelry featured diamonds set in gold and black enamel; the ring holds an old "cushion-cut" diamond. As pictured here, the Victorian bride was always well-covered . . . high neckline, long sleeves, seven petticoats and a pair of mitts.

Wedding Styles and with the Times But Ceremony

This bride illustrates the elegance of 1898. The robe of rosepoint lace is an original from the famous wedding gown collection of Helen Virginia Meyer. Note the pendant diamond earrings which are in fashion again at present; also the butterfly brooch and the tiny diamond stars in the hair. When pompadours came in, bridal veils literally took a back seat! The favored bridal bouquet was a sheaf of roses.

coats. The attendants' dresses picking up the color and fabric interest . . . resulting in a veritable rainbow array of color for the bridesmaids, matron and maid of honor.

The ballerina length is one of the newsworthy items in bridal gowns for spring and summer . . . a bouffant four inches from the floor. This idea of course is adaptable to the young bride and her attendants echo the same ideas in their colorful dresses.

Speaking of bridal fashions and customs through the century, the informal wedding is also important. And, in these days of war and chaos, many brides deciding to wed in a hurry because their prospective husbands are going overseas, wear whatever is available in their wardrobes. The suit is always in good taste for this type of wedding, accessorized with flowers and jewels. Or, the simple afternoon dress, glamourized with frou frou hat, gloves and bag.

And, speaking of jewels, while they are still of paramount importance for a wedding of any type, the display is not as ostentatious as in former years. The modern rule is simplicity. And, this applies to both the bride's jewels worn on her wedding day and to the engagement and wedding rings. The double ring ceremony brought back into vogue in World War II, is still much in evidence and promises to be more popular than ever for 1951 weddings.

But this being a quantity age, if nuptials are less elaborate, generally speaking, there are more of them. More than a half million girls said "I do" in the United States in 1950, and just as many or probably more, are rehearsing the line for the 1951 production.

Meet the "boudoir cap bride" of the boy who came marching home from war in 1919! She wore shadow lace, georgette crepe and a diamond filigree bar-pin. Her rings were in that new Russian metal called platina, afterwards known as platinum. The bouquet was an arm version, accented with large satin bow and a shower of narrower ribbons and bows.

In the 1951 manner, the bride is gowned in ivory satin and lace; modern and yet reminiscent of yesteryear. The beautiful styling features high neckline with tiny collar, long fitted sleeves and extravagant train of lace. The skirt is styled with connecting godets of lace and satin. The short tulle veil, pearl necklace and shower bouquet of white roses, are effective accents, stressing smart simplicity.

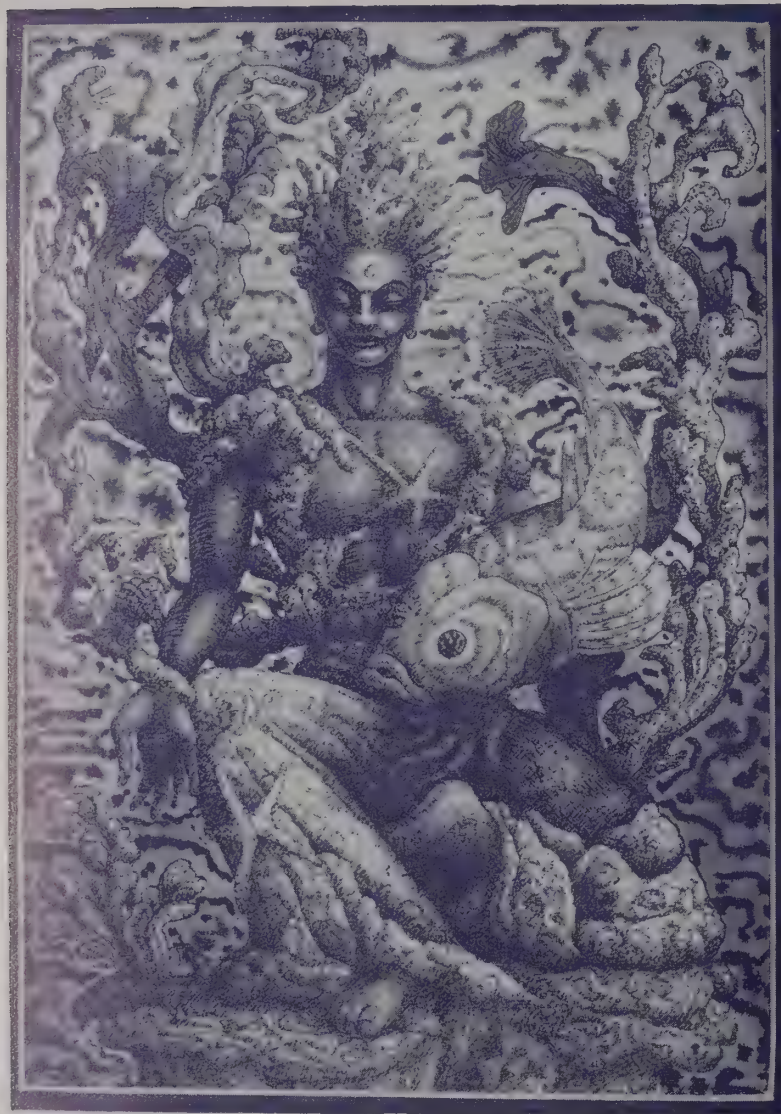

The modern bride in her mandarin "pillbox" veil arrangement, designed by Bunny Hollander whose family has been "in bridal veils" since 1888. Another tradition preserved, is the wearing of the bridegroom's wedding gift . . . in this case, a tiny gold album with diamond clasp which opens like a locket. The diamond engagement ring and wedding band, feature smart simplicity in contemporary manner.

AN EXHIBITION IN TWO PARTS by two young American artists opening Feb. 5 at the Worth Avenue Gallery will present watercolors by John Franklin Hawkins and Keith Ingerman. Both are artists well-known to Palm Beach and both have been Society of the Four Arts winners in Membership Annuals.

Mr. Hawkins has had several one-man shows in New York and at the Norton Gallery of Art here as well as the Research Studio in Maitland, Fla. A fine draughtsman, folios of his drawings were published by John Hornby, and the Domesday Press with introduction by Prof. John Howard Birss accompanying the latter.

He was formerly art instructor at Bennett Junior College in Millbrook, N. Y. and winner of a two-year Mary Curtis Bok Fellowship for experimental painting. His experience has been wide and diversified.

Deep-sea diving is his hobby and the exciting beauty of the ocean's wonder-world deep down, is often the subject for his watercolors.

Private Ingerman in the Air Corps, stationed at Lackland, Texas, is among the most promising of younger artists. He was picked from his squadron to do murals at air corps headquarters just recently and was chosen from a large group of contestants to paint the Nativity for the Lackland Air Base headquarters.

The Biltmore Hotel

SCINTILLATING LIKE A HIGHLY POLISHED jewel, Dan Taylor's majestic Palm Beach Biltmore, masterfully directed by James J. Farrell continues as the pace setter in the world of smart resort hostelries along Florida's Gold Coast.

The Biltmore, re-born just a little over a year ago when Mr. Taylor purchased it from the Hilton interests has brought new life and interest to the glittering Palm Beaches. Overflowing with resorters from all sections of the world, the Biltmore with its unmatched program of sports and entertainment events is proving to be an irresistible magnet to visitors trekking southward.

This past month the Biltmore and Palm Beach were hosts to one of the most outstanding sports events ever to come to this area when around 150 of the world's most famous rodsmen gathered at the Biltmore for the Sixth Annual International Sailfish Tournament. The tournament, one of the most successful ever held here, was sponsored by the West Palm Beach Fishing Club and brought together anglers from Mexico, Canada, British Columbia, California, Texas, the Bahamas, Cuba and Miami. The luxuriously appointed Biltmore acquired the appearance of an "Angler's Paradise" with rods and reels, trophies and mounted sailfish decorating the scene.

While primarily a sports event, numerous social functions highlighted this brilliant tournament, which also drew over a dozen of the nation's outstanding sports writers and the producers of that widely known radio show, "Rod and Gun Club of the Air." Their next two broadcasts over 300 radio stations will feature the attractions of the Biltmore as an idealistic sportsmen's Paradise.

of the West Palm Beach Fishing Club was primarily responsible for the great success of this International event.

Guests from afar at the Biltmore for the tournament included: Dr. and Mrs. Roy B. Dean of Mexico, Mr. and Mrs. George Chuck of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Anderson of Balboa Island, California, who were accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. J. Wayne Harrison of Santa Ana. Californians predominated among the visitors and others from Los Angeles were: Mr. and Mrs. Don Allison and Dr. and Mrs. L. C. Lowe. In a large group from Long Beach who arrived at the Biltmore in a private plane were: Mr. and Mrs. James M. Locke, Dr. and Mrs. Nevalle R. McCoy and Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Yunker. Dr. and Mrs. Dean were accompanied to the tournament by Mr. and Mrs. Genaro Garcia of Mexico City.

It goes without saying that the principal reason for the outstanding success of the "new" Biltmore, the introduction by Mr. Taylor of new features such as the Palm Beach Biltmore Hotel-Hialeah Race Track train which staged its gala "first-run" from West Palm Beach directly to the Hialeah grounds on the opening day of this great race course January 17th. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Taylor were hosts in the club car to a large group of their friends and echos of the success of the first such train to operate from the Palm Beaches are still resounding throughout this tropical isle.

The first gala night of the season was held January 18th, when over 500 guests made merry at a "Night in the Tropics" held out on star-lit patio terrace of the Biltmore overlooking the moonswept waters of Lake Worth. During the Biltmore season there will be innumerable gala nights, weekly fashion shows every Sunday on the Tropical Terrace, concerts by noted artists, square dances, card parties and interesting moving picture shows.

Plans have been made to feature only the best and outstanding of entertainment artists in the West India Room of the Biltmore, the cocktail rendezvous of the town where the cocktail hour is highlighted with the serving of piping hot hors d'ouvres from a mobile kitchen. The West India Room with its exotic Far Eastern murals and friendly air of exclusiveness is always jam-packed with late hour merry-makers.

Smart Patio

THE FAMILIAR QUESTION: "What kind of season are we going to have" is frequently heard here in the resort in the Fall months, but if the Patio restaurant at County Road and Sunset can be used as an example, the answer is simple. It'll be a dandy!

For the Patio, gathering-place of Palm Beachers for more than 20 years, is setting records this season, even though many of the familiar faces of past years have not yet appeared on the scene.

The Patio opened in a blaze of glory shortly after Christmas, and the management reported "it was the biggest and best" opening night in the history of the colorful, familiar rendezvous. It happened again on New Year's Eve, and frequently since that time the term "capacity house" has been added to Patio reports.

The "old timers" of Palm Beach know the Patio for the excellence of its food, the good entertainment from the top brackets of the stage and radio, and the fine music of Maestro Val Ernie and his Patio orchestra, and these excellent attractions are now being introduced to a host of newcomers, who return night after night to the popular restaurant and night spot.

For years the Patio has been the setting for special events, and many are the wedding anniversaries, birthday parties and similar events held there each season. The Patio itself need make no special arrangements for special events, for usually there are large parties present, having their own fun and frolic.

Known as "the place to see, and be seen," the Patio's reservation books carry names known throughout the world in the fields of entertainment from the stage and radio, in business, society, sports, and royalty.

Miramar

SMART PALM BEACH is finding the Miramar the perfect solution to its entertainment problem. Cuisine par excellence, sophisticated decor and continental atmosphere all meld to create a festive atmosphere.

The cocktail intervals at the Miramar are also popular with resorters, many of whom make a habit of dropping in daily for excellent beverages and a chat with friends. Gene Murray, versatile pianist, who knows your favorite tunes, whether it be a French or Italian love song, or a hit from one of the new Broadway musicals, plays nightly.

To directors of the restaurant, dining is an art, service a science, and entertaining a privilege. And, all of these requisites are adequately provided for in this smart resort bistro.

A romantic setting is the new dining pavilion, sheltered from the winds by trellises of bouganville and other tropical plants. The pavilion is perfect for intimate dinners a deux, or for larger gatherings.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sweeny entertained with a dinner at the Miramar, having as guests: Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Scheftel, Mr. and Mrs. Philip Isles, Mrs. David Frost Bartlett and Mr. Herbert Pulitzer.

Petite Marmite

WHETHER WITH THE FRENCH DOORS to the charming court were closed during the cool days in the last two weeks, or when the roof is the sky on the balmy nights so in the majority in Palm Beach, the comfort and surroundings of Petite Marmite make it one of the more popular places for the fine cuisine offered.

On entering the arcade off Worth Avenue, the brightly colored umbrellas shading the outdoor tables reflect into the patio pool giving a colorful welcome to the guests. Both Italian and French dishes are served and equal care is put into each to preserve the national flavor true to original recipes, so it is only a matter of taste as to choice.

Dropping in the Petite Marmite during the last few days and nights were: Com. Dwight C. Paul, Mr. and Mrs. Sidney King Russell, Mr. and Mrs. Valentine Ely, Mr. and Mrs. A. Parker Bryant, Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Dulaney Hunter, Mon. and Mme. Rene De Clereg, Mrs. John R. McLean, Mrs. Dan Topping, Mrs. Florence Shenelin, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Church Paull, Mrs. Luman O. # Talk With a Pioneer

IF SOMETIMES you're inclined to muse that the day of pioneers has passed, just stop and take a look around. You'll be sure to find one for after all America isn't very old, and neither is that little island off its east coast called Palm Beach.

Mr. Louis S. Clarke, and of course Mrs. Clarke too, are pioneers of Palm Beach. But he beats the mistress of 6 Lake Trail, at least from the point of first visiting Florida, by about fifteen years. The couple, pictured here in one of the earliest "horseless carriages," built by Mr. Clarke in 1898, have made Palm Beach their winter home since a year after their marriage on January 14, 1891, in the city of Pittsburgh.

But Mr. Clarke first visited Florida in 1875, and in recent reminiscing with the writer of this piece relative to old days in Palm Beach, recalled how as a boy of nine years he used to make the three-day rail trip from Pittsburgh with his parents to Jacksonville, "practically all that was known of Florida at that time," he said.

Certainly it was ahead of Flagler's railroading project, and not long after the Civil War. The country was still in process of converting from war to peace-time operation and "our train," said Mr. Clarke, "had to change trucks four times between Pittsburgh and Jacksonville because gauges of the railroad tracks had been changed during the war and were not uniform."

But more than that makes Mr. Clarke a Florida pioneer, and especially a Palm Beach pioneer. His father, Mr. Charles J. Clarke, who quite as much as the railroading, hotel-building Flagler "fell in love with the jungle isle upon his first visit in 1892, and within 20 minutes after his arrival purchased 56 acres of it."

Five generations have enjoyed life in Palm Beach during the winter as a result of the elder Clarke's purchase, and a grandson, Mr. L. Philips Clarke, one of the best-known architects in the South, especially versed in the Spanish manner of church design, is a year-round resident of West Palm Beach.

And presently residing with Mr. and Mrs. Clarke, and also a grandchild of the late Mr. Charles J. Clarke, is Mrs. Roscoe T. Anthony and her family. She was the former Miss Winifred Ormsby Clarke and presently takes an active part in civic and cultural events that are fitting her to one day be named a pioneer for according to Webster the term in its many meanings includes "to guide." People who busy themselves in just causes qualify for the title.

Up and down historic Lake Trail, homes erected by

Clarke family members have become landmarks. The beautiful trail which retains even today, its great charm as a secluded, palm-bedecked pathway, was once the "main street of the town," said Mr. Clarke. "That you may decipher for yourself," he added, "for our territory ran from lake to ocean, and beyond what we cleared to build this house, it was swail and jungle right to the edge of the Atlantic."

"The old Coconut Grove hotel was right over there," said Mr. Clarke indicating a stone's-throw southward from his own residence, "and our house here was built on property my father purchased from Captain Dimick who owned and managed Palm Beach's first hotel."

Besides the hotel which has oft been described as "small and comfortable," there were, "but five houses on the island in 1892," Mr. Clarke recalls, "and but three in West Palm Beach."

What a wilderness it all must have been . . . "ah, but a wonderful one," said the Florida and Autocar pioneer. "We could fish and hunt to our heart's content, and when our luck was against us, there were always the Indians to act as our grocers."

"Palm Beach has been spoiled by the automobile," said the maker of one of the first. "I liked it better in those early days. You were really in the wilds, and there was nothing to distract your attention but the things you wanted to distract it."

The Clarke home, among the oldest in Palm Beach, quite naturally, since it was built in 1892, has served as the winter residence of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke since the year following their marriage. It is a rambling, spacious, homey house with that solid-comfort air about it that is characteristic of that Golden era when wood, glass, metal, and all other materials that went into building were plentiful. It is, in short, indicative of an expansive period when there was greater vision and a deeper love of home and hearth.

Spread about the pleasant shingled house are wide lawns and well nourished gardens with rare specimens of tropical plants (the government once used the site to experiment with flora that it was believed might be grown here). But most intriguing of all, especially when your first introduction to its utility is presented by Mr. Clarke is his fine Traveler's Palm.

Mr. Clarke may be an automotive pioneer and founder of the Autocar Company which today devotes its facilities exclusively to the manufacture of trucks and tractors, but no barefoot mailmen ever more expertly tapped a Traveler's

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS S. CLARKE,

Palm Beachers ready for a buggy ride in one of the earliest "horseless carriages" made in America. Mr. Clarke designed and built it in 1898 and in 1950 restored it to its original dizzy top-speed of 15 mph.

Palm than did Mr. Clarke one day just recently at his home.

Opening his pearl-handled pen-knife with that carefulness that is so typical of those who don't make waste through haste, he easily slipped the blade along healthy full-bodied petioles of the tree producing a fountain of clear fresh drinking water.

But, and it is not surprising, since most modest people are more interested in that which went before them in enterprises of their own, Mr. Clarke points with pride to the palm trees scattered over his estate—"we probably wouldn't be here but for them" he said.

"Of course you've heard the story of the Providencia, the ill-fated Spanish barque that was shattered on the shores of Palm Beach scattering its cargo of mahogany logs, and cocoanuts from Central America. Palm Beach might never have existed but for that, at least not as we know it today, for it was the palm tree that first attracted Flagler, and for that matter my father, and others who arriving here were impressed with their tropical beauty."

Very early settlers (the Providencia disaster occurred in 1887), picked up the cocoanuts and planted them just to see if they would grow. "One of those early settlers," said Mr. Clarke was Captain E. E. Geer—if you really want to learn about what I call early Palm Beach days, ask him."

But even though Mr. Clarke missed the Providencia by five years, he made up for it. He was one of the charter members of the Property Owners Association, forerunner of the present Civic Association, and on his broad veranda town meetings were held to determine a policy of good government.

"Yes those were great old days," Mr. Clarke recalled. "I'll never forget the time we decided to incorporate the town. It was in 1911, and Captain Dimick and I were named as a committee of two to go to Miami and arrange for an attorney to draw up our charter.

"We were in a precarious position. West Palm Beach had reached a population of 10,000 and through a state law was in a position to absorb us. Well we didn't want that to happen. It would be like building up a business and then turning it over, against your will, to a bigger fish. We worked fast, and on April 17, 1911 Palm Beach became incorporated with Captain Dimick as the first Mayor and other old-timers, members of the first Town Council. They were: Enoch Root, J. J. Ryman, J. B. Donnelly, John Watson Doe and William F. Fremd."

Then slowly walking down a pathway leading from his home to the Lake Trail. Mr. Clarke graciously giving you your visit's worth, directed attention north to where the former Flagler mansion stands, today serving as a hotel. "There where you see Whitehall stood the first grocery store in Palm Beach. Matter of fact for over a decade it was the only one along the coast for miles and miles. People drew up in little boats to go shopping. There was no other mode of transportation. E. M. Brelsford owned the store and the first civic meetings of townsfolk were held there, and that's where Palm Beach got its name and where the barefoot mailmen set off for Miami and on their return for points north."

The world is all reminiscing you think as you leave Mr. Clarke and head down Lake Trail.

A whale of a swail pictures Palm Beach in the early days. Back of the Clarke estate, or to the east of it where Coconut Row affords smooth sailing there was once a swail broad and wide, where small girls and boys went wading.

YOUNG MISS SHARON MATHER

of Nassau shyly presents Nassau's First Lady with a bouquet while His Excellency the Governor looks on, shortly before His Excellency assumed his new duties as Governor and Commander-in-Chief of the Bahamas, last December. In the background is His Excellency's aide-de-camp, Stuart J. Symington.

THE BIGGEST, BRIGHTEST AND BEST social season in this island Colony's history is making Nassau this year's rendezvous for society's international set.

More new faces have swelled the ranks of the winter colony here this year than ever before. Many of the new winter residents have built homes, and others are contemplating building in time for next year's social season.

Lovers of the arts will find an added touch of glamour here this season. For the first time in many years, Nassau will have a season of legitimate theatre. The new Bahama Playhouse in the grounds of the British Colonial Hotel, organized by prominent winter residents and New York theatre executives Mr. Martin Manulis and Mr. Philip Langner, will present an eight-week season of theatre, beginning Jan. 29, when Mr. Edward Everett Horton will star in "Springtime for Henry."

Complementing the legitimate theatre will be a series of concerts planned for the winter season, to include world-famous artists from the realm of classical music. And for the first time, Nassau will experience a major art exhibition, during the last two weeks of March, when the famous UNESCO travelling print exhibit will be brought to Nassau. The exhibition will include reproductions of many of the most famous canvasses in the world of modern art, many of which have been selected with the approval of M. Rene Huyghe, conservator-in-chief of the Louvre.

A round of socially-bright parties, dinner dances, masquerade balls, charity events, fashion shows, thes dansante and intimate cocktail parties have made this year's season the most glamorous in the Colony's history. From the moment that the social season made its first formal bow on New Year's eve there has been no halt to the brilliant champagne-and-caviar whirl.

Nassau's hotels were open by the end of the old year, and the first week in January saw the opening of Hobby Horse Hall, where new zest has been given to racing by the addition of much thoroughbred stock, most of it imported for the winter season by Mr. William Todd of Bar Harbour, Me., whose string of 13 polo ponies will be used both at the racetrack and on the polo field at Clifford Park.

Members of Nassau's rapidly expanding winter colony are frank in their admiration for the new Governor of the Bahamas, Major-General Robert Arthur Ross Neville, C.B.E., R.M. (Retd.), whose policy of warm liasion and goodwill has made many friends for the Colony and Britain since he assumed his new duties last December. One of His Excellency's first public duties was a "good neighbour" visit to Miami, nearest point of the American mainland to the Bahamas, where he opened the new Carib theatre there, and was the recipient of a spectacular ovation as the result of his widely-quoted speech to Americans on the vital need for close co-operation between the English-speaking nations of the world. His Excellency together with Mrs. Neville has been most active in civic affairs since his arrival, in addition to the rigorous round of administrative duties which he has had to perform.

Adding a touch of glamour to Nassau's social season was Mr. Clark Gable, well-known screen star who with Mrs. Gable, spent a winter vacation here with Mr. and Mrs. Carl Holmes at their Nassau residence on Cable Beach.

Playing an increasingly important role in social and civic affairs here are Sir Sydney and the young Lady Oakes. Sir Sydney, with his brother William Pitt Oakes, started the Syd-pitt agencies here recently, and is now busy handling wholesale commodities. Lady Oakes recently staged her second Gymkhana and Dog Show here, with highly successful results, and with her husband has been a keen sponsor of many of the season's social events to date.

The social-sporting calendar has never been fuller. Head-line tennis and golf tournaments, polo, weekly horse-racing, sailing races, horse-back riding, water-skiing and the 13th annual Miami-Nassau Ocean Race are highlighting the season here. The Miami-Nassau race, often called the greatest sailing classic of modern times, will begin this year Feb. 14 from Miami, and traditionally heralds a week of social and sporting activity climaxed by the annual Nassau Cup Race, formerly known as the Governor's Cup Race.

Among this season's winter arrivals are: Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Cushing of Montreal and Cushing's Island, Me., who have opened their Eastern Road home, "New Moon" for the season; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Creighton of Boston, who are wintering in their Queen Street residence; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Vernay of New York and Nassau, who have returned to their "Los Cayos" for the season; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Pell of Washington, D. C.; Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Bodenhause of Brookside, N. J., who have opened their Gable Beach home,

Boca Raton Club

CELEBRITIES FROM EVERY FIELD — INDUSTRY, society, theatrical, television and radio, flock to the beautiful Boca Raton Club where the mid-season program of sports and social activities is getting under way.

Dore Schary, vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, is quite the social lion of the moment. He and his family, Mrs. Schary and children, Jeb, Joy and Jill, and his sister, Mrs. Paul Small, are vacationing at the Club, and being entertained by the cottage colony. At a recent party given by Mr. and Mrs. Sidney Wragge, he told them: "I don't know much about television and I find it difficult to get an opinion that is not influenced to some extent by fear." The Wragges of Rye, N. Y., have taken an ocean-front home near the Club as Mr. Wragge plays golf with the Club's noted pro, Tommy Armour, almost daily.

Mrs. William B. Sanborn of Detroit, a member of the cottage colony, entertained recently at a cocktail party and buffet supper complimenting her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. Clifford Grundy of New Rochelle, Theodore Pratt, noted Boca Raton author, and Mrs. D. Fairchild Wheeler of Fairfield, Conn., who recently arrived at the Boca Raton Club for the season. About 50 guests attended including groups from Palm Beach and Miami Beach.

The Sidney Wellmans entertained at cocktails recently aboard their yacht having recently returned from a West Indies cruise. He also is one of Tommy Armour's golf enthusiasts. In the party were Mr. and Mrs. William Struby and Mrs. Struby and Mrs. Wellman soon discovered they had lived within six miles of each other in Indiana as girls.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. N. Taub of Houston, Texas, are passing a month's honeymoon at the Club and are planning to return later in the season with their families for another visit. Mrs. Taub is the former Miss Carol Ellen Joseloff of Hartford, Conn. Their marriage was an elopment and lent a touch of romance at the Club. They met last summer at the Mt. Washington Hotel, Bretton Woods, N. H., where Oscar T. Johnson is also manager as well as at the Boca Raton Club. The Taubs are sports enthusiasts and brushed up on their tennis game with the Club's pro, Fred Perry. They also took up water skiing with the Bruce Parker Ski School at the Cabana Club.

The family is passing January at the Club enjoying the beach life at the Cabana Club, the tennis and other sports. Mr. Schary is vice-president of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

Mrs. Obolensky, who are frequent visitors at the Boca Raton Club, gave a dinner party recently for Vuk Vuchinich, noted portrait artist, at the Boca Raton Club. The portrait of their 11-year-old daughter, Anne, was unveiled.

Mrs. H. Spencer Auguste motored down from Palm Beach and gave a luncheon party at the Cabana Club for a Palm Beach group.

Staley H. Beaman of Boston, inventor of the individual coffee bag (used just like tea-bags) was a recent visitor at the Club. He has been entertaining aboard the yacht he chartered from W. M. Kramer, Jr. (inventor of bubble-gum).

Mr. and Mrs. Clarton J. Rich and family of Buffalo, had a successful deep sea fishing jaunt on "The Pompano" with Capt. Don MacRae of the Boca Raton Club Fishing Fleet. His daughter, Gwen Rich, landed a 26-pound kingfish which is entered in the Boca Raton Club Fishing Tourney. Their speed-boat is docked with the Club fleet.

A series of tournaments for the juniors and collegiates, at the Boca Raton Hotel and Club were:

In the Father and Son Golf Tourney, Michael Daroff and his son, Norman Daroff, won the trophy with a gross 193, handicap 45, score 147, over Julius M. Kahn and son, Alvin Kahn of Englewood, N. J. At the tournament dinner in the evening, Tommy Armour, the Club's noted pro, presented the trophy.

In the Tennis Tourney, Robert Konigsberg of New York City, defeated Michael Lenke of Sands Point, L. I., 2-6, 6-3, 6-0. Fred Perry, popular pro at the Club's courts, presented the trophy.

The popular William Jay O'Brien, noted swimming pro at the Cabana Club Pool, is enthusiastic about plans for the season's swimming events, both for the children and adults. He has just received several dozen medals in the form of the Schine crest, a sunburst (Finest Under the Sun) with Boca Raton engraved on the back. They make attractive charms for a charm bracelet or can be worn as a medal on a blue ribbon with pin attached. He is a member of the Gulfstream cottage colony.

An apparent world's record, three-thread catch of a 29 pound four ounce kingfish was made recently by Carlton Smith off the Boca Raton Inlet in the Boca Raton Club's Fishing Tourney. Fishing alone in his 36-foot fishing boat, McGee II, Carlton's fish struck his bait while trolling just outside the Inlet. After the first run, he saw that he had hooked a very large fish and signaled to Capt. Andy Brennan who was nearby to come and witness the battle. Twenty-five minutes later the fish was boated and when weighed in at the Club docks by Capt. Whitey Cline, the 48 $\frac{1}{4}$  inch kingfish tipped the scales at 29 pounds, four ounces. As far as can be ascertained now, this is a world's record on three-thread line, and the line is being tested at the Miami Beach Rod and Reel Club. It has been entered with I.G.F.A. Carlton Smith used a Heddon 241 rod, four-ounce tip and the line was Cape Cod Supreme three-thread. This fish will be entered in the Delray Beach Tourney.

Others who have chalked up records in the Boca Raton Club Fishing Tournament and leading to date in the various classes are: Sailfish, seven feet nine inches, 59 pounds, Olin Howard of San Francisco; wahoo, Dr. M. A. Cohn of Monticello, N. Y. 28 pounds; kingfish, 11-year-old Paul Umanski of Forest Hills, L. I., 34 $\frac{1}{4}$  pounds; amberjack, Gordon Voelbel of New York City, 57 pounds; grouper, Frank Knitz of Bronxville, 37 pounds; jack crevalle, Seymour Burkson, 17 pounds.

An aerial view of The Colony, one of Palm Beach's newest and smartest hotels. It has the distinction of projecting the atmosphere of an exclusive club, rather than a hotel; reminiscent of the lovely old Southern manses in gracious service and hospitality. ## The Colony

AS THE SEASON ADVANCES in Palm Beach, The Colony is becoming more and more popular as a favored focal point of interest for social life in this smart resort. And, an increasing number of northerners are making this smart hotel their winter home this season. As well as vacationists, who are on a winter holiday. In close proximity to the world-famous Worth avenue shopping district, Everglades Club, popular night spots, "miniature Wall Street" . . . and easily accessible to beach clubs and golf courses, it is one of the most strategically located hostelrys on the island.

With gracious service and the welfare of the guest, the paramount issue here, according to Mr. Bernard Cooley, manager, The Colony has more the atmosphere of a lovely Country Club than of a hotel. The rooms are spacious and comfortable and the three luxurious penthouses atop the hostelry are analagous to the appointments of a villa by the sea.

The public rooms echo this theme of gracious living. In a modern decor with a green, white and silver color scheme, they are the epitome of smart simplicity. Plus the unexpected "little touches" which transform the place into a veritable home and perfect background for entertaining one's friends.

Dining here is a memorable experience. Specializing in French and American cuisine, the varied menus are a gourmet's delight and under the experienced guidance of Frederick, the service is incomparable. The deep green and pristine white decorative theme, featuring white ruffled curtains and a mirrored wall for a sense of spaciousness, is an ideal background for relaxation. No loud music to distract and interfere with pleasant conversation.

The Tropical Terrace is the choice of many colonists for lunching and entertaining friends in this fashion. An enclosed room with complete view of the out-of-doors and lush tropical foliage. Highlighting the delightful place, are colorful murals of old Florida. The mahogany and cypress bar which occupies a corner of the room, is so constructed that it does not interfere with the contour, floor and wall space.

Among guests at The Colony this month: the Maharajah of Baroda, who joined the Maharani and their small son Prince Sayajirao, who have been there since the first part of December. The entire family will remain throughout the season. Rev. Frederick Whittaker, British chaplain and missionary from India; Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Lannon and daughter Sharon Anne of Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Larry J. Horan, New York City. # Washington Letter

Dear Dora:

WELL, HERE WE ARE IN A NEW YEAR wondering what may be our fate by the end of 1951. A most delightful party was hosted recently by former Egyptian Princess Emina Toussoun, now Mrs. Cornelius Bretsch. In fact she seems to be taking the place of Evalyn Walsh McLean who for so many years had "the" party of the New Year.

Emina and Cornelius Bretsch received their guests from international society in their exquisitely furnished Georgetown house with its priceless objects of art. There were masses of flowers, an orchestra playing for dancing upstairs, and a fascinating roving gypsy guitarist holding forth in the dining room, where earlier the 100 guests were seated and served a delicious dinner featuring Egyptian dishes, and of course vintage champagne.

I saw the attractive Emina wearing her famous pink diamond necklace with one pendant almost as big as a walnut the same week at another dinner given by the new and popular bachelor-Ambassador of Greece, Athanase Politis, at the Greek Embassy. The dinner was an enormous success thanks to the warm-hearted speech the Ambassador made making a witty reference to each of the guests in turn. There were enthusiastic speeches made in response by Assistant Secretary of State George McGhee and Senator Brien McMahon. The Ambassador has held important posts all over the world, including Moscow. I happened to know him many years ago when he was making friends for Greece in Tokyo, Japan. This dinner was given in honor of Greek-born Lady Montgrieffe of Scotland. Another attractive pair there were Counselor of the Italian Embassy, Mario Luciolli, and his chic half French-half Rumanian wife.

The Millers were hosts the middle of January at Prospect House, the former Jas. Forrestal residence, which has been taken over for entertaining by the State Department. The honor guests this time were the sparkling German Pico-Canas of Santiago, Chile. Senor Pico Canas, who is considered one of the brightest young men in Chile today, is head of the Chilean Development Corp. He has held many high-powered posts in his country and is one of the closest friends of President Gonzalez Videla.

Senor Pico Canas and his pretty wife both fly their own plans and she has the distinction of being the first woman in Latin America to fly her own plane alone from Chile, over the Andes, to Argentina. They will pass through Florida on their way down to visit their old friends Governor and Mme Munoz Marin, of Puerto Rico.

Since he has become full-fledged Ambassador from Spain to the U.S.A. Don Jose Felix de Lequerica and Mme de Lequerica have been the inspiration for a string of parties. Mr. and Mrs. George Marshall, the former Corrine Griffith, entertained at dinner in their honor in their Georgetown home, and on the same evening yours truly honored them at a reception for 150 people. The Ambassadors of Peru, Chile, Greece, Ireland, Turkey, Sweden, and the Philippines, were there, besides a flock of Senators. Rosa Ponselle came down from Baltimore for the occasion, and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Culbertson arrived from Madrid in time for the party. He has been our Charge d'Affaires in Spain for the last three years. The Culbertsons are staying in Washington briefly before they assume their new post in Mexico City.

Senator and Mrs. George Smathers entertained the same week at a super-colossal reception at the Shoreham Hotel the same day the Senator took his oath of office. The party was attended by official Washington and a great many Floridians who had flown up for the occasion. The reception was given for Senator Smathers' successor, Congressman William Lantaff, and Mrs. Lantaff.

Speaking of Florida Senators, senior Senator, and Mrs. Spessard Holland will both be in Florida on February 8th when their beautiful 19-year-old daughter, Ivanhoe, becomes the bride of Augustus Henry King, Jr. of Jacksonville. The 8th happens to be the wedding anniversary of Senator and Mrs. Holland. Ivanhoe is the Holland's youngest daughter, and until recently was a student at the Florida State University, where she was a member of the Chi Omega sorority.

Saw Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gardner the other night at a benefit performance of Edith Piaf at the Shoreham Hotel and learned that they had a fascinating trip to Europe this fall. They plan to come to Palm Beach the end of January to stay on their yacht, the Moana II. Their pretty daughter, Joan, who is now Mrs. A. Britton Browne, and Mr. Browne, plan to visit the Gardners during the winter. The Brownes are the proud parents of a little five months old daughter.

H. E. ATHANASE G. POLITIS
Ambassador of Greece to the United States.

Did you happen to run in to good looking bachelor Marvin Coles who was down there over the holidays doing a bit of yachting with friends in Palm Beach? He is a prominent lawyer here and one of Margaret Truman's beaux. Also saw J. Deane Rucker lunching at the Mayflower recently who told me he was on his way back to Palm Beach to spend the winter on his yacht.

Mrs. Elovius Mangor, the wife of the Secretary of the Norwegian Embassy here, left Washington the middle of the month to attend the wedding of Joan Colston, the daughter of Sir Charles and Lady Colston, and Robert Kidde. She hopes to come to Palm Beach, as usual, later in the winter. Mrs. Mangor's brother, Mr. Harry L. Curtis, and Mrs. Curtis, are expected north soon after spending several weeks with the Aksel Wichfelds in Palm Beach.

Alma Mangor tells me that Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Bedford and their glamour deb-daughter Peggy Bedford will be in Palm Beach in February as will Mr. and Mrs. Larz Christiansen who will stay at the Everglades Club.

who with her husband the newly appointed Spanish Ambassador to the United States, is being widely entertained.

Mrs. Isaac T. Mann left for Palm Beach immediately after the debut of her neice, Miss Nancy Mann, daughter of Mrs. William Thomas Mann. The party was a reception and dance for about 400 people at the Sulgrave Club.

I am sure you remember the Munthe de Morgenstierne, the popular Norwegian Ambassador and his pretty Canadian wife, who were down there last year. Well, they hope to be coming again in February to rest up after a rather hectic winter of entertaining and visitors. They held a reception for their daughter Marjorie Morgenstierne, and were dinner hosts to about 24 guests among whom were the Netherlands Ambassador and Mme J. H. Van Roijen, Greek Ambassador Athanase Politis, Under Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Edward Foley, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Willard Thorp, and many others including Clarence Hewes, Minister of Sweden and Mme Ragnvald Bagge who are leaving in February for Sweden.

in Washington on their annual visit from their estate in Florence, Italy. They gave a cocktail party in honor of Mrs. Victor Sutro, also of Florence, who is visiting in Washington with Mrs. Sowers White.

Had a cable from Minister Mesta of Luxembourg that her niece, Betty Tyson Lyeth was marrying Major Lewis Ellis who is our assistant air attache in London. Another lovely to take the plunge soon is General Bradley's secretary, Mary Pitcairn, who has been most popular ever since she came to Washington. She will marry William Harding Jackson who is deputy director of Central Intelligence.

Mme. Popove, wife of the Yugoslav ambassador, is the honorary chairman for the benefit tea to be given Feb. 3 at the embassy by the Yugoslavian Emergency Drought Relief committee.

Well, darling, with that bit, must close for now. All the best,

The Palm Beach Hotel

JANUARY IN THE RESORT finds the Palm Beach Hotel a center of the season's social whirl with interesting social and athletic activities planned for its guests.

Complimentary Art Classes are held every Monday and Thursday afternoon. Michael Honigsberg, prominent portrait artist who has been with the Palm Beach Hotel and the Lido, for four years is again in charge. Mr. Honigsberg has a studio in Carnegie Hall and has had his work exhibited in the Fine Arts Gallery in New York. His clientele is composed of such outstanding personalities as Princess Viggo, Countess Margaret of Denmark and Generals Summers and Hanson.

Monday and Wednesday nights are gala occasions at the Palm Beach Hotel. Pre-dinner cocktail parties in the Spanish-frescoed Loggia herald the beginning of these bi-weekly festivities. Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres are served while Paul Barad's band furnishes the musical moods. Dinner which is always a stellar event at the hotel follows in the sumptuous Coral Palm Dining Room. Dick Gasparre and his society orchestra compliment the culinary perfection with their special arrangements of classical and semi-classical favorites. After dinner the scene shifts to the exotic West Patio. After an interlude of dance music the show is on.

Outstanding stars of the entertainment world headline these shows. Each act is chosen on the basis of excellence in its particular specialty. To bear out this point, dancers who have appeared in January shows were Mary Raye and Naldi and the Copsey and Ayres Dancers. Raye and Naldi have been internationally acclaimed as one of the foremost dance teams of our day. Their terpsichorean feats have been described as "sheer grace of motion." The Palm Beach Hotel was delighted to see their dancing artistry displayed against the musical backgrounds of the Moonlight Sonata, the Habanera and Johann Strauss' Southern Roses.

The Copsey and Ayres dancers, a trio of excellent exponents of the modern dance expression gratified the audience with their famous rendition of Frankie and Johnnie. This very fine expression of the familiar lovers' trials was enthusiastically applauded by the audience. Show nights like all other nights are followed by dancing under the stars.

The season's third fashion show was presented the 12th of this month. The Palm Beach Mercantile Co. presented this coordinated fashion story which interpreted the various silhouettes and fabrics recognized as highlights of the 1951 resort season. The theme of the show stressed the true "Spectrum" of fashion patterns which spans many moods and needs. The Palm Beach Mercantile Co. called upon top ranking artists to help them bring the Palm Beach Hotel audience that which is considered appropriate in fashion. Famous Parisian, as well as American couturiers inspired the perfect Vogue Patterns used in the designing of the costumes. The models displayed brilliant fabric colors, gentle mutations and soft undertones which forecast the season's most outstanding fashion trends and represent the top names among European and American fabric houses. Among the fabrics displayed were a navy cotton tweed and a coral woven plaid cotton tweed designed by Ria Herlinger. Miss Herlinger was a recent guest at the Palm Beach Hotel. The show which was very attractively staged proved very popular with the audience.

The season's second aquacade took place Tuesday, January 16, at the Palm Beach Hotel's Beach and Cabana Club. The show, which featured the world's best swimmers, divers and water-specialty acts, brought out again the physical beauty of the Cabana Beach Club. The magnificence of the expansive green-tiled olympic pool, the gentle-wind swept Gulf Stream Terrace where daily lunches are served to patrons of the hotel, and the luxuriously designed cabanas set against the background of the ever present and attractive palm trees, are a delight for comfort, pleasure and entertainment.

Guests returning this year are being welcomed by virtually the same staff which has served them in previous years. Resident manager James Hitz, maitre d'hotel Jack Reese, host of the Cocktail Lounge, West Patio and Top O' The Palm Dan Howard, and Hostess Sue Bernstein have resumed their respective duties at the hotel again. Harry Schneider is again chief steward, Werner Boetel has returned as chef d'cuisine, as have chief housekeeper Hertha Gerhardt and Superintendent of Service Dennis McMahon. A new addition to the staff is Bill Hillgardner, manager of the Cabana Beach Club. The Seiden Management, in the person of Frank, Milton and Leo Seiden, is as always, applying its well known touch to every phase of operation.

Those of us who have latent desires to gamble, seem to have a heyday at the Monday night Complimentary Prize

Bingo sessions. The game is made more interesting gradually. After the second or third game which requires only the conventional horizontal, vertical, or diagonal groupings to win, the players must record more complicated constellations in order to be able to rightfully shout B-I-N-G-O. Vertically down the "B" and the "O" rows and horizontally across the bottom row to form the letter "U" is but one of the many variations of the game. The finale of the Bingo party calls for the participants to fill the entire card.

The suspense of the game is sustained by the expert calling of the numbers by Dan Howard. The latter who is the host of the Cocktail Lounge, the Top O' The Palm and the West Patio, tells us that he gets a great kick out of greeting the winners, the great majority of whom he knows by name, and awarding them the attractive prizes offered each week.

The lucky winners last week included: Mrs. Robert Baron, Mrs. Gerson Margolish, Mrs. S. Pressman, Mrs. William N. Shapiro, Mrs. D. Hoffert, Mr. Samuel Neusner, Mrs. Robert L. Nitkin, Mr. Joseph Claster, Miss Barbara Cohen, Mrs. Rita Naiman, Mr. Joseph Biltekoff, Mrs. David Engelman, Mrs. Samuel Neusner, and Jerry Cohen.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Norman of New York City are seen in the lobby of the Palm Beach Hotel.

Scouting The Shops

RARE EQUESTRIAN FIGURINE: Depicting Princess Elizabeth riding sidesaddle in the full uniform of the Grenadier Guards, on the occasion of the "Colour and Trooping," in honour of the king's birthday. This porcelain of Royal Worcester (only 100 in existence) is available at Plummer's.

IF JOSEPHINE HAD KNOWN: According to the International Research Laboratories . . . she would have used their "Empress Josephine Hand Lotion" too; to keep her hands soft and lovely. At the Worth Avenue Apothecary, which by the way, is one of the show places of the resort.

CLAN PLAIDS: Are virtually a uniform among smartly dressed Palm Beachers this season, for the men, that is. Finchley's are exploiting this trend in sports and dinner jackets, in a variety of tartans. And, the latest idea is plaid bathing trunks of cotton Madras, styled like boxer's trunks.

AGLITTER WITH DIAMONDS: The dazzling necklaces, bracelets and earrings, presented by L. Barton Brookov this season. Unique designs in pear-shaped, baguette and round stones. Exclusive pieces to add drama to your wardrobe!

HAND-KNIT: Is a "trademark" of good fashion and you can be sure if you knit your own . . . sweaters, dresses, suits, socks. Evelyn Curtis has all of the necessary equipment, from yarn to needles, patterns, etc. If you do not know how this is done, this shop will be glad to give you knitting instructions.

HONEYCOMB DOESKIN: Is the medium for smart trousers by F. R. Tripler & Co. of New York City . . . teamed with sports jackets of bright-colored linen. The specially woven silk sports jackets are also conversation pieces for resort wear. Dinner jackets in the Tripler manner, feature white gabardine and tropical weight fabrics.

ICE BLUE AND PETAL PINK: Are the medium for smart silk shantung one-piecers, with companion boucle jackets in the same subtle shades; also sand beige, aqua, Kelly. Among the new resort things at Anthony's. Their toppers for chilly days are likewise something to rave about!

BEACHWEAR WITH A PEDIGREE: The Tina Leser, Brigance, Howard Greer, Frances Sider and Carolyn Schnurer creations at Ruth Chagnon's. Such as the clever pique bathing suits with matching stoles; lace "swim suits" and companion scarfs; exotic designs, emphasizing the Far Eastern influence. The Bermuda shorts of pique, linen and wool are other important items here.

GOLDEN GIFTS: From Cartier, the epitome of good taste! Such as the imported gold picture frame, set with jade and turquoise. And, the unique letter opener of 14 kt. gold, flaunting a watch in the handle. To add glitter and dazzle to your resort wardrobe . . . a diamond necklace with matching bracelet or earrings!

MINK AND LACE: One of the most fabulous collections of evening clothes in the resort . . . noted at the Mme. Mogabgab salon. Individual pieces especially made for them, in a one-of-kind selection; fashioned of imported fabrics. Off-white brocade in a bustle-back and train creation; black Spanish lace in a "portrait" styling. Accessorized with mink or ermine stoles.

STAR SAPPHIRE COLLECTION: Greenleaf & Crosby have an intriguing new collection of star sapphire rings, varying sizes; artistically mounted in platinum and pointed up with diamonds. Another luxurious gift idea . . . wrist watches glamourized with baguette and marquise diamonds in effective patterns.

"GOOD NAMES" IN SWIM SUITS: Norman's specialize in all of the topflight designers and their beachwear department is most intriguing. New nylon, strapless swim suits, in youthful stylings; sleeveless terry beach coats; multi-colored cotton coats that team with a suit of any color; fringed beach towels that serve as stoles; straw beach hats and matching bags.

AND THE CHIMES RING: When you enter the Charles E. Soll hardware store on Royal Palm Way. This ultra-glamorous place, exploiting several thousand different items, arranged in unique fashion, is the outstanding store of its kind in the country. Architecture and decor are definitely moderne!

BEFORE YOUR EYES: Nat Koslow, Worth avenue and New York, invites patrons to go behind the scenes in the salon and see how the magnificent jewelry is fashioned. It is really amazing and an interesting experience! Their resort collection is in the "out of this world" category!

"MANICURED LAWNS": Landscaping is the frame which glamourizes the estate, home or apartment and the Island Landscape Co. has plenty of ideas in this realm for adding beauty to your property. Colorful gardens, statuary, exotic lighting, tropical plantings . . . all in individual arrangements.

PERFUME BAR: Starring all of the well-known scents and hard-to-get fragrances. This is one of the special features at the Everglades Pharmacy. Their "soap bar" is also cleverly done and a grand convenience for customers. A telephone and delivery service for prescriptions!

SUEDE WESKITS: Are suggested by Sport & Travel for cool, tropical days. Specializing in custom-made dresses and suits, this store of New York and Palm Beach, does a wonderful job with suede (in all colors of the rainbow), as an accent for wool and for entire suits or coats. Pure silks and imported cottons are other important fabrics here.

RIBBON KNITS: The famous hand-done knitted dresses by Bea Magnus . . . of silk ribbon in gorgeous colors; for individualized additions to your resort wardrobe. At the Beatrice Morgan shop, styled to your figure and desired color tones. Perfect companions for resort luncheons, cocktails or informal dining!

ANTIQUES AND REPRODUCTIONS: Share honors in the extensive display of furniture at Worrell's. If you are thinking of "re-doing" your house or apartment, their interior decorating department has numerous smart ideas on the subject; wonderful fabrics, wallpaper and the like, to add zest and color interest.

CRAFTS FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD: Are available at the new "Worldcraft" shop on Worth avenue. Separate departments depict the crafts from various countries . . . all unusual and some, very exotic. A different country is exploited each week. An interesting place for the collector to browse around!

Imported natural linen, embroidered with medallions of lace in the same shade, is the medium for this smart sheath with companion bolero by Paul Parnes. A unique halter neckline and hip pocket, distinguish the dress; the bolero is cut with notched collar and deep-cuffed elbow sleeves. The medallions are glitterized with gold beads. From the winter resort collection of Frances Brewster.

Big stole and brief bathing suit! The Rebozo-type stole of yellow burlap is finished with knotted fringe on the large patch pockets and ends. Grey linen is the medium used for the strapless bathing suit, with square neckline and buttoned panel front like a toreador's trousers, edged with yellow braid. From Tina Leser's spring 1951 collection for Edwin H. Foreman and available in Palm Beach at Ladd's, in The Breakers Casino.

Dramatic evening gown by Ira Rentner and included in McDonald's Palm Beach Collection. The bodice and skirt are made of white Kabat marquisette over taffeta, with the black lace used in the manner of a Spanish ball gown. A black velvet sash ties in the back with long streamers.

The diamond "Waterfall necklace" by Harry Winston, is an adaptation of a Palais Royale necklace and flaunts 43 pear-shaped stones, accented with brilliant-cut and baguette diamonds. In the same theme, the ear clips of baguettes tipped with pear-shaped diamonds and the fascinating dress clip. The modernized tiara is convertible to a necklace. A large pear-shaped diamond solitaire and two massive bracelets of round and baguette stones, complete one of the most striking jewel ensembles glimpsed this season.

Black net bouffant ball gown, designed by Mme. Sonia and available in Palm Beach at the Beatrice Morgan shop, Worth avenue. The skirt is effectively appliqued with silver and frosty white lace, in bowknot and garland pattern. The same motif is repeated on the strapless net bodice. A smart choice for important Palm Beach dining and dancing.

The "feminine look" is featured in this attractive coiffure by Elizabeth Arden . . . harmonizing with the trend in clothes for 1951. The hair is cut in layers, set in curls then brushed into soft waves, giving a natural look. There is nothing "tricky" about this new hair-do, which stresses smart simplicity.

Jewels may come and go in the style picture, but pearls are always in good taste . . . to accent either daytime or evening costumes. As illustrated here in the Marvella pearl ensemble, this popular jewel has assumed new contour styling; emphasizing the current trend for "close to the throat necklaces" in a period-influenced theme combining large and small pearls.

Dumari's "Yippi de luxe" spun rayon is the medium for these tapering pants featured in the new Far Eastern influence in resort fashions. The blouse is made of Stoffel's imported red on white dotted Swiss. Red kid "jodie" flats pick up the color of the pants. One of the highlights of the "Spectrum of Fashion's Fabrics and Patterns," presented by the Palm Beach Mercantile in a series of fashion shows recently.

Inlet waters are churned by fishing cruisers as they rush to get to the fishing grounds for the start of the International Light Tackle Sailfish Tournament. Clubs entered the tournament from many parts of the country as far away as Panama Canal Zone, Mexico, Puerto Rico and British Columbia.

Fishing and Golf Top Early January Activity

A RECORD WAS SET here this month when 33 fishing clubs from Panama to Canada participated and earned points in the sixth edition of the International Light Tackle Sailfish Tournament. Twenty-two clubs participated in the 1950 tournament at Acapulco, Mexico.

Palm Beach fishermen showed anglers from New York, California, Mexico, Panama Canal Zone and Puerto Rico how to catch the Atlantic sailfish. Six Florida teams, four of them from the Palm Beaches, were among the top nine clubs in the final count.

Three local men, Henry Chanin, Thomas Shevlin and M. F. Baugher, represented the West Palm Beach Fishing Club and came in on top with 450 points for seven fish during the three days of competition. Mr. Chanin accounted for four fish, Mr. Baugher got two and Mr. Shevlin had one.

Only one other man in the tournament equalled Chanin's record. A. J. DeLess of West Palm Beach, representing the second place Riviera Beach Fishing Club, also caught four as his team, the first day leader, finished only 20 points behind in second place. Four men caught three apiece, and here again was another local man, Col. Harold Fowler, of the Aerovias Guest Fishing Club.

Anglers, Inc., of Miami placed third with 375 points, the Tuna Club of Catalina Island (Calif.) was fourth with 370, the Sailfish and Tarpon Club of Mexico was fifth with 305, the Tyee Club of British Columbia was sixth with 285, the Sailfish Conservation Club of Palm Beach placed seventh with 270 points, Miami Beach Rod and Reel was eighth with 240, the local Aerovias Guest Fishing Club of Winston Guest, George Kent and Col. Fowler, the Panama Marlin Club and the Humacao Angling Club of Puerto Rico tied for ninth with 180. Fishing for the Sailfish Conservation Club was William F. Price of Hamburg, Pa., F. J. Smith of Pittsburgh, and Saul Brodsky of Croton-on-Hudson, N. Y.

Three teams at 165 points were: the Light Tackle Marlin

Club of California, Manasquan River Marlin and Tuna Club of Newark, N. J., and the Newport Harbor (Calif.) Yacht and Tuna Club. The New York A. C. Anglers Club had 155 points, and four tied at 130. They were Southern California Tuna Club, Port Aransas (Texas) Rod and Reel Club, Balboa (Calif.) Angling Club and the Tropical Fishing Club of New York. Five clubs with 120 points were the Walker Cay Club, made up of Markham Langham, George Beckwith and George F. Alger; the local Sailfish Club of Florida, represented by A. H. Baker, P. A. B. Widener III, Albert B. Drake and Charles F. Johnson; the Ocean City Light Tackle Club, the Ocean City Marlin Club, and the Pacific (Calif.) Anglers. Ocean City Yacht Club had 90 points, the Flying Fishermen Club of Eastern Airlines had 70 points, the Sportsman's Club of Dade County and the Miami Beach Anglers had 60, and five clubs, the Pacific Sailfish Club from Balboa, Panama Canal Zone, the Long Beach (Calif.) Yacht and Fishing Club, the Brielle (N.J.) Marlin and Tuna Club, Diamond Lake Yacht Club and the Freeport (Long Island) Tuna Club brought up the rear with 45 points apiece.

A total of 84 fish were caught during the three days. Forty-one were caught the first day, 23 the second and 20 the third.

The women of Palm Beach also stole the show in their one-day section of the tournament. Mrs. Thomas Shevlin and Mrs. M. L. Smythe each caught a sail on six-thread line for 70 points. Mrs. Mabel V. Sayre of Miami and Mrs. Warren Milne caught one apiece on a nine-thread line.

The first major golf tournament of the 1951 winter season saw Robert Sweeny, of Seminole Club, win the Lake Worth Championship at the Palm Beach Golf Club. He defeated W. A. Pagan of West Palm Beach, 2 and 1, in the 36-hole finals.

The championship flight this year was an exhibition of some of the best golf ever played in this tournament. Par took a heavy pounding and scores of 67-68-69 were not uncommon. Pagan, the medalist with a par-70, had a 69 in the first round, a 68 in the second round, was headed for a 4-under-par 66 when his semifinals match ended on No. 16, and had 68 in the morning finals against Sweeny and 68 for 17 holes in the afternoon.

Sweeny, who qualified with a 75, got hot in the final two rounds after carding 73 and 72 in the early rounds. The British Amateur champion of 1937 shot a 68 in knocking off 1947 champion James Paul of Glen Head, L. I., 1 up, and had 67s for the 18 and 17-hole tests against Pagan. Sweeny defeated John Peel of West Palm Beach, 2 up, and Richard W. Woolworth of Palm Beach, 1 up, in the first two rounds.

Three former champions of the Lake Worth played in this year's tournament. In addition to Paul, there was Pagan, who won in 1948, and Reginald Boardman, Jr., the 1949 winner and 1950 runnerup. Paul had a pair of 69s and Boardman had a 69 card the day he lost to Pagan's 68.

Spencer Love was host to a group of tennis stars this month and they took part in a men's doubles round-robin tournament at the Bath and Tennis Club. There was Ted Burwell, formerly of the University of Virginia and who won several tournaments in Europe and played a great five-set match against Cochet at Wimbledon; Ramsey Potts, an Air Corps hero of World War II who was formerly ranked third in the South in singles and won the Southern doubles championship; Hugh Lynch, a former tennis captain at Princeton; C. Alphonso Smith, present holder of the District of Columbia tennis doubles title; Col. Ernest Powel, winner of the 1950 Bath and Tennis Club championship; and Dick Murphy, former winner of the Longwood Bowl and runnerup in the national intercollegiates.

Spencer Love and William Kelley came out on top with a 6-4 playoff victory over Col. Powel and Alan Howard. Love and Kelley won first place in Section 1 by winning 17 of 24 games. Fred Collin and Burwell won 15 and lost nine, Murphy and Bert Rupp won 14 and lost 10, William Miller and David Gerli tied with Carl Carlson and Dr. W. A. McGee at 12-12, Carlyle Lewis and Dr. Manfredi won 11 and lost 13, and David Armour and Potts had 5-19. Powel and Howard won 20 and lost 10 in Section 2. George Binney and Lynch won 18 and lost 12, Smith and J. Archbold won 16 and lost 14, Jeff Burrus and William Kendall split even in the 30 games, J. L. Suttle and Britt Armfield had 14-16, and J. S. McDermott and R. Lockridge had 7-23.

The first tombstone golf tournament of the season at the Seminole Club was won by Mr. and Mrs. M. S. Wyeth as nine teams competed. Mr. and Mrs. Wyeth were allowed 49 strokes and they made them take them to within six and a half feet of the 10th hole. And only six inches behind the Wyeths were Mr. and Mrs. Kim Salisbury, who had 43 strokes handicap. Other results had Mrs. V. C. Spaulding and W. Hoffman two inches short of the ninth hole in 47 strokes; Miss Charlene Wrightsman and Peter Salm, five yards from No. 9 in 50; Mrs. Michael Phipps and M. W. Holden, 30 yards from 10 in 47; Mrs. J. Snowden and Lucius P. Ordway, 150 yards from 10 in 48; Mr. and Mrs. D. Simonds in No. 8 in 48 strokes; Mrs. Hamilton Pell and R. Sonquist, in nine in 50, and Mr. and Mrs. Edward Oelsner, 150 yards from 10 in 50.

An Investment Opportunity for a Man of Means

Operating 5,251-Acre Cattle Farm in Georgia

ONE OF THE LARGEST and most highly developed farm properties in Georgia, this stocked and equipped cattle farm represents an exceptional investment opportunity. Current income is derived from the sale of white faced Hereford breeding stock. The property is being sold only because of the necessity for dissolving a partnership.

About 2,405 acres are in well-watered pastureland and 2,845 in valuable woodland. Three recently remodeled farm houses, several tenant houses and all necessary farm buildings are included. The local manager operates the farm with 2 foremen and 8 regular hands. A 7-acre lake affords bass fishing, and there is excellent dove and quail shooting.

The farm is situated on a hard-surfaced road, close to good markets and accessible to main rail and truck shipping points. Price $550,000, stocked and equipped. For complete details call or write for illus. brochure 43243.

Mid-season form indicates a trend for "things to come" later in the meeting. Prep races now are determining contenders for the $50,000 Widener on Feb. 24. Hopefuls for the $50,000 Flamingo on Mar. 3 will be gauged by their performances in the Everglades, Feb. 21.

The winter's most important turf race, Miami Beach Handicap, will be decided on Feb. 17. Don't miss the preliminaries leading up to the main event.
